

WORK REHABILITATION IS BEGUN AT DAYTON

Water Famine Now Fears; Appeals Sent Out for This Necessity; Medical and Other Supplies Are Short; the Mayor Warns Undertakers

DAYTON, O., March 29. The work of rehabilitation began here today as the work of rescue approached its end. The all important weather showed improvement as viewed by refugees, for it was warmer and pleasant to frost and water-chilled bones, but the sanitary experts accepted the rise in temperature with mixed feelings, for the cold had retarded the decomposition of animal matter and refuse.

Secretary of War Garrison conferred with various officials and heads of committees at noon. President Wilson, the death list would not reach 500, and otherwise epitomized the situation, and departed for Cincinnati after a flying view of the city, from an automobile. It is probable that he will go to Columbus tomorrow. A. W. Blackwell, in charge of medical assistance, estimated at 350.

Members of the citizens' relief committee, apprehensive of a water famine, have issued a plea for aid. They believe that there is little chance that the present supply can be made to last until the water mains are in use again. R. H. Grant, head of the relief supplies committee, tonight issued an appeal to all cities in the country asking that as much bottled water as possible be shipped to Dayton immediately. It is especially desired that this water be pure as it is practically impossible to boil the water for drinking purposes.

Medical Supplies Short

Medical supplies were reported widely short by Mayor T. E. Thomas, who is in charge of sanitary work. Supplies were largely destroyed and the medical chests of the militia as well as supplies sent by other cities, have in many instances been delayed or completely lost. Many instances of loss of supplies are being reported.

The activity of certain local undertakers called forth the wrath of Mayor Thomas, who issued a statement in which he called them "knaves." For their selfish activity in seeking out bodies, and it is alleged, sometimes burying them without making report to the authorities. He declared that they were "trying to work a hold-up on helpless friends and relatives of those who have lost their lives."

STRATTON TRUSTES PRAISED BY FARRAR

DENVER, March 29.—Governor Thomas and Attorney General Farrar today asked the supreme court to determine the length of time after passage of a bill before it becomes effective as a law. The state officials are in a quandary through inability to satisfactorily interpret the section of the constitution which provides that a bill shall become a law 30 days after the governor's signature has been affixed thereto, and by the constitutional amendment which gives the people an extra within which to refer a bill. The governor wants to know whether the two 30-day periods are to be considered as one, or whether 150 days must elapse before a bill, not containing an emergency clause, may become a law.

Attorney General Farrar today completed his report on the Mayan Stratton Home investigation, declaring that the trustees of the Stratton estate have handled the estate in a businesslike manner, and that the same should be continued under the administration of the affairs pertaining to the Mayan Stratton home.

WINTER NIGHT CLUB TO HEAR HON. F. D. COBURN

The Hon. F. D. Coburn, secretary of the Kansas state department of agriculture, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Winter Night Club to be held next Thursday evening, April 3, at the Antlers hotel. The subject is "Some Considerations of the Role of Agriculture in the National Development." Mr. Coburn has a national reputation as a speaker on topics in agriculture.

HELP THE SUFFERERS!

Colorado Springs must and will do its part in providing speedy relief for the victims of the flood in Ohio and other middle western states.

The Chamber of Commerce has assumed charge of a fund for this purpose, and will promptly forward the money to Governor Cox of Ohio and other authorized persons. Subscriptions will be received at the offices of The Gazette and the Evening Telegraph, and at the banks.

Mayorality Candidates Give Gazette Brief Statement Outlining Position

Realizing that some of the candidates for mayor had no chance to express their position of municipal matters in the news columns of either newspaper, The Gazette offered to print on this first page of this issue a 100 word statement from each of the six candidates. The candidates accepted and their statements are as follows:

CHARLES L. M'KESSON

I believe that the city should continue to be managed in the most efficient manner possible. TRESTLE WITH 40 MEN ON IT IS SWEEPED AWAY

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., March 29.—A trestle on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad near Jackson, Ill., on which 40 men were working, was swept away today when six miles of track were washed out. Several of the party were marooned on a knoll, and have not yet been rescued. Several are believed to have been drowned.

Along human nerves the electric current travels at from 33 to 80 yards a second.

Globe-Wernicke
Section Bookcase

IN many homes, members of the household have individual libraries in their own rooms or apartments where they can store their most cherished volumes and enjoy them without fear of interruption and without interfering with the pleasures of others. The Globe-Wernicke Bookcase lends itself ideally to individual libraries, because its sectional construction adapts it equally well to large or small book collections. It grows with the library and its units can be rearranged quickly in any number of new and artistic combinations. Exact duplicates of sections are always obtainable.

"Readers' Shopping List"—This little book lists the works of great authors and gives the prices of the same in sets. The list includes the low priced, popular sets as well as the de luxe editions. Every book buyer should have a copy. See the only display of Globe-Wernicke Bookcases in the city at our store and let us give you a copy of this little booklet free.

CLAYTON'S FRIENDS FACE ANOTHER FIGHT

By R. M. MCCLINTOCK.
DENVER, March 29.—Those opponents of Claytonism in the insurance department who fought so hard to eliminate that feature of the new insurance law, under which Clayton might have been reappointed to the office, and who finally won their point, are now face to face with another battle. The Philip Bill, as finally adopted on second reading in the house, provides that the insurance commissioner shall remain under the civil service. But there is another bill on its way through the legislature that will undo all this. The bill providing for the consolidation of the banking and insurance departments takes the consolidated department out from under the civil service, allowing the governor to appoint without examination. It is hardly likely that the governor would dare reappoint Clayton. But in view of the fact that Ammons is president of one of the Colorado companies that will be under the regulation of the insurance commissioner, it is pointed out that Ammons ought to be the first to insist that the commissioner be appointed after examination. Only in this way, it is claimed, can the governor avoid the possible scandal of a charge that he appointed a man subservient to himself, and who would unduly favor the Ammons company. But Ammons seems not to fear such criticism. In fact, he is apparently determined that the commissioner, whoever he is, shall be appointed by himself, and be subject at all times to removal by him. Ammons early professions of friendship for civil service are being rapidly discounted. In view of his stand in this insurance commissioner business, and his indifference to the fact that the senate has passed a bill ripping the very heart out of the civil service law adopted by the people, without a word of protest from the governor.

stomach and captured it. On the following day Shukri Pasha was handed over by the Serbians to General Nisajewichoff, the Bulgarian commander-in-chief. Seventeen thousand Ottoman troops also surrendered to the Serbians. The Bulgarian headquarters staff has been informed that Serbian cooperation with the Bulgarian troops is no longer necessary and the withdrawal of Serbian forces from the vicinity of Adrianople will begin today. CONSTANTINOPLE, March 29.—It is officially reported that a detachment of the enemy which had taken an advanced position to the west of Blyuk Chokmedye has been driven back with considerable loss and the position recaptured.

ANXIETY FELT OVER MORGAN'S CONDITION

"Rest Cure" Prescribed by Specialists Can't Even See His Friends

NEW YORK, March 29.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., was asked tonight in regard to reports from Rome and from London that his father's recovery was not progressing favorably. Mr. Morgan said: "I received a cable message this afternoon which while it contains no details, indicated that my father's condition had been less favorable for the last three days, and, in view of his years, is such as to give rise to considerable anxiety."

"Rest Cure" Ordered.
ROME, March 29.—J. Pierpont Morgan's condition is such that his physicians have prescribed the "rest cure" for him. This means that he will be deprived of seeing even his intimate friends, who will be excluded from his apartments. Officially it is announced that Mr. Morgan's condition remains unchanged and that, while he is not suffering from any specific disease, his physicians, Prof. Giuseppe Bastianelli and Dr. George A. Dixon, are aiming at strengthening his entire organism. For this reason they have ordered complete rest for their patient.

During his first week in Rome, contrary to the advice of the doctors, Mr. Morgan rather overexerted himself and, among other things, went daily to observe the progress in the construction of the American academy on top of Janiculum hill. On Sunday, Mr. Morgan insisted upon attending the Easter services in the American church. He remained throughout the services, which, in the opinion of physicians, generally fatigued him. They then gave stringent instructions that he should avoid any exertions.

Wants to Leave Rome Soon
Herbert L. Satterlee, his son-in-law, in answer to inquiries tonight regarding Mr. Morgan's health, said:

"Mr. Morgan was visited today by Dr. George A. Dixon of New York and Prof. Giuseppe Bastianelli, and both physicians agreed that he is simply overworked. Mr. Morgan slept most of the day because, owing to a great hail held at the hotel, where he is stopping, he passed an uncomfortable night. He enjoyed his meals today, however, and took abundant nourishment."

"Although under the circumstances it is impossible to make any definite plans, Mr. Satterlee is hopeful that Mr. Morgan will be able to leave Rome soon. He expects to go first to his house in London, where it is believed the name-bracing air will benefit him, and will proceed later to one of the health resorts."

CURIOSITY SEEKERS
FLOCKING TO OMAHA

General Relief Committee Has Work Well in Hand at Present Time

OMAHA, Neb., March 29.—Today for the first time since the destructive tornado of Easter Sunday, weather conditions made it possible to view the six miles of ruins with some degree of comfort and thousands of sightseers took advantage of the opportunity. They came from all parts of the country and brought hundreds of cameras with them. Today, also, for the first time, streets in the stricken districts were put into condition for the movement to some degree of automobiles. Railroads have announced excursion fares for tomorrow and another influx is expected. Many of these visitors are taking advantage of the opportunity to make contributions to the relief fund, which, although growing daily, is far below the actual needs of the relief committee. Large corporations have begun to open their purses freely. The International Harvester company sent a check for $1,000 with the statement that it would be glad to help Nebraska farmers in the storm ravaged districts. The Union Pacific, Northwestern and Rock Island railroads have sent $5,000 each to the committee and the large packing house interests have made liberal donations. The fund, including appropriations by the state and city, has reached $260,000. An army of builders continued their work today and hundreds of new and partially new houses and other indications of reconstruction began to appear.

The appearance of crooks from all parts of the country is being met by the police and soldiers in an uncertain manner. Stricter lines are being drawn and soldiers now do patrol duty with loaded rifles and six-shooters in their belts. Arrests are made of all suspicious characters and looting is being held at a minimum.

Committee Issues Statement.

The general relief committee issued the following formal statement today: "The general relief committee in the city of Omaha has matters well in hand. With the funds which will be available for that purpose they will be able to provide all necessary food, clothing and shelter for those who need such assistance. Considerable amounts of money are being received not only from Omaha but from all over the country and are being gratefully accepted."

The restoration committee, appointed by the Commercial club, will begin the work of repairing wrecked homes Monday morning. That committee has a considerable amount on hand and more in prospect. Donations are to be made where absolutely necessary and in other cases money is to be loaned on easy terms for restoration purposes. It is estimated that the committee will be able to obtain $250,000 to be used in that way."

Bond Issue Proposed.
A committee of 15 appointed by the Commercial club yesterday met today and recommended to the executive and public affairs committee of the Com-

CAIRO FEARS BREAK IN LEVEES; TAKING EXTRA PRECAUTIONS

CAIRO, Ill., March 29.—All openings in the stone wall around Cairo are being closed tonight and strengthened with sand bags.

The flood gate, which shuts Cairo off from the drainage district on the north, probably will be closed tomorrow. The river registered 50 feet at 7 o'clock tonight.

Three companies of the Missouri national guard will concentrate today at Cairo, north of here, to patrol and protect the Mississippi river levees. Telegrams sent to Adjutant General O'Meara indicate that the Mississippi may rise higher than ever before, and that the levees are not as strong as they should be.

Major A. V. Adams, chief of the quartermaster's corps of the Missouri national guard, started for Cairo from St. Louis last night, where he arranged to ship 40 tents for the use of refugees in southeast Missouri, whose farm lands now are flooded. In Mississippi county all lying in the lowlands have been warned by telephone to prepare for a flood.

RUSH TROOPS TO SHAWNEETOWN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 29.—Troops and supplies are being rushed to Shawneetown to relieve the flood situation. Responding to a distress message from Sheriff Clayton of Gallatin county, Governor Dumm this afternoon ordered 100 men of the national guard, 150 tents and 5,000 sacks rushed to the flood district at once. The sacks are to be filled with sand and used to strengthen the weakening levees. Because of the high water through the state, Adjutant General O'Meara had considerable difficulty in routing the troops so that they might arrive in Shawneetown in good time.

Banquet Is Called
Women Are Barred

CHICAGO, March 29.—The banquet luncheon of the League of Cook County Woman's Clubs was prevented here today when the hotel in which the luncheon was to be served excluded six negro women who represented a negro woman's club. The luncheon was indefinitely postponed by the officials of the league. The club women decided to stand by the negro organization.

There was no expectation of trouble until the manager of the fashionable hotel where the luncheon was to have been served telephoned to the president of the league that he understood that several negro women were to be among the guests. "We cannot serve them," he said. The club federation will hold a special meeting April 19 to consider action against the hotel.

EFFORT MADE TO WRECK
GREAT WESTERN TRAIN

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—An attempt was made tonight to wreck a Chicago & Great Western passenger train six miles west of this city. Vandals had placed a railroad tie on the track and covered it with cinders to deceive the trainmen. Fortunately, Engineer W. J. Morris saw the obstruction and checked the speed of the train sufficiently to prevent a serious accident.

The heavy trucks of the engine were derailed, but all the cars remained on the track. No one was injured. After a delay of half an hour the train, which left Des Moines this morning, resumed its journey to this city.

CLAYTON'S FRIENDS FACE ANOTHER FIGHT

By R. M. MCCLINTOCK.

DENVER, March 29.—Those opponents of Clayton in the insurance department who fought so hard to eliminate that feature of the new insurance law under which Clayton might have been reappointed to the office, and who finally won their point, are now face to face with another battle. The Phil bill as finally adopted on second reading in the house, provides that the insurance commissioner shall remain under the civil service.

But there is another bill on its way through the legislature that will undo all this. The bill providing for the consolidation of the banking and insurance departments takes the consolidated department out from under the civil service, allowing the governor to appoint without examination.

It is hardly likely that the governor would do so, but Clayton, by the way, is not at all concerned. In view of the fact that Ammons is president of one of the Colorado companies that will be under the regulation of the insurance commissioner, it is pointed out that Ammons ought to be the first to insist that the commissioner be appointed after examination. Only in this way, it is claimed, can the governor avoid the possible scandal of a charge that he appointed a man subservient to himself, and who would underwrite for the Ammons company.

But Ammons seems not to fear such criticism. In fact, he is apparently determined that the commissioner should be appointed after examination of himself and his staff. Ammons' early professions of friendship for civil service are being rapidly discounted, in view of his stand in this insurance commissioner business, and his indifference to the fact that the senate has passed a bill ripping the very heart out of the civil service law adopted by the people, without a word of protest from the governor.

The Bulgarian headquarters staff has been informed that Serbian cooperation with the Bulgarian troops is no longer necessary and the withdrawal of Serbian forces from the vicinity of Adrianople will begin today.

ANXIETY FELT OVER MORGAN'S CONDITION

"Rest Cure" Prescribed by Specialists Can't Even See His Friends

NEW YORK, March 29.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., was asked tonight in regard to reports from Rome and from London that his father's recovery was not progressing favorably. Mr. Morgan said:

"I received a cable message this afternoon which, while it gave no details, indicated that my father's condition had been less favorable for the last three days, and in view of his years, it is not surprising that a considerable anxiety is being felt by his friends."

"Rest Cure" Ordered.

ROME, March 29.—J. Pierpont Morgan's condition is such that his physicians have prescribed the "rest cure" for him. This means that he will be deprived of seeing even his intimate friends, who will be rigidly excluded from his apartments.

Officially it is announced that Mr. Morgan's condition remains unchanged and that while he is not suffering from any specific disease, his physicians, Prof. Giuseppe Bastianelli and Dr. George A. Dixon, are aiming, at strengthening his entire organism. For this reason they have ordered complete rest for their patient.

During his first week in Rome, contrary to the advice of the doctors, Mr. Morgan rather overexerted himself, and among other things, went daily to observe the progress in the construction of the American academy on top of Janiculum hill. On Sunday last, Mr. Morgan insisted upon attending the Easter services in the American church. He remained throughout the services, which, in the opinion of physicians, generally fatigued him. They then gave stringent instructions that he should avoid any exertions.

Wants to Leave Rome Soon.

Herbert L. Satterlee, his son-in-law, in answer to inquiries tonight regarding Mr. Morgan's health, said:

"Mr. Morgan was visited today by Dr. George A. Dixon of New York and Prof. Giuseppe Bastianelli, and both physicians agreed that he is simply overworked. Mr. Morgan slept most of the day because owing to a great deal of work at the hotel where he is stopping, he passed an uncomfortable night. He enjoyed his meals today, however, and took abundant nourishment."

"Although under the circumstances it is impossible to make any definite plans, Mr. Satterlee is hopeful that Mr. Morgan will be able to leave Rome soon. He expects to go first to his house in London, where it is believed the more bracing air will benefit him, and will proceed later to one of the health resorts."

CURIOSITY SEEKERS FLOCKING TO OMAHA

General Relief Committee Has Work Well in Hand at Present Time

OMAHA, Neb., March 29.—Today for the first time since the destructive tornado of Easter Sunday, weather conditions made it possible to view the six miles of ruins with some degree of comfort and thousands of sightseers took advantage of the opportunity. They came from all parts of the country and brought hundreds of cameras with them. Today also for the first time, streets in the stricken districts were put into condition for the movement of some degree of automobiles.

Railroads have announced excursion fares for tomorrow and another influx is expected. Many of these visitors are taking advantage of the opportunity to make contributions to the relief fund, which, although growing daily, is yet far below the actual needs of the relief committee.

Large corporations have begun to open their purses freely. The International Harvester company sent a check for $1,000 with the statement that it would be glad to help Nebraska farmers in the storm ravaged districts. The Union Pacific, Northwestern and Rock Island railroads have sent $5,000 each to the committee and the large packing house interests have made liberal donations. The fund, including appropriations by the state and city, has reached $200,000. An army of builders continued their work today and hundreds of new and partially new roofs and other indications of reconstruction began to appear.

The appearance of crooks from all parts of the country is being met by the police and soldiers in no uncertain manner. Stricter lines are being drawn and soldiers now do patrol duty with loaded rifles and six-shooters in their belts. Arrests are made of all suspicious characters and looting is being held at a minimum.

Committee Issues Statement.

The general relief committee issued the following formal statement today: "The general relief committee in the city of Omaha has matters well in hand. With the funds which will be available for that purpose they will be able to provide all necessary food, clothing and shelter for those who need such assistance. Considerable amounts of money are being received not only from Omaha but from all over the country and are being gratefully accepted."

The restoration committee, appointed by the Commercial club, will begin the work of repairing wrecked homes Monday morning. That committee has a considerable amount on hand and more in prospect. Donations are to be made where absolutely necessary and in other cases money is to be loaned on easy terms for restoration purposes. It is estimated that the committee will be able to obtain $250,000 to be used in that way.

Bond Issue Proposed.

A committee of 15 appointed by the Commercial club yesterday met today and recommended to the executive and public affairs committee of the Com-

Globe-Wernicke Sectional Bookcases

IN many homes, members of the household have individual libraries in their own rooms or apartments where they can store their most cherished volumes and enjoy them without fear of interruption and without interfering with the pleasures of others. The Globe-Wernicke Bookcase lends itself ideally to individual libraries, because its sectional construction adapts it equally well to large or small book collections. It grows with the library and its units can be rearranged quickly in any number of new and artistic combinations. Exact duplicates of sections are always obtainable.

"Booklovers' Shopping List"—This little book lists the works of great authors and gives the prices of the same in sets. The list includes the low priced, popular sets as well as the de luxe editions. Every book buyer should have a copy. See the only display of Globe-Wernicke Bookcases in the city at our store and let us give you a copy of this little booklet free.

CAIRO FEARS BREAK IN LEVEES; TAKING EXTRA PRECAUTIONS

CAIRO, Ill., March 29.—All openings in the stone wall around Cairo are being closed tonight and strengthened with sand bags.

The flood gate, which shuts Cairo off from the drainage district on the north, probably will be closed tomorrow. The river registered 30 feet at 7 o'clock tonight.

Three companies of the Missouri national guard will concentrate today at Commerce, north of here, to patrol and protect the Mississippi river levees. Telegrams sent to Adjutant General O'Meara indicate that the Mississippi may rise higher than ever before, and that the levees are not as strong as they should be.

Major A. V. Adams, chief of the quartermaster's corps of the Missouri national guard, started for Commerce from St. Louis last night, where he arranged to ship 40 tents for the use of refugees in southeast Missouri, whose farm lands now are flooded. In Mississippi county all living in the lowlands have been warned by telephone to prepare for a flood.

RUSH TROOPS TO SHAWNEETOWN

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 29.—Troops and supplies are being rushed to Shawneetown to relieve the flood situation. Responding to a distress message from Sheriff Clayton of Gallatin county, Governor Dunning this afternoon ordered 100 men of the national guard, 150 tents and 5,000 sacks rushed to the flood district at once. The sacks are to be filled with sand and used to strengthen the weakening levees.

Because of the high water through the state, Adjutant General Dickson had considerable difficulty in routing the troops so that they might arrive in Shawneetown in good time.

Banquet Is Called Off When Negro Women Are Barred

CHICAGO, March 29.—The annual luncheon of the League of Cook County Women's Clubs was prevented here today when the hotel in which the luncheon was to be served excluded six negro women who represented a negro woman's club. The luncheon was indefinitely postponed by the officials of the league. The club women decided to stand by the negro organization.

There was no expectation of trouble until the manager of the fashionable hotel where the luncheon was to have been served telephoned to the president of the league that he understood that several negro women were to be among the guests.

EFFORT MADE TO WRECK GREAT WESTERN TRAIN

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—An attempt was made tonight to wreck a Chicago & Great Western passenger train six miles west of this city. Vandals had placed a railroad tie on the track and covered it with cinders to deceive the trainmen. Fortunately, Engineer W. J. Morris saw the obstruction and checked the speed of the train sufficiently to prevent a serious accident. The pony trucks of the engine were derailed, but all the cars remained on the track. No one was injured.

After a Delay of Half an Hour the Train, which Left Des Moines this Morning, resumed its Journey to this City.

The sheriff of Woodbury county, Kansas, is investigating. An engineer was killed in July, 1911, when his train hit a similar obstruction in the same neighborhood.

FEW OTHER BILLS

House bill 374, by Gates and Anderson, regulating the safekeeping of state funds.

House bill 380, by Wright, amending the present law so as to permit the movement of the permanent school fund in bonds of school districts.

Senate bill 60, by Jones, concerning the assumption of risk by employees in case of injury or death.

The senate passed, on third reading, only a few bills of no public importance. Many senators were absent, and today's session was decidedly uninteresting.

Members in both houses, indeed, began to show signs of weariness and motions to adjourn and enact clauses are becoming rare of passage. Personal bills for the prevention of occupational diseases, which he succeeded in getting on the calendar yesterday, suffered that fate. Many members voting against the bill shortly before they did not think it stood any hope of passage this date in the session.

Foremen Made Final Rally.

In spite of Mrs. Riddle's speech, under the sting of which the enacting clause was stricken from Bill's segregated district bill, the forces favoring regulated prostitution gathered themselves together late yesterday afternoon after the committee of the whole rose, and Bill moved that the enacting clause be restored and the bill passed. The vote was 17 for and 27 against, 21 absent, especially by the women of the state.

There will be no appropriation of $10,000 by the state of Colorado for the relief of the Ohio and Indiana flood sufferers. The attorney general has decided that such an appropriation would not be constitutional.

Robinson's "Popularity"

Senator Robinson of El Paso county is as popular among his fellow Republicans in that body as was La Follette during his first years in the United States senate. No occasion is neglected by the machine senators to show to the leader in the fight against Barcia that he is an outcast in the senate.

Yesterday afternoon, at the request of one of the Pueblo senators, a Democratic Senator Hayden, the Huertano Republican senator, permitted his bill for the disconnection of outlying territory from cities and towns to go over for one day.

This morning Senator Robinson requested that the bill lay over until members might study it up. Hayden had said it was an exact copy of the present law, requested simply to correct a defect in the procedure by which the former bill had been passed. Robinson pointed out that whereas the present law provides that disconnection made must continue to bear the burden of any permanent improvement tax laid upon them before disconnection, the Hayden law permits them to escape this burden altogether. But, despite the fact that the existence of the water was disclosed, Hayden refused to permit the bill to go over the majority of the senate sustained him and the bill was passed.

The job of setting Colorado's tax problem proved too big a task for the three members of the house this afternoon, at the week-end, so, after considering house bill No. 348 for an hour, a recess was taken until Monday. The bill is one of the series introduced by the state tax commission. It provides for placing the state on a full cash valuation basis, and accomplishes this by limiting the county levies to such a point that the sums needed can be raised only by assessing property at a full cash value.

It is estimated by members of the tax commission that the state levy can be reduced to two mills, and still produce a greater revenue than at the present level of four mills. It is believed the lower rate will bring out much personal and taxable property, but now assessed, and that the assessment of real property at full cash value instead of at the present ratio of about 33-1-3 per cent will about triple the taxable values.

Hecker-Tierney Tilt. Yesterday, when Hecker's bill against vicious journalism, intended to prevent the publication of details of crime, passed the senate on second reading, Tierney accused Hecker of using language in the senate that no newspaper would dare print, and wondered why a man of his type should be so censorious of the newspapers.

Today, Hecker, during consideration of another bill, suddenly launched a personal attack on Tierney, charging that the latter had purchased whiskey in a dry city, (Canon City), Tierney admitted this, the incident having occurred four years ago. "In those days I did drink," he said. "But I owe no apology to any member of this senate for my drinking. I did it openly and aboveboard, and have never sought to conceal the fact. The only apology I owe is to my family, and that I have made."

PIQUA RECOVERING FROM THE FLOOD; DEATH LOSS IS 13

PIQUA, O., March 29.—Piqua is recovering from the flood which cost 13 lives and hundreds of thousands of dollars property damage west of Main street. The town is again normal, but East Piqua, a residence district, around which the Miami river curves and over which the flood waters surged in a jungle of demolished houses.

In Shawnee, at the southern end of the city, fully 150 houses were swept off their foundations and are visible above the receding water.

The volunteer relief committee, as working day and night to care for the homeless ones and to find the bodies of those drowned. The list of missing has been checked again and again and those in charge today said that at the outside not more than 20 were drowned.

The recovered dead are:
ALBERT DECKER.
ELIZABETH CRUZ.
MRS. CAROLINE DILLON.
JAMES GILLIARD.
MRS. LOUISE HOLLIDORF.
ISAAC KARN.
MRS. GEORGE SCHLOSSER.
GEORGE SUTLE.
MISS EVA THOMAS.
J. C. WARD.
MRS. SARAH WOLFEYTH.
C. B. JAMISON.
JOHN REIBER.

Deaths of heroism were frequent and one of the most influential citizens, Attorney Clark B. Jamison, was drowned while seeking to save a child from a house in the center of East Piqua. His body was found today near A. V. Dewesse of the rescue committee.

The T. M. C. A. building has been made into headquarters and the committee, under Rev. E. W. Coia of the Church of Christ, is working there to aid the suffering. Mrs. E. M. Fordyce, field worker for the Associated Charities, is in charge of the distribution of supplies and 1,000 meals, and many hundreds of garments have been distributed. The flood district is patrolled by the militia. Telephone and telegraph companies are nearly swamped by the volume of business. Visitors from nearby towns crowded the streets today.

No more bodies are believed to be in the district from which the water has subsided and a search is being made farther down the river.

curled four years ago. "In those days I did drink," he said. "But I owe no apology to any member of this senate for my drinking. I did it openly and aboveboard, and have never sought to conceal the fact. The only apology I owe is to my family, and that I have made."

They then drew a word picture of Hecker, he said. "During the campaign," he said, "I received a letter from one of your beer-drinking associates (the German-American, pseudo-liberty league) trying to coerce me into support of the saloons and breweries. I tore it up and threw it into the wastebasket. And that's all I care for any of your threats—you and your breweries. They never have controlled me and never will, either by influence or by threats of exposure of what I may have done in the past."

Senator Barcia today introduced into the senate his resolution calling for a new constitutional convention. Under the rules the resolution goes over until Monday.

NEW CURRENCY PLAN WILL BE PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, March 29.—One of the first currency reform bills to be introduced at the special session of congress will be a measure by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, a Democratic member of the committee on banking and currency. It will provide for 20 individual banking associations, each supreme in its own territory, and with no central agency of control, as was proposed by the national monetary commission.

It will cost $18 a minute to talk by telephone from New York to San Francisco.

PERU HAS TOO MANY COFFINS; NINE ARE KNOWN TO BE DEAD

PERU, Ind., March 29.—Dr. W. A. Evans, former health commissioner of Chicago, with a carload of sanitary equipment, is expected to arrive here tonight to superintend the work of preventing epidemics which may follow the destructive flood in Peru occasioned by the overflow from the Wabash river. The waters have reached until now the river is within its own banks and sorrowing people are returning to their homes to find them wrecked and besmeared with mud.

The known dead are:
MRS. LOUIS STUMM.
MRS. JAMES MOSSMAN.
MISS BESSIE SHIELDS.
MRS. ROSE STELLER.
JOHN KAY.
EDWARD KELLOGG.
FRED MAYES.
BEN YORK.
BERT SMITH.

Four of the men lost their lives while rescuing others. Mrs. Stumm and Miss Shields went down with Mayes. There may be many more dead, and their bodies washed away, as people along the river report having seen many bodies floating away. The property loss will reach $3,000,000.

Many Reports Unfounded.
The reports that there was 200 dead, that smallpox had broken out in the court house, and that many robbers were killed all were utterly false.

In the rush and excitement one man sent forth a request for 200 coffins, which have been received and have been placed in storage as they are not needed. This report caused untold anxiety to relatives out of this city.

The response to the call for help has been wonderful. Fifty carloads of provisions have poured into Peru since Wednesday morning. Cities as far north as Kansas, Mich., Elkhart, and South Bend, south to Indianapolis and Lebanon, west to Danville, Ill., and east to Fort Wayne have heard the call and have responded very liberally, so generously in fact that at the present time there is too much food of a perishable nature for immediate use. The Eagles at South Bend sent 2,000 gallon jugs of water which was especially welcome as the city water plant was out of commission until today.

ZANESVILLE, DEATH LIST IS INCREASED

ZANESVILLE, O., March 29.—(Via telephone to Pittsburgh)—Relief reached Zanesville late this afternoon, for the first time. Five additions were made to the list of known dead, reported this morning, bringing the total to 40. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad construction crew working from New Concord, succeeded in reaching a point within two miles of the depot in Zanesville. A dozen collapsible boats were received. By this means many persons were rescued from houses that for days have been surrounded by water.

Additional companies of the Ohio National Guard arrived during the day and relieved the local companies. Rigid martial law was enforced.
Details of the plan for cleaning up the city were completed when the additional loads of manufacturing concerns, employing some 6,000 men, decided to turn their forces over to the authorities for street work.
The gas supply, which has been plentiful, failed entirely this afternoon, and 500 men were sent to the coal mines near by for fuel, which was distributed to the destitute.
The Nurses association of Muskingum county sent 150 trained nurses. Doctors are arriving.

ROOSEVELT VOICES STRONG SENTIMENTS ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE

MADISON, Wis., March 29.—In response to a telegram sent by Richard Lloyd Jones, asking that he write Governor McGovern his position on woman suffrage, Theodore Roosevelt today telegraphed the governor as follows: "I earnestly hope that all progressive men in the Wisconsin legislature will support the suffrage amendment. We in America should lead the way in this movement. We do not have to point to what has been done abroad. The Pacific coast and Rocky mountain states have tried the experiment and it has worked admirably."

There is no difference between the work of the best women and the best men. It seems to me sheer nonsense when both are doing the highest kind of work for good citizenship, that the artificial line of sex should be drawn, as regards one form and only one form or that work, the exercise of the right of suffrage."

Licking rivers are receding. A telephone cable was stretched across the Muskingum to Putnam and communication with that part of the city was restored by boat.

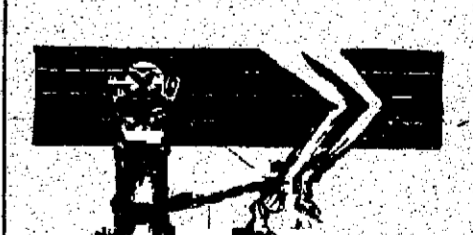

Five bodies were found in the northern section of Putnam. They have not been identified.

Wire fences grounded at about every fifth post will be practically proof against harm by lightning.

Japanese paper umbrellas and lanterns are waterproofed with an oil extracted from rubber plant seeds.

If You Feel Fagged to a Finish and Utterly Used Up Here is Quick Relief.

Half the people you meet complain of weary muscles, stagnant brain, tangled nerves, and a wonderful desire to lay down and just quit. Most of these people have been using perineas, that spasmodically flare up the nerves only to die down again, as die they must. Avoid nerve stimulants. Bear in mind that this worn out feeling is due to poor blood, to bacteria in the water you drink; to the multiplying of destructive germs in the blood faster than they can be overcome by the white corpuscles; and to what is known as auto-toxemia, that condition where the venous or impure blood accumulates faster than it can be replaced by the red arterial blood.

If you feel played out go to any drug store and ask for a bottle of S. S. S. Swift's Sure Specific. Here is a remedy that gets at work in a twinkling; it just naturally rushes right into your blood, scatters germs right and left, up and down and sideways.
You feel better at once, not from a stimulant, not from the action of drugs, but from the rational desire to lay down and just quit. ELECTION VEHICLES IS FORBIDDEN BY CHARTER

City Clerk Chapman is calling attention to the provision of the charter which forbids the use of more than one carriage or other vehicle by a candidate on election day, and that only by filing a statement of his desire to do so with the city clerk at least one day before the election. This vehicle may be used only for infirm persons. A violation of this ruling disqualifies the candidate from holding the office for which he is running, and all the elective officers of the city are required to take an oath when put into office that they have not violated the rule.

The ruling is section 110, article 11, it reads as follows:

No candidate for any elective office shall directly or indirectly use or cause to be used in aid of his candidacy on the day of any municipal election more than one carriage or other vehicle, to and voters to get to the polling place. Such carriage or other vehicle shall be used to transport only those voters who by reason of illness or other infirmity are unable to go to the polling place unless an affidavit is filed with the city clerk at least one day before the election.

Any candidate desiring to use the one carriage or other vehicle above mentioned shall not less than one day prior to the day of election file in the office of the clerk a statement of such desire on his part which shall contain such a description of the carriage or vehicle he desires to use as will readily identify the same. No other carriage or vehicle than the one so described shall be used by the said candidate, or by any committee or association promoting his candidacy for the purpose of conveying voters to the polling places on the day of election.

A violation of any of the provisions of this section by any candidate shall disqualify him from holding the office for which he is a candidate.

Every elective officer of the city shall at the time he takes the oath of office be required to take and subscribe an oath that he has not violated any of the provisions of this section.

PEOPLES' WILL BEFORE LEGAL TECHNICALITIES

In denying the petition for an injunction asked for by the Socialist party at Cripple Creek to restrain the city clerk there from printing on the ballots the names and party designations of candidates nominated at the primary by the Republicans, Progressives and Democrats, Judge J. W. Shear, in the district court at Cripple Creek Friday, ruled that the will of the people is superior to legal technicalities.

An assembly as required by law was held by neither the Republicans, Progressives nor Democrats but when the primary was held more than 1,300 voted and nominated candidates by writing names in the blank spaces on the ballots. The Socialists nominated candidates for the primary at an assembly.

Judge Shear declared that the wishes of more than 1,300 voters cannot be disregarded because a party central committee neglected or did not see fit to call an assembly.

Attorneys for the Socialists excepted to the ruling and were told by Judge Shear that the court would do everything to facilitate an appeal to the supreme court if they so desired. It is understood that no appeal will be taken.

A DAINY TOILET ARTICLE

Every lady who desires to keep up her attractive appearance, while at theater, attending receptions, when shopping, while traveling and on all occasions should carry in her purse a booklet of Gauraud's Oriental Beauty Leaves. This is a dainty little booklet of exquisitely perfumed powdered leaves which are easily removed and applied to the skin. It is invaluable when the face becomes moist and flushed and is far superior to a powder puff as it does not spill and soil the clothes.

It removes dirt, soil and grease from the face, imparting a cool delicate bloom to the complexion. Put up in white and pink and sent anywhere on receipt of 10 cents in stamps or coin. E. T. Hopkins, 37 Great Jones street, New York.

CAMEL BORN AT THE ZOO GARDENS YESTERDAY

There is a new baby camel at the Zoo. It was born yesterday, and seems to be thriving on cow's milk. This is the fourth baby that Old Nance, the lone female camel at the Zoo, has presented Alderman John Coughlin of Chicago, owner of Colorado Springs summer resort. Also it is the second one that she has refused to nurse.

After the calf was born yesterday, and the mother refused to nurse it, Manager Walter Colburn had her roped and thrown and an attempt was made to milk her, but the nourishment failed to appear. Then Colburn put in a hurry call to a dairy and bought a nursing bottle with an extra long rubber nipple. The baby got its long lip over the nipple, and last evening was resting comfortably, the same of the herculean young manager of Coughlin's animals.

All four of the young camels born at the Zoo are living, and a very respectable herd is growing up. It is a bit shy on mothers, however. This latest one has been named "Kai-to-Kee," in honor of J. Alard Jeancon's musical play that pleased large audiences at the Burns last week as the Elks annual offering to the festivities of the city.

CANDIDATES ADDRESS SOUTH END VOTERS

About 100 people gathered at the Reed house in the south end of Friday night at which four candidates for mayor and 18 for councilman were present to talk in the interests of the respective campaigns. Only a few, however, made speeches.

Mayor Avery took the floor first and after talking about 25 minutes a half was called and an order made limiting the remarks of mayoralty candidates to 15 minutes and those of councilman to 10 minutes. City Attorney McKesson was the next speaker, followed by O. P. Grimes, S. A. Garth, who did not talk. Of the councilman candidates Mrs. Jenny Shelley Boyd was the only one to take the floor.

Four Recommended for Police Positions

Commissioner Himebaugh and Chief Burns yesterday recommended the appointment to the police department of Job E. Adams, James Floyd Neff, Albert S. Fullam and Hugh D. Barber to take the places of Patrolmen Dicus, Frost and Ten Eyck, who resigned following investigations, and Patrolman Pat Cochrane who left the department months ago to engage in other work.

With the exception of Adams all the prospective appointees have had police experience, either in this city or elsewhere, and all are recommended by the commissioner and the chief as desirable men for the department. They are certified to as having passed the civil service examination held a few weeks ago. Mayor Avery said he would not make the appointments until he had personal talks with the men, two of whom he does not know. It is expected that action on the appointments will be taken at Wednesday's meeting of the city council.

SELDOMRIDGE GETS HIS SHARE OF THE PATRONAGE

Congressman H. H. Seldomridge of this city will name Colorado Springs next postmaster, according to the division of patronage among the representatives of Colorado at Washington. The Colorado delegation has decided on its plan of procedure, of which Mr. Seldomridge was not certain before he left here. He also will have the power of appointing other postmasters not of the first district except the Denver postmaster, which is left to Senators Thomas and Shafter. The senators also will have the distribution of the land office, collector of internal revenue, customs surveyor, federal district attorney and Denver mint.

Congressman Edward Keating will make the postmaster appointments in the Arkansas and San Luis valleys, and Congressman Kindel will take all of the first district except the Denver postmaster, which is left to Senators Thomas and Shafter. The senators also will have the distribution of the land office, collector of internal revenue, customs surveyor, federal district attorney and Denver mint.

MAN SUPPOSED TO BE HERE HEIR TO ESTATE

A letter has been received at the local postoffice asking for information as to the whereabouts of Charles A. Rosa. He is one of the heirs to an estate which has been left to the children of Sophia S. Rosa, according to the letter. The letter came from Heltinger, N. D., and is signed by Louis H. Rosa.

Charles A. Rosa, according to the letter, ran a store in Mooker many years ago, but came to Colorado Springs in about 1882. At the last trace the writer of the letter has of him he was in the mining business in Colorado Springs. He is not known here.

"Nothing has done," Avery came to the about the hotel, and then I called to the city attorney and we put the matter in writing in a letter to the commissioner. We waited 30 days, and Commissioner Himebaugh never mentioned the letter. The letter instructed him to investigate the matter. The matter was then brought up to open council and the fire works started. Himebaugh voted to keep the license in his own hotel. I gave him the license. After the expiration of the last chief of police, the city was for 19 weeks without a chief, and this because Commissioner Himebaugh would never mention any name to me or talk them over, but would speak them in council meeting. The commissioner makes the nomination and the mayor cannot do anything unless there are candidates nominated. I was not acquainted with any of the chief of police who were any of the city. I had to accept him. Even last Saturday the commissioner nominated a man for detective whom I had never heard of, saying that he was at the head of the civil service list.

Teamwork Needed.
"You've got to have teamwork in this council. This is not a one-man town. Are you going to hold the mayor responsible for all the same things? Would you like to be held responsible for a department whose officials you have no power of appointing? Voters of the city, who is to blame in the present police scandal? I have never failed to remove a man when his actions were brought to my attention."
Mayor Avery opened his talk with the statement that he appeared more as a public servant than as a candidate for mayor.

"I have met problems," he said, "but none so puzzling as whether or not to stand for reelection. Whether I take office again or not is up to you, and you will decide at the polls. I don't see why you are anxious to be mayor. True, it is an honor to be selected to serve your fellow citizens for four years, but it is not all sunshine and roses, holding office in Colorado. I am always sad when officers are called around to me, that I cannot give them all positions. There are five other candidates for this office. I will not deal in slurs or hard words on their candidates. However, my name will appear on the ballot next Tuesday, and I will leave it to you to elect and disapprove judgment."

Mayor Avery then went into the discussion of the financial department, telling of the new method of accounting, the insurance feature of city officials, bonds, and the city hall bonds. He disapproved the refunding issue for city hall bonds, stating that no bonds are due for four years, and that these can be paid off in four years without paying the taxes.

Referring to the department of public works and property, the mayor spoke in glowing terms of the paving, widened walks, ornamental lights, etc. He told of the reduction in the cost of light from 3 cents to 2 cents a kilowatt, and gave the credit for this to the department.

Well-Known Social Expert Will Speak Here Wednesday

Wednesday there will be in Colorado Springs a man who has done work in the long struggle to work for a realization of the social and opportunity in the transformation of social institutions—the making of the social world of business and industry into a real expression of the spirit of brotherhood for which Christianity stands. Such men as Dr. Steiner, Dr. Stollen, Prof. Reichenbach and Dr. Harry Ward, to name only a few who have worked for a better recognition of the place and opportunity of the church in the modern world, were seen in their efforts to bring about a social change. For everywhere these men and their coworkers are meeting with a heavy, widespread, and increasing social change. Dr. Ward, who from Chicago holds a position of national prominence, his power in moving his hearers to seek a new and deeper faith. Dr. Ward may without hesitancy be called a modern prophet. Everywhere he challenges attention with his direct attack on social wrongs, however it comes to a social change, and sounds a trumpet call to the churchmen to make righteousness and brotherhood prevail in all the affairs of life. A recent San Francisco paper speaks of his address in that city before the Labor council as being the most effective and inspiring address of the kind in the city. He will speak in the city at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

ence in the great campaign of social service that is being entered upon by the 15,000,000 members of the 33-Protestant denominations, which have joined forces for effective work under the name of "The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ." He has for years been a student of social problems, not only in this country but abroad as well, having made several trips around the world for the purpose of learning at first hand the facts concerning the daily lives of the world's workers. To a broad experience and trained mind, Dr. Ward adds a warm sympathy with those whose burdens are heavy and a burning purpose to organize Christian men to their duty in bringing about a condition of society which shall be truly fraternal. He preaches a gospel of a "here-and-now religion," a vital faith in the workableness of religion in the associations of daily life, not only in the sense usually meant by the church, but in a bigger and more daring belief in its application to business, politics and every social relation.

NEW YORK CITY CLERK CONFESSES TO SEVERAL ALLEGED BOMB OUTRAGES

NEW YORK, March 29.—H. J. Klotz, the city clerk injured recently by the explosion of a bomb which he was constructing, confessed on the death bed today, according to the police, that he had constructed and mailed the two bombs which resulted in the death of Grace T. Taylor last year and Mrs. Madeline Herrera, a few months ago. Also the bomb which exploded last March in the library of Judge Otto Rosalsky. A few minutes later Klotz died.

Klotz was sinking rapidly and sent for the police, according to the statement given out by them tonight. Klotz confessed, according to the statement, that he had put the bomb in the library of Judge Rosalsky because he "didn't like him." The agitation over the efforts of Folke E. Brandt to obtain his release from prison, Klotz said, Judge Rosalsky had sentenced Brandt to 20 years for a robbery in the home of Mortimer L. Schiff. Asked why he had sent the Grace Taylor bomb he replied: "I don't know why that's all." Later he admitted that it was on account of a quarrel with her. The police believe Klotz was enraged over having been forbidden Mrs. Taylor's home after a young woman who lived with her had rejected his attentions. When pressed about the Herrera bomb, the police statement says, Klotz finally nodded his head affirmatively and added that he had sent the bomb "for experimental purposes." He died without explaining in what the "experiment" consisted. An attorney for the Klotz family tonight made a statement declaring the police account of the dying man's "confession" was "preposterous." A French federation of cotton spinners has established a laboratory for determining the percentage of moisture or any abnormal dryness in cotton, staple that is too dry being regarded as defective. At a national educational conference recently held in Pekin the government was asked to take steps toward supplying China with a phonetic alphabet to replace the present word signs.

News of Local Courts

Alleging Cruelty. Marie Wehrle yesterday in the county court filed suit for divorce against Emil Wehrle. When in a rage, she says, he struck her with his open hand, cursed her and called her vile names and refused to be kind to their child, Karl, 16 months old. When their second child was born last December, she alleged Wehrle refused to get her the care of a physician. Mrs. Wehrle asserts that her husband refused to go to work when his father secured him a job in the Colorado Midland shops at Colorado City. He is able-bodied and capable of earning $2 to $2.50 a day as a common laborer, she claims. Although he is a Jeweler by trade, Mrs. Wehrle in her petition for divorce asks alimony of $25 a month for support of the child and custody of the child. The couple were married in Golden, November 1, 1910.

In default of $300 bond each, Maggie Green, Corrine Hinchison, Arthur Jones and Forrest Williams were committed to jail yesterday from Justice Himebaugh's court for appearance at trial set for April 4, on a charge of disturbing the peace. They were involved in a free-for-all fight early Saturday morning in the rear of 337 West Costilla street.

Being an occupation received a job in police court yesterday when three professional alms-seekers were brought in for trial. James Davis of Trinidad was fined $10, but on condition that he leave town by noon the time was suspended. W. B. Kinney of Oldham City was fined $5 and remanded to jail in default of payment. H. O'Neal was fined $20 and sent to jail to serve out the time. Jack Plunk was sent to jail in default of payment of an $8 fine, on a charge of intoxication.

CHICAGO STREET CAR MEN GET INCREASE 2 CTS. HOUR

CHICAGO, March 29.—The traction arbitration board today made public its report of its investigation into the controversy between the street car lines and their employees and awarded the employees an increase in pay from 30 to 32 cents an hour as the maximum compensation. China has been hit hard by the increased cost of living. The price of rice has jumped 50 per cent since 1911—due partly to the famine and more to the destruction of crops during the fighting on the Yangtze. In parts of New England during the seventeenth century voters had to reside in a "stone house of the dimensions of 20 feet by 15, with one or more brick chimneys or chimneys."

BANKER KILLED WHEN HE REFUSES TO GIVE UP MONEY TO BANDIT

BARNES, Kan., March 29.—Robert I. Brown, cashier of the Barnes State bank, was shot and killed today by a man who had robbed the institution. Later a posse of citizens shot the robber to death as he was trying to escape from town with a bag of gold.

Brown was at the counter counting money when he was confronted by a masked man holding a revolver. "Put 'em up," was the robber's command.

Brown instead ducked, reached into a drawer, got his revolver and fired. The robber, without effect in the robber's direction, fired a bullet through the head of Brown.

John Potter, assistant cashier, appeared at the back door and was met by two bullets from the robber's revolver, neither of which struck him. "You better not get in this," sneered the robber, who kept Potter covered while he gathered into a bag $500 in gold that had been spread before Brown on the counter.

He then left the bank on the run. Citizens alerted by the sound of shots were in pursuit before he had covered a block.

Within three blocks of the bank he felt before a volley of bullets still clutching the bag of gold in his hand. He died within a few minutes.

The robber could not be identified. He apparently was about 35 years old and is believed to have been a member of the "Wymore gang" of bank robbers that has robbed a number of banks along the Nebraska-Kansas line within the last few years.

The wound which killed the robber—there was only one found on his body—was made by a bullet fired, it is believed, by a 17-year-old boy, James Clark, a clerk, who led the chase. It entered the left side just below the heart.

STRIKERS THREATEN ENGLAND THIS YEAR

By PHILLIP EVERETT.
LONDON, March 29.—There is, up to the present, no real danger of a general strike in the air again, and 1913 promises to be troubled by strikes as was 1912. Especially is this evident in the railroad world. A time and again during the last two months we have been on the verge of a partial railroad strike which might very easily become general. The big English railroad companies have learned nothing from the past. The wages of the men are miserable when compared with the cost of living, and the men, less foolish than the companies that employ them, have learned a lesson from experience. Their eyes have been opened to the value of collective action. The new National Union of Railmen with its 200,000 members and its weekly increasing strike fund of half a million sterling wields an enormous power, which it is not safe to suppose will remain dormant very much to get on with. The companies are wise enough voluntarily to improve the conditions of their employees. And what makes the matter more serious still is the fact that there seems to be a growing alliance between the railwaymen and the other transport workers, who are again spoiling for a fight.

If the great strike is not precipitated by some accidental quarrel before that time, England will certainly be in the throes of another great railroad strike by November, and then the government will find it harder than ever to act as arbitrator with any hope of success. The men have not yet forgotten how much the government hampered itself in regard to the railway bill by previous pledges to the railway companies.

HOW THE DEMOCRATS KEPT THEIR PLEDGES

Not Single Section of Platform Was Carried Out in Montana

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The legislature of Montana has adjourned and its record is made up. The Democrats had a majority in each house. The governor is a Democrat, giving that party complete control of the state administration, and the legislature. Here are some of the pledges upon which these Democrats were elected.

- (1) Economic. "We are opposed to the creation of unnecessary offices."
- (2) An effective public utilities law.
- (3) Workman's compensation and employers' liability acts.
- (4) An act to regulate the appropriation of water for power purposes.
- (5) A blue sky law to protect the people against the sale of worthless stocks.
- (6) A grain classification and warehouse and elevator control law.

How Promises Were Kept.
This is how the Montana Democrats kept the faith of their pledges to the people.

(1) The aggregate of appropriations for the session is larger than for any other session in the history of the state. More new offices were created than by any other Montana legislature. The direct expenses of the session were the greatest on record.

(2) A public utilities commission bill was passed, which is denounced by good citizens throughout the state, including a number of Democratic members of the legislature who voted against it as being a mere pretense without possibility of effective service and designed to cheat the people by ostensibly fulfilling the pledge while, in fact, satisfying the demands of the "Invisible Government," which is the real dominant force in Montana.

(3) Not even a pretense of a workman's compensation and employers' liability act was made. The violation of the pledge was absolute and incontrovertible.

(4) The platform pledge to regulate the appropriation of water for power purposes was wholly repudiated. The people of the state were again betrayed, but the will of the "Invisible Empire" was heeded.

(5) An alleged blue sky law was passed, but it is like the public utilities law, a mere pretense which will not protect the people against the schemes of fake company promoters. There is a water power combination operating in Montana which is seeking to include a $14,000,000 concentration camp capitalized by the appropriation of $38,000,000 of additional water, so as to give it the fine record total of $100,000,000. To guard against any possible interference with this gigantic grab, provision was carefully made that even the feeble act which was passed should not go into effect until next January.

(6) A warehouse bill following closely the lines of the statute which has been eminently successful in the state of Washington, was buried in committee. Instead, a toothless and nerveless bill, approved by the elevating and gutting combine, was put through, another pledge broken under the pretense of fulfilling.

property is fully taxed. This measure was defeated.

Prominent among the measures passed by this Democratic legislature, however, was one permitting railroads to issue passes within the state to members of the legislature and to state officers.

The Democrats are numerically in control of both houses of the Montana legislature, but the astounding fact was pointed out by observers of the session at Helena that the senate was Republican this year, at it had been in the past, notwithstanding its apparent Democratic majority. The agents of the "Invisible Empire," were in control as usual. In the closing hours of the session, the "Invisible Empire" threw off even the pretense of being upon any of the Democratic committee and resorted to the services of the Republican boss whose loyalty had been tried and proved, and this man made all the motions that related to bills before the upper house.

Thus Democrats, Republicans and the Amalgamated Copper company were again all together in Montana, with the Amalgamated bossing the job and getting what it wanted, regardless of pledges to the people.

In England there has been patented a combination of opera glasses and sound intensifier for the use of players whose hearing is impaired.

CHILD HAD SCALD HEAD VERY BADLY

Eruption Came as Pimples on Face and Scalp. Less Than One Box of Cuticura Ointment and One Cake of Cuticura Soap Cured.

Arapahoe, Colo.—My daughter, while an infant, had head very badly. The eruption came as pimples that soon would form. If the scab was removed yellow excretion would ooze out and would spread where the excretion went. It was on her face and scalp. I used Cuticura Soap for her every time she was bathed, using the Cuticura Ointment afterward, also every night. I used less than a box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap and she was soon cured of the trouble. (Signed) Mrs. Clyde Snyder, Sept. 22, 1912.

HANDS BEGAN TO CHAP

Look Box 81, Ovid, Colo.—My hands were the biggest part of the day and they began to chap. They were in bad shape. My hands chapped so they would bleed quite badly and were red and rough. I began to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment, washed with the Cuticura Soap three times a day and used the Cuticura Ointment at night and had relief in three days' time. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment a week and a half and they completely cured me. (Signed) Julius Beisel, April 30, 1912.

15,000 HOMELESS KENTUCKY SIDE OF OHIO RIVER

CINCINNATI, March 29.—With nearly 15,000 persons in the towns on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river driven from their homes by the rising yellow tide sweeping down the Ohio valley and with more than 3,000 homes altogether or partly submerged, the flood situation in this vicinity is assuming grave proportions hourly. Here the water front buildings are all partly under water and much damage has been done.

An increase in the river stage here will mean the isolation of the city from the Kentucky side and the stoppage of train service in this direction. Late today the government gauge showed 67 feet, and according to the weather bureau the indications were that before many hours there would be 68 feet in the river here.

So far only one life has been lost as a direct result of the high waters here. Miss Anna Smith, the first victim drowned, lost her life in an attempt to reach Newport in a skiff that capsized in midstream.

Worse on Kentucky Side.
Newport and Covington, opposite Louisville, are surrounded by water. Conditions there are more than elsewhere, and nearly 10,000 persons have been driven from their homes. Relief measures, however, are adequate. The water works has continued in operation, the electric light plants have ceased, but gas plants are not interrupted.

In the Kentucky towns of Dorton, Ludlow, Bellevue and Bromley, identical conditions exist, but in their cases all communication with Cincinnati, Newport and Covington has been suspended.

In these towns there are a total of 5,000 persons being cared for by relief committees, and more than 500 homes have been flooded. Property damage will be immense, especially as this is the second time within three months that the Ohio valley has suffered from high water.

Street car officials here announced that when the river has reached 68 feet, the power plants which operate the car lines to the Kentucky shore, will be out of commission and communication with Cincinnati will be cut off. So far only two of the five bridges across the Ohio at this point have been seriously affected.

Railway service into and out of Cincinnati virtually is at a standstill. Louisville Is Prepared.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 29.—With the Ohio river showing a rise of only one-tenth of a foot an hour and no developments between Louisville and Cincinnati to indicate anything higher than the original prediction of a crest at Louisville of 45 feet, the only disconcerting reports received here today were these from Parkersburg, W. Va., telling of a stage of 84 feet. Later, reassuring advices from Washington were received where flood experts in the weather bureau said that 54 feet at Parkersburg had been probably misunderstood as 64.

Reports received today and tonight from points between Louisville and Cincinnati on the east and Louisville and the Mississippi river on the west, told of precautions taken to prevent any loss of life when the highest stages were reached in the Ohio.

Town Wiped Out

LAWRENCEBURG, Ky., March 29.—The south levee at Lawrenceburg broke at 2:50 this afternoon. A wall of water poured through the opening and went raging through the center of the town, tearing up all before it.

Houses were crushed like eggshells and the wreckage was carried four miles along the Miami bottoms to the fill on the main line of the Big Four. The residents were warned yesterday to leave town and no lives were lost. No estimate of the damage can be made now. Water is standing six feet deep in the streets and the river is rising slowly.

The Swiss government has decided in favor of the single phase system for the electrification of its railroads in preference to the third rail, as costing 10 per cent less to make the change.

BRIQUETTES OF SAWDUST

From the Scientific American.

A new industry may be successfully combined with the planing mill—that of making of the sawdust briquettes to be used for firing under the boilers, thus considerably decreasing the cost of the fuel to the mill owner. This is being very advantageously done in Germany.

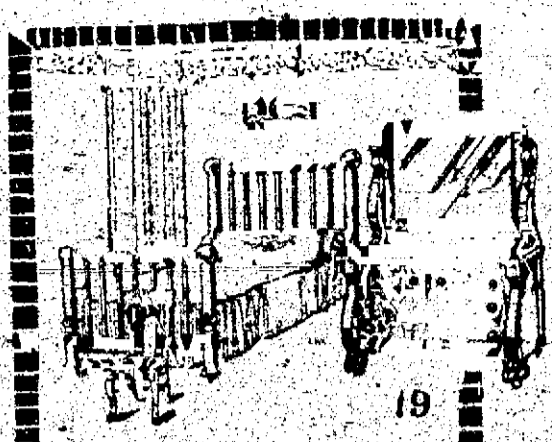

The sawdust is automatically gathered and conveyed to a place near the presses. From here it is carried over a heated belt-conveyor to a drying room. There is a cylindrical revolving drum about two feet in diameter and 20 feet long.

In this drum the sawdust is partially dried, the pitch contained in the wood is softened, acting hereafter as a binder. From here the sawdust is conveyed over an incline to the after-dryer of the same shape as the first dryer, which forms a part of the press.

Here it is submitted to a higher temperature to drive off all the moisture, and kept running forward toward the end of the after-dryer by rotating paddles. At the end of this after-dryer the sawdust falls through an opening into the troughs. At the end of each pressing operation, which takes place about 24 times a minute, a briquette is made about 3 1/2 x 1 1/2 inches, weighing between one-half and three-quarters of a pound. The installation is very cheap, costing in Germany only $24.

BRIQUETTES OF SAWDUST

From the Scientific American. A new industry may be successfully combined with the planing mills—that of making of the sawdust briquettes to be used for firing under the boilers, thus considerably decreasing the cost of the fuel to the mill owner. This is being very advantageously done in Germany.

The sawdust is automatically gathered and conveyed to a place near the presses. From here it is carried over a heated belt conveyor to a drying room. This has a cylindrical revolving drum about two feet in diameter and 20 feet long.

In this drum the sawdust is partially dried, the pitch contained in the wood is softened, acting hereafter as a binder. From here the sawdust is conveyed over an incline to the after-dryer of the same shape as the first dryer, which forms a part of the press.

Here it is submitted to a higher temperature to drive off all the moisture and kept running forward toward the end of the after-dryer by rotating paddles. At the end of this after-dryer, the sawdust falls through an opening into the troughs.

STRIKERS THREATEN ENGLAND THIS YEAR

Fear Railroads Will Face Crisis Before November of 1913

By PHILLIP EVERETT. LONDON, March 29.—There is unrest in the air again, and 1913 promises to be troubled by strikes as was 1912. Especially is this evident in the railroad world. Time and again during the last two months we have been on the verge of a partial railroad strike which might very easily become general. The big English railroad companies have learned nothing from the past.

The wages of the men are miserable when compared with the cost of living, and the men, less foolish than the companies that employ them, have learned a lesson from experience. Their eyes have been opened to the value of collective action. The new National Union of Railwaymen with its 200,000 members and its weekly increasing strike fund of half a million sterling, wields an enormous power, which it is not safe to suppose will remain dormant very much to beget, unless the companies are wise enough voluntarily to improve the conditions of their employees. And what makes the matter more serious still is the fact that there seems prospects of an offensive and defensive alliance between the railwaymen and the other transport workers, who are again spooling for a fight.

If the great strike is not precipitated by some accidental quarrel before that time, England will certainly be in the throes of another great railroad strike by November, and then the government will find it harder than ever to act as arbitrator with any hope of success. The men have not yet forgotten how much the government hampered itself in regard to the railway bill by previous pledges to the railroad companies.

BANKER KILLED WHEN HE REFUSES TO GIVE UP MONEY TO BANDIT

BARNES, Kan. March 29.—Robert I. Brown, cashier of the Barnes State bank, was shot and killed today by a man who had robbed the institution. Later a posse of citizens shot the robber to death as he was trying to escape from town with a bag of gold. Brown met death when, instead of obeying the order to throw up his hands, he grabbed a revolver and fired at the robber.

Brown was at the counter counting money when he was confronted by a masked man, pointing two revolvers at him. "Put 'em up!" was the robber's command.

Brown instead, ducked, reached into a drawer, got his revolver and had emptied it without effect in the robber's direction before a bullet through the head killed him.

John Potter, assistant cashier, appeared at the back door and was met by two bullets from the robber's revolver, neither of which struck him. "You better not get in this," sneered the robber, who kept Potter covered while he gathered into a bag $500 in gold that had been spread before Brown on the counter.

He then left the bank on the run. Citizens alarmed by the sound of the door were in pursuit before he had covered a block.

Within three blocks of the bank he fell before a volley of bullets still catching the bag of gold in his hand. He died within a few minutes.

The robber could not be identified. He apparently was about 35 years old and is believed to have been a member of the "Wyandotte gang" of bank robbers that has robbed a number of banks along the Nebraska-Kansas line within the last few years.

Brown was 40 years old. He leaves a widow and three children.

HOW THE DEMOCRATS KEPT THEIR PLEDGES

Not Single Section of Platform Was Carried Out in Montana

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The legislature of Montana has adjourned and its record is made up. The Democrats had a majority in each house. The governor is a Democrat, giving that party complete control of the state administration and the legislature. Here are some of the pledges upon which these Democrats were elected:

(1) Economy. "We are opposed to the creation of unnecessary offices."

(2) An effective public utilities law.

(3) Workman's compensation and employer's liability act.

(4) An act to regulate the appropriation of water for power purposes.

(5) A blue sky law to protect the people against the sale of worthless stocks.

(6) A grain classification and warehouse and elevator control law.

How Promises Were Kept.

This is how the Montana Democrats kept the faith of their pledges to the people:

(1) The aggregate of appropriations for the season is larger than for any other session in the history of the state. More new offices were created than by any other Montana legislature. The direct expenses of the session were the greatest on record.

(2) A public utilities commission bill was passed, which is denounced by good citizens throughout the state, as a number of Democratic members of the legislature who voted against it, as being a mere pretense without possibility of effective service, and designed to cheat the people by ostensibly fulfilling the pledge while, in fact, satisfying the demands of the "Invisible Government," which is the real dominant force in Montana.

(3) Not even a pretense of a workman's compensation and employer's liability act was made. The violation of the pledge was absolute and unconditional.

(4) The platform pledge to regulate the appropriation of water for power purposes was wholly repudiated. The people of the state were again betrayed, but the will of the "Invisible Empire" was heeded.

(5) An alleged blue sky law was passed, but it is like the public utilities law, a mere pretense which will not protect the people against the schemes of fake company promoters. There is a water power combination operating in Montana which is seeking to inflate a $14,000,000 concern, already grossly overcapitalized, by the injection of $36,000,000 of additional water, so as to give it the fine round total of $50,000,000. To guard against any possible interference with this gigantic grab, provision was carefully made that even the feeble act which was passed should not go into effect until next January.

(6) A warehouse bill following closely the lines of the statute which has been eminently successful in the state of Washington, was buried in committee, instead, as countless and nervous bill, approved by the elevating and milling combine, was put through, another pledge broken under the pretense of fulfillment.

Progressive Measure Defeated.

A constitutional amendment offered by the Progressive floor leader of the house sought to empower the legislature to tax mining property or other property is taxed. This was aimed at the existing mine in Montana by virtue of which the property of the Amalgamated Copper company practically escapes taxation, while other

15,000 HOMELESS KENTUCKY SIDE OF OHIO RIVER

CINCINNATI, March 29.—With nearly 15,000 persons in the towns on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river driven from their homes by the rising tide sweeping down the Ohio valley, and with more than 3,500 homes altogether or partly submerged, the flood station in this vicinity is assuming graver proportions hourly. Here the water front buildings are all partly under water and much damage has been done.

An increase in the river stage here will mean the isolation of the city from the Kentucky side and the stoppage of train service in this direction.

Later today the government gauge showed 67 feet, and according to the weather bureau the indications were that before many hours there would be 68 feet in the river here.

So far only one life has been lost as a direct result of the high waters here. Miss Anna Smith, the first victim drowned, lost her life in an attempt to reach Newport in a skiff that capsized in midstream.

Worse on Kentucky Side.

Newport and Covington, opposite virtually are surrounded by water. Conditions there are worse than elsewhere, and nearly 10,000 persons have been driven from their homes. Relief measures, however, are adequate. The water works has continued in operation, the electric light plants have ceased, but gas plants are not interrupted.

In the Kentucky towns of Dayton, Ludlow, Bellevue and Bromley, identical conditions exist, but in their cases all communication with Cincinnati, Newport and Covington has been suspended.

In these towns there are a total of 2,000 persons being cared for by relief committees, and more than 500 homes have been flooded. Property damage will be immense, especially as this is the second time within three months that the Ohio valley has suffered from high water.

Street car officials here announced that when the river has reached 68 feet, the power plants which operate the car lines to the Kentucky shore will be out of commission and communication with Cincinnati will be cut off. So far only two of the five big bridges across the Ohio at this point have been seriously affected.

Railway service into and out of Cincinnati virtually is at a standstill.

Louisville Is Prepared.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 29.—With the Ohio river showing a rise of only one-tenth of a foot an hour and no developments between Louisville and Cincinnati to indicate anything higher than the original prediction of a crest at Louisville of 45 feet, the only disconcerting reports received here today were from Clarksville, W. Va., telling of a stage of 64 feet.

Later, reassuring advices from Washington were received where flood experts in the weather bureau said that 54 feet at Parkersburg had been probably misunderstood as 64.

Reports received today and tonight from points between Louisville and Cincinnati on the east and Louisville and the Mississippi river on the west, told of precautions taken to prevent any loss of life when the highest stages were reached in the Ohio.

Town Wiped Out.

LAWRENCEBURG, JUNCTION, Ind., March 29.—The south levee at Lawrenceburg broke at 2:50 this afternoon. A wall of water poured through the opening and went raging through the center of the town, tearing up all before it.

Houses were crushed like eggshells, and the wreckage was carried four miles along the Miami bottoms to the fill on the main line of the Big Four. The residents were warned yesterday to leave town and no lives were lost.

No estimate of the damage can be made now. Water is standing six feet deep in the streets and the river is rising slowly.

The Swiss government has decided in favor of the single phase system for the electrification of its railroads in preference to the third rail, as costing 10 per cent less to make this change.

WORK REHABILITATION

tinged morning of the approaching disaster to enable them to get out before the flood assumed dangerous proportions. Those who were drowned, for the most part, were caught in the streets, either while on their way to their places of business and employment, or while trying to get to places of safety when forced to flee from their homes.

Lieutenant Leatherman, surgeon of the Third regiment, Ohio National Guard, who went through the flood in West Dayton, said that he saw scores of dead bodies floating down the Miami river and many people were swimming, but there was not one chance in ten thousand that these were saved, he said. The water was very cold and the current terrific.

"The flood," he related, "came when thousands of persons were in the streets, scoffing at the idea that a flood would come. Hadn't the levees always protected them? Had Dayton ever had a serious flood? Why be alarmed?"

"Dozens Bodies in Wreckage." In one district, it was stated at sanitary department headquarters, dozens of bodies could be seen under piles of wreckage here, a hand and a foot sticking out from under the debris. Efforts were directed for several hours in an attempt to get at these bodies, but none had been taken out when night fell.

"The work of extending succor to the marooned inhabitants of the districts which still are flooded continued during the day. In many sections were to be seen rowboats, skiffs and canoes, making their way with extreme difficulty among the heaps of wreckage and overturned houses, among tangled meshes of telegraph and telephone and electric light wires, seeking for possible victims who had been unaccounted for.

Among the organizations engaged in rescue work is the company of naval reserves from the United States ship Essex, at Toledo, under command of Capt. A. F. Nicklett. The company reached Dayton on a special relief train from Toledo on Thursday, and immediately launched a number of boats in the raging torrents which were sweeping the city from end to end. Up to 6 o'clock tonight the sailors had been constantly on duty, and had to their credit a total of 370 rescues, and they were not thinking of sleep when darkness fell.

One crew, in command of Ensign E. E. Diebold, with two boats, rescued 35 persons from the business and that section east of Main and west of East street. Many of the people were taken from their homes only after the sailors had mounted houses and chopped their way through the attics, where the inmates were huddled together waiting for death to enter.

Another crew, under Junior Lieut. Ross Willott, succeeded in saving 350, while three boats in command of Senior Lieut. Theodore Schmidt rescued 140 persons. The majority of these latter were taken from box cars, warehouses, freight sheds and grain elevators.

in the railroad yards. It was here that the water gained its greatest violence, rushing in whirlpools between the irregular buildings on either side of the tracks. Navigation was extremely perilous on account of many submerged box cars, flat cars and overturned sheds.

Several times the sailors were capsized, but managed to keep with their boats and hit them again. Not a life was lost, either among the reserves or among the hundreds whom they attempted to rescue.

While sailors worked incessantly to save lives, Lieut. Walter Gayhart, also of the ship's company, succeeded in establishing a supply in East Fifth street, where many refugees congregated, and lifted rations to the suffering. He stayed tonight, after 11 hours of continuous labor.

Only those doing relief work, or having official business, were allowed out of doors after 6 o'clock tonight. With the additional military forces which arrived, the city was thoroughly patrolled. The city was in darkness again tonight. Even with the careful policing during the last few nights, some robbing has been done. It has been impossible to do much relief work at night, and the curfew order was due in part to the advisability of keeping the men where they can protect their own households, if necessary. Major Dupuy tonight issued the following statement:

"Would Arrest Undertakers. These body snatchers who operate as undertakers will be treated as they deserve. It takes the entire military power at the command of the medical department of the O. N. G. There are a number of reliable undertakers in Dayton who have complied strictly with the order to report the recovery of all bodies, but there have been reports received here of numerous instances of undertakers grabbing bodies and rushing them to their own establishments. Then they either prey on the grief-stricken relatives, or the public will have to pay for burial of the unidentified dead."

"All medical and military officers have received orders to promptly arrest any undertaker, or other person who recovers a body and does not immediately report it to this department. It was said at military headquarters that a total of only 60 bodies was reported up to this evening, although it was known that no less than 12 bodies had been taken to different morgues and to private homes. This was ascertained by a computation of the returns made by different rescuing squads engaged in the flooded districts.

"To add to the menace of the situation, we found that with one or two exceptions every stick of drugs in Dayton was destroyed by the flood," said the mayor. "Many of our officers are without medical or surgical supplies. Already there are a considerable number of sick here, but we are making every effort possible to care for these patients. A maternity hospital has been established in Dayton View, an emergency hospital is being organized under extreme difficulties, however, in the court house, and a hospital for contagious diseases already is treating several cases of chicken pox, mumps and measles."

Divided Into 16 Districts. Major Dupuy stated that the city has been divided into 16 sanitary districts, each district in charge of an officer of the sanitary corps of the national guard.

As it will be several weeks before the sewer system will be in operation again, a large corps of men will be kept active in disposing of refuse and in disinfecting premises occupied by refugees.

It was owing to the frightful flood conditions throughout the entire territory of which Dayton is the heart, making transportation facilities of all kinds useless, that supplies for the medical corps did not reach here until several days after the flood broke.

Several cars of lime have reached the city. More are en route. A carload of ambulance supplies is on the way from Cincinnati. Arrangements for placing sanitary measures in the hands of federal officials were completed at the conference between Secretary of War Garrison, Major General Leonard Wood, Surgeon General Rupert Blue and the local relief committee, headed by John H. Patterson. After Secretary Garrison had talked over the telephone with Governor Cox, he decided that while the state militia should police the city, the federal government should have charge of the sanitation.

Mrs. Garrison stated that Major Thomas Rhodes, in cooperation with Major James C. Normandy, would have charge in Dayton. Major Normandy had experience in furthering relief in the Mississippi flood district last year.

Telegram to President Wilson. Secretary Garrison gave out the substance of his telegram to President Wilson as follows:

"I find the situation at Dayton to be as follows: The flood has subsided so that they have communication with all parts of the city, no one being now in any position of peril or without food or shelter. The National Cash Register plant has been turned into a supply depot and lodging place for those who have no other present place."

"Surgeon General Blue and some of his officers are here, as are also some naval surgeons. The governor, the mayor, the local committee, and the citizens have welcomed us warmly. I find a competent force is already organized to clean up the streets and remove the debris and have agreed to work under the direction of the army surgeon I leave in charge of sanitation. The National guard's adjutant general, George H. Wood, here, has offered to cooperate with our work of sanitation."

"I think that the situation here is very satisfactory. I will go back to Cincinnati tonight to get into touch with matters left unfinished by the committee. Ten thousand were in their homes and food was carried to them. Five thousand are being cared for at the relief stations."

Food Plentiful. The relief committee has made no attempt to keep a record of the number of rations sent out. There are 100,000 pounds of food in the city, and the state forces lost three killed and 12 wounded. The wounded were taken to Douglas.

"Claude Kiser of Connelleville, Pa., 13 years old, is six feet tall.

There is plenty of food, and it is being placed into baskets in lots to serve five persons for two days. Over candles, given out with the food, the people are cooking coffee, but the other food is eaten cold. There is no gas and very little coal.

Homes usually housing four or five persons in many instances now are sheltering from 20 to 30.

Dr. William Colby Rucker, assistant surgeon general of the United States public health service, who came here from Washington at the direction of the secretary of the treasury with Surgeon General Rupert Blue, tonight gave the Associated Press the following outline of the sanitary conditions existing in the city:

"A survey of conditions in Dayton today shows that the sanitary situation is not so bad as was at first thought. City water is flowing under 20-pound pressure. Sewers in some sections are operating. The city expects to have others working tomorrow."

"The city has been divided into 16 sanitary districts and tonight physicians who have been sworn in as district sanitary officers are being instructed as to their precise duties as heads of these districts."

Surgeon General Blue and Dr. Rucker will go to Hamilton tomorrow to observe the situation there.

TOWN CUT

town," he said, "but I have heard of no flood."

Local officials of the telephone company then attempted to set up a line to Portsmouth or Jackson in a roundabout way, without success.

COLUMBUS, O., March 29.—(From Portsmouth by telephone, via Jackson.)—The telephone operator at Jackson tonight reported to General John C. Speaks, in command of troops doing duty in flood district, that she had just received a telephone message from the telephone office at Portsmouth that the latter city is on fire and without water facilities because of the flood of the Ohio river. The message stated that the city was on fire in several different sections.

GENERAL OJEDA CUTS WAY THROUGH LINES

NACO, Mex., March 29.—Against Gen. Pedro Ojeda and his 400 federals have cut their way through the state troop lines and today are safe in Naco, Sonora. General Alfaro Obregon, of the insurgents, has ordered that no attack be made on the border town until it may be done with the least danger to American citizens and soldiers on the Arizona side. A strong patrol of the Fifth and Ninth United States cavalries is drawn up here. Yesterday's fighting along the border Ojeda, although surrounded by more than 1,000 constitutionalists, cut through the lines and during the night arrived at his old garrison at Naco. The federals lost five killed and three wounded while the state forces lost three killed and 12 wounded. The wounded were taken to Douglas.

"Claude Kiser of Connelleville, Pa., 13 years old, is six feet tall.

RELIEF FUND IS GROWING FAST

CHICAGO, March 29.—The Chicago Association of Commerce received additional subscriptions to its flood relief fund of $15,333 today. The fund now totals $237,577.

Representatives of the association telegraphed instructions today from Columbus, Toledo, Indianapolis and Dayton. A large quantity of lime and gasoline for disinfectant and fuel were sent to Indianapolis. The mayor of Peru, Ind., telegraphed for $50,000, which was telegraphed to him at once.

The day's advice to the association indicated that the chief need was at Columbus, O., and all the food and clothing dispatched during the day were sent there in several supply trains routed by way of Toledo.

Forty trained nurses of the Illinois section of the Red Cross nursing division went south last night and today to various parts in the flood district. Twenty-five more Red Cross nurses will leave here before morning for Columbus.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Four paymasters today were dispatched by the navy department to Ohio to assist in distributing provisions and clothing. The navy's clothing train of 15 cars from New York arrived at Baltimore, Pa., today and proceeded westward immediately.

The commandant of the Great Lakes naval training station was directed by Secretary Daniels to furnish men for handling meteorology for rescue work. The Russian ambassador and Chinese and Argentine ministers called upon Secretary Bryan today and tendered expressions of condolence and sympathy. Nicaragua, Uruguay and Italy sent similar messages.

An appeal from Representative Rouse of Kentucky for life saving crews and boats to meet any emergency at Newport, Ky., where the river is rapidly rising, was received by the treasury department. Fresh Cherries and Raspberries

Are out of season, but you'll find our Richelieu Pitted Cherries and Raspberries excellent substitutes. They are simply the best fresh fruit minus the water. Soak them overnight and they take up water easily and are almost like the fresh fruit.

Just try a cherry pie made from Richelieu Pitted Cherries. If you don't put too much sugar in it because the cherries are not quite so acid as when fresh. You'll have a most delicious pastry.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Dyspepsia and All Stomach Distress Ended With "Pape's Diapensin"

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one your stomach is too valuable. You must injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapensin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy, stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach troubles has made it famous the world over.

Keep Pape's Diapensin always in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store, and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas, causes headache, dizziness and nausea, eructations of acid and undigested food, remember, as soon as Pape's Diapensin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and safety in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

Growing Children Need Good Bowels

Give a Mild Laxative Occasionally to Insure Regular Bowel Action.

As a child grows older it requires more and more personal attention from the mother, and as the functions of the bowels are of the utmost importance to health, great attention should be paid to them.

Diet is of great importance, and the mother should watch the effect of certain foods. A food will constitute one and not another, and so we have a healthy food like eggs causing biliousness to thousands, and a wholesome fruit like bananas, constituting many. It is also to be considered that the child is growing, and great changes are taking place in the young man or young woman. The system has not yet settled itself to its later routine.

A very valuable remedy at this stage, and one which every growing boy and girl should be given often or occasionally, according to the individual circumstances, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a laxative and tonic combined, so mild that it is given to little babies, and yet equally effective in the most robust constitution. At the first sign of a tendency to constipation give a small dose of Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and prompt action will follow in the morning. It not only acts on the stomach and bowels, but its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system generally.

Mrs. Henry Babler, Van Dyne, Wis., writes that her little son, Melvin Babler, was constituted most of the time until she gave him Dr. Caldwell's

MELVIN BABLER

Syrup Pepsin. Since using this remedy he has never been constipated.

The use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will teach you to avoid cathartics, salts and pills, as they are too harsh for the majority, and their effect is only temporary. Syrup Pepsin brings permanent results and it can be conveniently obtained of any nearby druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way, a postal card, send your address, a postal card will do to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

JUDICIAL SYSTEM IS TOO PARTISAN, SAYS CUTTING

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—Judge Charles S. Cutting of Chicago, delivering an address at the annual banquet of the Kansas City Bar Association, said one trouble with the judicial system of America is that the judges on the bench are tied to a political party.

He said there was no more thought paid to the selection of judges than in choosing clerks, sheriffs or coroners.

The speaker also advocated the recall of judges as a remedy by which the judiciary could be put on a higher plane of usefulness.

ROME, March 29.—Pope Pius felt much better today, and, for the first time since the beginning of his recent indisposition, remained up until after dark.

AMERICAN SUFFRAGETTE HELD IN LONDON JAIL TO HEAR NATIVE AIRS

LONDON, March 29.—Mrs. H. R. Emerson of Detroit, Mich., assisted by Miss Scott-Troy of San Francisco is trying to enlist several American women married to titled Englishmen to obtain the release of Miss Zelle Emerson from Holloway jail, where she is imprisoned for breaking windows.

Miss Emerson, who started a "hunger strike," has suffered much from forcible feedings.

It is hoped by Miss Emerson that the support of the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, will be obtained. The duchess is a suffragist.

The United States embassy cannot take any steps unless instructed by Washington, because Miss Emerson is treated as an English woman.

The militant suffragettes think Home Secretary McKenna is susceptible to "pleas" on perfume note paper, marked with a rose, and they believe a few such letters might open the prison doors for the young American crusader.

Distressed About Daughter

Mrs. Emerson is much distressed about her daughter's condition. She obtained permission to visit her and said afterward:

"Her condition is extremely bad. While she has a stronger constitution than most of those who have undergone the same ordeal, I greatly fear her health will be permanently impaired."

When it was suggested to Mrs. Emerson: "Why do you not advise your daughter to eat the prison food?" she said: "She never would do that. It is a matter of principle."

Miss Mae Scott-Troy, who has been prominent in the militant suffragette movement, is a sister of E. E. Troy of San Francisco. During the dock strike in 1912, she gave the children of the strikers 34,000 meals made by herself. Employers complained that had she not fed the children the strike would have been broken long before it was.

Miss Emerson's cause has been enthusiastically espoused by Baron von Horst of California and Oregon.

Woman Hurt Fleeing From Highwayman

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—Mrs. C. A. Walker, wife of a Salt Lake City banker, was seriously injured tonight when the automobile in which she and her husband were fleeing from a pair of highwaymen crashed through a small bridge near this city. Mr. Walker escaped injury.

The highwaymen confronted them while they were proceeding along a road with which they were not familiar. By putting on all speed they distanced the pair, only to meet disaster soon afterward.

Made Miss Zelle Emerson nightly outside Holloway jail, with American tunes to cheer her and her mother. Von Horst is organizing a guard of American men to protect the suffragettes. He distinguished himself last night by knocking down a hoodlum.

PRESIDENT WILSON VIEWS FIRST ARMY MANEUVERS

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Wilson today saw for the first time an exhibition of the horsemanship of the American cavalry. Troops A, B, C and D of the Fifth cavalry and battery F of the Third regiment field artillery rode through a series of difficult maneuvers at Fort Myer.

The president enthusiastically applauded. As Mr. Wilson approached and left, the artillery fired 21 guns, the first presidential salute in his honor he has heard. The president got his half holiday after a busy forenoon with callers.

ANY ONE WOULD DO

From the London Opinion.

A large crowd was gathered waiting for the cars. A very fat man was the recipient of several vicious pushings as an elderly woman, red in the face, very much flustered and fussy, least dignified of her elbows into the convenient ribs of those about her. Finally, particularly vicious push caused her to wince, and he moved to one side as far as possible. She followed him and thumped him on the back.

"Does it make any difference when these cars I take to go to Regent street?" she asked.

"Not to me, ma'am," he answered, as he slipped through an opening in the crowd.

OYLER, PIONEER MINER, DIES AT HOME IN CITY

DENVER, March 29.—Thomas J. Oyler, one of the pioneers of Colorado and known throughout the entire state, died last night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Fullerton, 1208 Sherman street, aged 56 years. Death was due to pneumonia.

The deceased came to Colorado in the early '60s and settled in Central City, Gilpin county. During his entire life, he was interested in mining affairs, in which he was widely known as an authority.

CHARGE NELSON WITH INFLUENCING ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS TRIAL

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—An attempt to prove that W. H. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, was enabled to influence the trial of Mr. Nelson when he was cited to appear before Circuit Judge Joseph A. Guthrie for alleged contempt, was made by attorneys for Judge Guthrie at the hearing before Commissioner C. C. Crow today. It was charged that Mr. Nelson could exert such influence because he was a director of the Associated Press.

Edgar T. Cutler, chief of the Kansas City bureau of the Associated Press, testified as to the nature of the association and handed the defendant a copy of the case. In reply to questions by C. H. Dean, Judge Guthrie's attorney, Mr. Cutler said the story in its entirety was written by an Associated Press staff man without suggestion from any outside source.

"Did any member of the staff of the Star or the Times suggest or direct in any manner at any time, how these articles should be written?" James E. Alward, an attorney for Mr. Nelson, asked.

"They did not."

Exerted No Influence.

"Did Mr. Nelson have anything to do with the policy of any article sent out by the Associated Press or did he have anything to do with the writing of any article concerning this case?"

"Absolutely not."

This ended the hearing, and Commissioner Crow now will present the evidence to the state supreme court. He said he construed his appointment as commissioner to empower him to report to the court whether, in his opinion under the evidence, Mr. Nelson was guilty or not guilty of contempt.

Judge Guthrie's attorneys contended that the commissioner should submit the evidence to the supreme court without comment.

Willard P. Hall, one of the attorneys, said that he probably would make a motion before the supreme court to restrain the power of the commissioner.

TAKING CARE OF THE CULEBRA SLIDES

From the Washington Post.

Culebra cut still presents an engineering problem comparable with what it was when the French were forced to abandon its position in despair, but now the work is being done by the American engineers and his corps of American engineers have no misgivings as to anything thwarting their plans for the opening and navigation of the canal on time. Having demonstrated time and again that the canal can be cleared as fast as the dirt slides down into it, they have no doubt that the debris can be removed as quickly after the water is turned into the canal as now.

Frederick C. Smith, who is in charge of the cut, now in use for carrying the dirt away, and kept at work until such time as the movement of the earth ceases. This plan is possible, it is said, without interruption of traffic through the canal, so wide is the cut where the slides occur. The engineers hold that when the caving side of the cut has been excavated for the distance of half a mile, the danger will be past.

The seismic nature of the "creep" of the surface stratum of the earth renders idle any attempt that might be made to interpose obstacles to its approach to the canal. The isthmus is volcanic, and manifestations of that fact more pronounced than the shifting masses of Culebra are not infrequent. Still, the memory of man runs no further to the contrary with respect to the date of the last serious upheaval that that source of trouble excites little apprehension.

D. G. JOHNSON
FOR CITY COMMISSIONER

Mr. Johnson was born and raised on an Illinois farm "several" years ago. After completing the public schools of that state he took a year's work at the Central Normal College of Danville, Ind., and then engaged in teaching until his health failed. Coming west in 1899 he entered the service of the local street railway company in 1901 and is still in their employ. Believing that labor should have a direct representative in the city council, he has entered this race and is appealing for support not only to the laboring people but to all fair-minded business and professional men and women. Feeling that the most potent of all recommendations is a favorable word from those who know him best, he simply refers all those interested to his fellow workmen.

Briefly stated, he stands for clean government, business methods and the impartial enforcement of all laws.

PROPOSE CHANGES IN THE U. S. ARMY

Two-Year Enlistment Term
Will Work Wonders, Says
Secretary Garrison

By JONATHAN WINFIELD.
WASHINGTON, March 29.—Contrary to general opinion, the policy of military reform suggested recently by Secretary of War Garrison is not a new proposition, but is in line with the suggestions which have come from the general staff for the last four years. It is highly probable that the activity of the present secretary of war will result in the adoption of some of the things which in the past have been purely matters of discussion.

With the establishment of a period of enlistment for three years, with an option at the conclusion of two years of retiring from the active list and remaining in civil life except for short periods of summer service, Major Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, expects to have a big increase in recruits.

This shortening in the enlistment term will have another good effect for which army officers have striven ineffectually for years. The enlisted man will not be forced to spend most of his time doing "police duty" which is a police term for hoeing, gardens, sweeping up leaves, mending roads and performing a number of un-military duties. General Wood is enthusiastically of the belief that the soldier of the future, when the shortened term has been in vogue for some time, will devote his time entirely to soldiering and so, at the end of his short term, will be fitted to go forth on the battlefield and take care of himself.

Will Make Military Schools.

The general plan of shortening enlistments will make the army a military school where men will receive splendid training for two years and then be permitted to return unhampered to civil life. This is the only way, most army officers contend, that the army of this nation may be put on a real war footing.

This particular phase of military tactics was discussed by General Wood recently.

"When we go to war," said he, "we will find it is necessary to mobilize instantly an army of 600,000 men. This army would be needed absolutely if we are to protect our various ports and guard against the sudden landing of a large hostile force. Three camps would have to be established in different parts of the country.

"The disability to an army in war through all causes of course is about 65 per cent. Thus it will be seen that with a total fighting strength it would be impossible to resist an invader, while the raw recruits away from the scene of hostilities were being whipped into shape as a reserve. It is ridiculous to assume that with a small but efficient army (that phrase is the one used by the opponents of the proposed change) this nation could hold off a large army of invaders until a force of recruits could be prepared for war."

To send recruits into battle before they had been trained would be inhuman. No man need go beyond the Civil war with its terrible loss of life, to realize its deadly danger of sending untrained men on the field of battle.

More Thought to Men.

The proposed change will give us men in all ranks of life who know how to be soldiers. Then when there comes a call for volunteers we can rely upon the newly enlisted men. Ten years of the short term enlistment will do wonders in developing an army of volunteers in time of war.

In connection with this thought it is noticeable that the army will, from this time forth, give more consideration to the treatment of the fighting men than has been done in past years. It is probable that a strong fight will be made to bring back the canteen and thus do away with the dives which have been prosecuted against by all officers. Whether this be accomplished or not, it is certain that everything which can add to the pleasure of the enlisted man's life will be attempted by the department.

Secretary Garrison's announcement that desertion will be made a misdemeanor instead of an offense punishable by imprisonment in a penitentiary and loss of citizenship is accepted as the beginning of the "new era."

The plan to reduce the gravity of the offense of desertion has met with general approval. The officers declare that incarceration in a barracks built for the purpose and a term of hard work is sufficient punishment for the young soldier who becomes tired of his duties and "jumps his job." If desertion were not made so serious most men would not attempt it. It is the belief of officers who compare it to the inability of officers who are thrashing the matter out in parliament.

Scotland is Aroused Over New Great Seal

EDINBURGH, March 29.—A bitter dispute is raging in the Scottish capital over a question of the national honor. The new great seal of Scotland which has just been made in England, has on the obverse side the royal arms of Scotland, in which the Scottish quarterings are first and fourth, the English, second, and the Irish third, as differing from the royal arms of England, as used by the sovereign for all national purposes, which have the English quarterings first and fourth, and the Scottish second.

On the reverse side of the seal there is an effigy of the king, and in completing the designs two very small shields were included bearing the royal arms quartered Englishwise. It is these two small shields which have roused up the storm.

The great seal of Scotland is only used for purely local grants by the sovereign. It is not at all certain that on the side representing the king the shields should not be quartered Englishwise, that arrangement being the royal arms of the sovereign. The malcontents speak of thrashing the matter out in parliament.

Women Engage in Fight in Cemetery in Berlin

BERLIN, March 29.—There was a riot at St. Elizabeths cemetery at Berlin recently on the occasion of the funeral of Herr and Frau Plötz, who were killed while entering by a wire cable stretched across the road.

Thousands of people rushed the police on guard at the gate. Many women and children were trampled under foot. A number of the police had their helmets knocked off and their sabers torn away from them. In the cemetery the mob ran over the graves, broke down the railings surrounding private burial places, and damaged numerous tombstones and monuments. Most of the rioters were women, and the cemetery was afterwards found to be strewn with articles of women's attire.

Growing Children Need Good Bowels

Give a Mild Laxative Occasionally to Insure Regular Bowel Action.

As a child grows, order it requires more and more personal attention from the mother, and as the functions of the bowels are of the utmost importance to health, great attention should be paid to them.

Diet is of great importance, and the mother should watch the effect of certain foods. A food will constitute one and not another, and so we have a healthy food like eggs causing biliousness to thousands, and a "digesting" fruit like bananas constipating many. It is also to be considered that the child is growing, and great changes are taking place in the young man or young woman. The system has not yet settled itself to its later routine.

A very valuable remedy at this stage, and one which every growing boy and girl should be given often or occasionally, according to the individual circumstances, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This is a laxative and tonic combined, so mild that it is given to little babies, and yet equally effective in the most robust constitution. At the first sign of a tendency to constipation give a small dose of Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring, and prompt action will follow in the morning. It not only acts on the stomach and bowels, but its tonic properties build up and strengthen the system generally. Mrs. Henry Babler, Van Dyne, Wis., writes that her little son, Melvin Babler, was constipated most of the time until she gave him Dr. Caldwell's

Syrup Pepsin. Since using this remedy he has never been constipated. The use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will teach you to avoid cathartics and pills, as they are too harsh for the majority, and their effect is only temporary. Syrup Pepsin brings permanent results and it can be conveniently obtained of any nearby druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded. If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

JUDICIAL SYSTEM IS TOO PARTISAN, SAYS CUTTING

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—Judge Charles S. Cutting of Chicago, delivering an address at the annual banquet of the Kansas City Bar association, said one trouble with the judicial system of America is that the judges on the bench are tied to a political party. He said there was no more thought paid to the selection of judges than in choosing clerks, sheriffs or coroners. The speaker also advocated the recall of judges as a remedy by which the judiciary could be put on a higher plane of usefulness.

AMERICAN SUFFRAGETTE HELD IN LONDON JAIL TO HEAR NATIVE AIRS

LONDON, March 29.—Mrs. H. R. Emerson of Detroit, Mich., assisted by Miss Scott-Troy of San Francisco is trying to enlist several American women married to titled Englishmen to obtain the release of Miss Zelle Emerson from Holloway jail, where she is imprisoned for breaking windows.

Miss Emerson, who started a "hunger strike," has suffered much from forcible feeding.

It is hoped by Miss Emerson that the support of the Duchess of Marlborough, who was Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt, will be obtained. The duchess is a suffragist.

The United States embassy cannot take any steps unless instructed by Washington, because Miss Emerson is treated as an English woman.

The militant suffragettes think Home Secretary McKenna is susceptible to "pleas" on perfumed note paper marked with a coronet, and they believe a few such letters might open the prison doors for the young American crusader.

Distressed About Daughter.

Mrs. Emerson is much distressed about her daughter's condition. She obtained permission to visit her and said afterward:

"Her condition is extremely bad. While she has a stronger constitution than most of those who have undergone the same ordeal, I greatly fear her health will be permanently impaired."

When it was suggested to Mrs. Emerson: "Why do you not advise your daughter to eat the prison food?" she said: "She never would do that. It is a matter of principle."

Miss Mae Scott-Troy, who has become prominent in the militant suffragette movement, is a sister of E. P. E. Troy of San Francisco. During the dock strike in 1911 she gave the children of the strikers 96,000 meals made by herself. Employers complained that she had not fed the children the strike would have been broken long before it was.

Miss Emerson's cause has been enthusiastically espoused by Baron von Horst of California and Oregon.

Woman Airl Fleeing From Highwayman

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—Mrs. C. A. Walker, wife of a Salt Lake City banker, was seriously injured tonight when the automobile in which she and her husband were fleeing from a pair of highwaymen crashed through a small bridge near this city. Mr. Walker escaped injury.

The highwaymen confronted them while they were proceeding along a road with which they were not familiar. By putting on all speed they distanced the pair, only to meet disaster soon afterward.

Made Miss Zelle Emerson highly outside Holloway jail, with American "funes" to cheer her. Mrs. Emerson is organizing a guard of American men to protect the serenaders. He distinguished himself last night by knocking down a hoodlum.

PRESIDENT WILSON VIEWS FIRST-ARMY MANEUVERS

WASHINGTON, March 29.—President Wilson today saw for the first time an exhibition of the horsemanship of the American cavalry. Troops A, B, C and D of the Fifteenth cavalry and battery F of the Third regiment field artillery rode through a series of difficult maneuvers at Fort Myer, where the president enthusiastically applauded. As Mr. Wilson approached and left, the artillery fired 21 guns, the first presidential salute in his honor he has heard. The president got his half holiday after a busy forenoon with callers.

ANY ONE WOULD DO

From the London Opinion.
A large crowd was gathered waiting for the cars. A very fat man was the recipient of several vicious slings as an elderly woman, and in the face, very much flushed and dazed, kept digging her elbows into the convoluted ribs of those about her. Finally a particularly vicious insult caused him to wince, and he moved to one side as far as possible. She followed him and thumped him on the back.

"Does it make any difference which of these cars I take to go to Regent street?" she asked.
"Not to me, ma'am," he answered, as he slipped through an opening in the crowd.

CHARGE NELSON WITH INFLUENCING ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS TRIAL

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—An attempt to prove that W. R. Nelson, editor and owner of the Kansas City Star, was enabled to influence the character of reports sent out by the Associated Press concerning the trial of Mr. Nelson when he was tried to appear before Circuit Judge Joseph A. Guthrie for alleged contempt, was made by attorneys for Judge Guthrie at the hearing before Commissioner J. C. Fry today. It was charged that Mr. Nelson could exert such influence because he was a director of the Associated Press.

Edgar T. Cutler, chief of the Kansas City bureau of the Associated Press, testified as to the manner the association and handled the different phases of the case. In reply to questions by C. H. Deane, Judge Guthrie's attorney, Mr. Cutler said his story in its entirety was written by an Associated Press staff writer without suggestion from any outside source.

Did any member of the staff of the Star or the Times suggest or direct in any manner at any time, how these articles should be written? James E. Alford, an attorney for Mr. Nelson, asked.

"They did not."

Exerted No Influence.

"Did Mr. Nelson make anything to do with the policy of any article sent out by the Associated Press, or did he have anything to do with the striking of any article concerning this case?"

"Absolutely no." This ended the hearing, and Commissioner Crow now will present the evidence to the state supreme court. He said he construed his appointment as commissioner to empower him to report to the court whether, in his opinion under the evidence, Mr. Nelson was guilty or not guilty of contempt.

Judge Guthrie's attorneys contended that the commissioner should submit the evidence to the supreme court without comment.

William P. Hall, one of the attorneys, said that he probably would make a motion before the supreme court to restrain the power of the commissioner.

TAKING CARE OF THE CULEBRA SLIDES

From the Washington Post.
Culebra cut still presents an engineering problem comparable with what it was when the French were forced to abandon its solution in despair, but nevertheless the stout-hearted, resourceful Guelands and his corps of American engineers have no misgivings as to anything thwarting their plans for the opening and navigation of the canal on time, having demonstrated time and again that the canal basin can be cleared as fast as the dirt slides down into it, they have no doubt that the debris can be removed as swiftly after the water is turned into the canal as it now.

Debris will be substituted for the facilities now in use for carrying the dirt away, and kept at work until such time as the movement of the earth unbalanced masses. This plan is possible, it is said, without interruption of traffic through the canal, so wide is the cut where the slides occur. The engineers hold that when the caving slide of the cut has been excavated for the distance of half a mile the danger will be past.

The seismic nature of the "creep" of the surface strata of the earth renders idle any attempt that might be made to interpose obstacles to its approach to the canal. The isthmus is volcanic, and manifestations of that fact more pronounced than the shifting progress of Culebra are not infrequent. Still, the memory of man runneth so far to the contrary with respect to the date of the last serious upheaval that that source of trouble excites little apprehension.

PROPOSE CHANGES IN THE U. S. ARMY

Two-Year Enlistment Term
Will Work Wonders, Says
Secretary Garrison

By JONATHAN WINFIELD

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Contrary to general opinion, the policy of military reform suggested recently by Secretary of War Garrison is not a new proposition, but is in line with the suggestions which have come from the general staff for the last four years. It is highly probable that the activity of the present secretary of war will result in the adoption of some of the things, which in the past have been purely matters of discussion.

With the establishment of a period of enlistment for three years, with an option at the conclusion of two years of re-enlistment, the active list and remaining in civil life except for short periods of summer service, Major Gen.
Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, expects to have a big increase in recruits.

This shortening in the enlistment term will have another good effect for which army officers have striven ineffectually for years. The enlisted man will not be forced to spend most of his time doing "police duty," which is a polite term for being in the garage, sweeping up leaves, mending roads and performing a number of un military duties. General Wood is enthusiastically of the belief that the soldier of the future, when the shortened term has been in vogue for some time, will devote his time entirely to soldiering and so at the end of his short term will be fitted to go forth on the battlefield and take care of himself.

Will Make Military Schools

The general plan of shortening enlistments will make the army a military school where men will receive splendid training for two years and then be permitted to return unham-pered to civil life. This is the only way, most army officers contend, that the army of this nation may be put on a real war footing.

This particular phase of military tactics was discussed by General Wood recently.

"When we go to war," said he, "we will find it is necessary to mobilize instantly an army of 500,000 men. This army would be needed absolutely if we are to protect our various ports and guard against the sudden landing of a large hostile force. Three camps would have to be established in different parts of the country."

"The disability to an army in war through all causes of course—is about 85 per cent. Thus it will be seen that with a total fighting strength it would be impossible to resist an invasion while the ray recruits away from the scene of hostilities were being whipped into shape as a reserve."

It is ridiculous to assume that with small, but efficient, army (that phrase is the one used by the opponents of the proposed change) this nation could hold off a large army of invaders until a force of recruits could be prepared for war.

To send recruits into battle before they had been trained would be inhuman. No man need go beyond the Civil war, with its terrible loss of life, to realize its deadly danger of sending untrained men on the field of battle.

More Thought to Men

The proposed change will give us men in all ranks of life who know how to be soldiers. Then when there comes a call for volunteers we can rely upon the newly enlisted men. Ten years of the short-term enlistment will do wonders in developing an army of volunteers in time of war.

In connection with this thought, it is noticeable that the army will, from this time forth, give more consideration to the treatment of the fighting men than has been done in past years.
It is probable that a strong fight will be made to bring back the canteen and thus do away with the dives which have been protested against by all officers. Whether this be accomplished or not, it is certain that everything which can add to the pleasure of the enlisted man's life will be attempted by the department.

Secretary Garrison's announcement that desertion will be made a misdemeanor instead of an offense, punishable by imprisonment in a penitentiary and loss of citizenship is accepted as the beginning of the "new era."

The plan to reduce the gravity of the offense of desertion has met with general approval. The officers declare that incarceration in a barracks built for the purpose and a term of hard work is sufficient punishment for the young soldier who becomes tired of his duties and "kicks his job." If desertion were not made so serious most men would not attempt it, it is the belief of officers who compare it to the inability of officers of criminal laws to lessen crime.

SCOTLAND IS AROUSED OVER NEW GREAT SEAL

EDINBURGH, March 29.—A bitter dispute is raging in the Scottish capital over a question of the national honor. The new great seal of Scotland which has just been "made" in England, has on the obverse side the royal arms of Scotland, in which the Scottish quarterings are first and fourth, the English second, and the Irish third as differing from the royal arms of England as used by the government for all national purposes, which have the English quarterings first and fourth and the Scottish second.

On the reverse side of the seal there is an effigy of the king, and in completing the designs two very small shields were included bearing the royal arms quartered Englishwise. It is these two small shields which have roused up the storm.

The great seal of Scotland is only used for purely local grants by the sovereign. It is not at all certain that on the side representing the king the shields should not be quartered Englishwise, that arrangement being the royal arms of the sovereign. The malcontents speak of threatening the matter out in parliament.

Women Engage in Fight in Cemetery in Berlin

BERLIN, March 29.—There was a riot at St. Elizabeths cemetery at Berlin recently on the occasion of the funeral of Herr and Frau Plunz, who were killed while motoring by a wire cable stretched across the road.

Thousands of people "rushed" the police on guard at the gate. Many women and children were trampled under foot. A number of the police had their helmets knocked off and their capes torn away from them. In the cemetery the mob ran over the graves, broke down the railings surrounding private burial places, and damaged numerous tombstones and monuments. Most of the rioters were women, and the cemetery was afterwards found to be strewn with articles of women's attire.

A man unfamiliar with city affairs will have to learn the business of the city at the expense of the tax-city business, he knows the city's needs, the character of the financial problems that must be solved to avoid excessive taxation, and how to safeguard the city from the incalculable loss which would result to it from any contract or concession which would force an extension of the Jackson franchise.

OUR MOST SACRED DAY

WHETHER therefore we eat, or drink, or whatever we do, do all to the glory of God. (1 Cor. 10:31)

To Paul, as to Jesus, Christianity was a wonderfully inclusive thing. To be a Christian, as Paul conceived it, meant to see all things from the point of view of Jesus. Every relation of life to the Christian is dignified, uplifted, there is no longer anything profane, all things are to be done to the glory of God.

It is a scheme of life that the church has not unfortunately emphasized sufficiently. We have tacitly assumed that on Sunday we were to go to church and to read in the Bible for the glory of God, after that, for the balance of the week, we were to forget God, in our everyday relations with other men, and transact business strictly on a business basis.

We are now beginning to discover how great is the mistake we have made in assuming that this world and the next can be separated, and that we can do anything we like in this world, provided our private morals are kept reasonably within conventional bounds and our lip-faith in Jesus is asserted. The past decade has been one of rather sad awakenings in this nation of ours; we have discovered that material prosperity may be purchased at too dear a price, we are learning at last that no nation can be really Christian that does not seek to enact into law, and to observe in all its dealings, the great principles of justice and mercy and brotherhood that Jesus taught.

It is too bad that men in Jesus' day did not have the ballot. If they had had it much of Jesus' teaching would have concerned its sacredness, its vital importance to the Christian man. He would have been so explicit that we could not have ignored, as we have done for so many years, the absolute necessity of voting right if we are to discharge our full duty as Christians.

Indeed, it is doubtful if there is, in the whole category, any duty so absolutely binding in its nature upon all real Christians as this of exercising, and in the spirit of brotherhood, our right to vote. In Jesus' time the oppressed people could only petition a far-away Caesar, or else resort to bloody revolution. The people were the pawns of the emperor.

But nineteen centuries of Christianity have changed things. Our fathers, through centuries of bloody warfare, have finally won for us, irrevocably and forever, the right to govern ourselves. We, the people, are Caesar. We are compelled to make no petitions, to cringe humbly before no alien power. We are masters, under God, of our own destinies.

Hence, once each year, in the privacy of our election booths, we make the choice, whether we shall stand, in the casting of our vote, for God or against God. It lies with us people of Colorado Springs to say, on next Tuesday, whether our city, for the next two years, shall be run for the glory of God or for the benefit of selfish politicians.

We cannot, by our ballots, legislate goodness into men, but we can, with those little slips of paper, elect to office men who shall definitely, persistently, honestly, strive to make Colorado Springs a better, cleaner city, run in the interests of all the people, and for the protection even of the weakest; or we can, with those same little slips of paper, turn our government over to men who have in their hearts never realized the conception that government is God's representative of justice and mercy and brotherhood here on earth; who look only to the protection and encouragement of what they term "good business," whose hearts are wholly selfish, and who think only of their own advantage and the advantage of their friends.

We have just celebrated Easter, and the day is one of holy significance to the Christian. Only a few months ago, on Christmas, we honored the birthday of the carpenter of Nazareth. And we did well, in both instances, for we cannot overestimate the importance of those days, and of the effect for good their observance has upon the whole world.

But Tuesday election day is more important to the Christian than either. On those other days he pays reverence to the past; on election day he takes his stand, for or against Christ in the world of today; on election day he helps to determine what the future shall be: whether the kingdom of God shall come soon or late. For at election he votes for Christ or against him, according as he votes for men whose sincere desire it is to serve all, or for men who serve only themselves.

"Whatever ye do," says Paul, "do all to the glory of God." Certainly, as you vote, do it to the glory of God. God must find it difficult indeed to forgive that Christian who casts his vote carelessly or ignorantly, without sense of the deep issues involved. If he still must be for him, to forgive the man who, claiming to be Christian, votes for a candidate known to him to be unworthy. As for that Christian man or woman, who deliberately neglects to make use of this wonderful opportunity to bring to pass the kingdom of God, to vote his Christianity, to stand up for God at the ballot box, hasn't he come dangerously near committing the unpardonable sin?

THE USELESS SECOND ELECTION

THE strongest argument for the adoption of the Charter amendment to secure the preferential system of voting is that it will dispense with a second election. And just how desirable this reform is probably has not been appreciated by the voters. First, there is the item of expense, a matter of approximately $1,500 in each municipal campaign. With the preferential system available, it is unnecessary, and with the City's finances in their present condition an item of $1,500 is not too small to be disregarded.

Again, there is the trouble and annoyance to everybody concerned in the election—the candidates, the City Clerk, and his assistants, and the voters. The second election prolongs the campaign for two weeks, causing unnecessary uncertainty and adding to the inevitable ill feeling and bitterness. Moreover, most voters regard it as a nuisance to have to go to the polls a second time.

But there is a third reason which should not be overlooked. The campaign which precedes the first election is always hard fought and productive of no little bitterness of feeling. This means that the friends of the defeated candidate seize the opportunity to revenge themselves on the high man by supporting his opponent in the second election.

For example, four years ago, the leading candidates for mayor were Avery, Spurgeon and Heizer. Such was the bitterness of the fight that when Mr. Heizer was eliminated in the first election most of his influential supporters threw their support to Avery, a Democrat, not because they wanted him but because they were anxious to beat Spurgeon, the candidate of the Republican faction opposed to Heizer. Thus the real responsibility for Avery's election rests upon a faction of the Republican party who did not want him then and have been opposed to him ever since.

This procedure is likely to be followed in every campaign as long as the system of holding two elections prevails. Its harmful effect is apparent in the case of the present mayor, who, under the circumstances surrounding his election, clearly was not the real choice of a majority of the voters.

It follows that the system of holding two elections is unsound and unjust in practice, however attractive it may be in theory. The better way is to abolish it by substituting a system of preferential voting.

FROM OTHER PENS

NOT A CLUB.

From the New York Tribune.

President Wilson doesn't want the cabinet turned into a club. The fixed cabinet meeting twice a week in dull times as well as busy times, which he has abandoned, has tended to become a sort of social function. If there was nothing else to do those present told stories of talked personalities. Not a few secretaries have made reputations in Washington as raconteurs through the jokes they have cracked at the cabinet table, since, in spite of the unwritten rule to the contrary, a great deal of what is said at cabinet meetings subsequently becomes the common knowledge of the capital.

Meetings on call to consider business of importance will result in economy of time and effort. The administration will do less work more expeditiously for the change, even though some of the secretaries (dashed off to the cabinet) may mourn the loss of Washington and the gossip of social cabinet story tellers like Leslie Shaw and John Hay.

THE ASSASSINATED KING.

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The assassination of King George of Greece at Saloniki by a fanatic and probably degenerate Greek will not change results in the Balkan conflict in any respect. The late king's successor will raise up his task and urge it forward as his father did more energetically than that was possible.

The dead king is of that Turkish blood which has furnished so many infomats to the monarchies of Europe. He was called to the throne of Greece in 1893 by the representatives of that people. If he had lived he could not have been more infomated in the completion of a half century on the throne. In his long reign the Greek king faithfully discharged a difficult task. He often had to bear the complaints and reproaches of his impatient subjects because the advances of Greece was not more rapid. He was dragged into the ill-judged war with Turkey by the insistence of his people. He had the limitations of a weak and small kingdom whose ambitions were restrained by the politics of Europe. But through all he steadily persisted in seeking the advance of Greece and peace and order in its territories.

This reached the point of triumph within the past few months. The Greeks, though not engaged in such sensational struggles as the Bulgarians, have made more important captures than any. Saloniki is, second only to Constantinople, one of the most important ports of the Aegean islands. It is the key to the distribution of territory Greece is permitted to retain, that which her armies have captured, her area will be increased by from one-third to one-half. The king was regarded as the coming president of the Balkan federation, if his life had not been cut short. Altogether he was a more than usually favorable example of the constitutional monarch.

GOOD AND BAD.

From the New York Tribune.

The appointment of Prof. John Bassett Moore as ambassador to the state department is admirable. Professor Moore is one of the leading authorities in this country upon international law and diplomacy, to the teaching and practice of which his whole life has been devoted. He has been an assistant secretary of state and was secretary and counsel of the Spanish American peace commission in Paris. Besides representing this country on various temporary missions, being now a member of The Hague Tribunal, in his appointment the administration recognizes that diplomacy is a profession and accordingly it acquires the services of a remarkably well qualified adviser with regard to foreign relations.

The appointment of Mr. William F. McCombs as ambassador to France is as bad as the appointment of Professor Moore is good. Mr. McCombs is without experience in diplomacy or even in affairs at home. He has no reputation except for being a successful campaign manager. As ambassador to France he will present an unfortunate contrast with such recent predecessors as Robert Bacon, who had been, before his appointment, assistant secretary of state and for a short time secretary of state; Henry White, who had been in the diplomatic service as many years as Mr. McCombs has lived, and who had occupied various high posts before becoming ambassador to France; and Robert S. McCord, who had represented this country at Vienna and at St. Petersburg before going to Paris. We hope that President Wilson means to pay no more political debts with high diplomatic appointments.

THE TIPS OF THE WORLD.

From the Kansas City Star.

Captain Amundsen referred in Kansas City last week to the contrast between Arctic and Antarctic exploration. Judging about the North pole is enormously more difficult than about the South pole. The northern explorer has to contend with a mass of ice that is constantly opening before or behind him. His safety is constantly menaced from below. His advance on his retreat may at any moment be cut off. The man who sets out to find the South pole, on the contrary, has a solid, continuous snowfield. He may perish in a blizzard, as Scott did. But the greatest hazard that makes Arctic exploration so dangerous is lacking.

Here is a summary of the differences between work in the extreme north and the extreme south, as outlined by Admiral Peary in a recent address: The Northern hemisphere is predominantly the hemisphere of land, and the Southern hemisphere of water. Yet the explorer at the North pole stands while the explorer at the South pole is on a plateau on ice at least two miles above the ocean bottom, two miles above sea level.

There is an abundance of animal life in the most northern polar lands—reindeer, polar bear, musk-ox, fox, wolf, hare and lapd birds; also there are brilliant flowers.

On the Antarctic continent there is no animal or vegetable life, except on the fringe where the sea and a few species of sea birds come.

Human life is found 100 miles from the North pole, only one ship and fewer than a dozen men have been lost in South polar exploration.

Efforts to reach the North pole began 100 years ago. The first exploration to the South was only 140 years ago.

The discovery of the North pole happened to lead directly to the discovery of the South pole. Captain Amundsen was raising money for an Arctic expedition when news of Peary's discovery of the pole was received. It became nearly impossible to raise more funds for northern exploration at that time. So Amundsen switched to the South pole and reached his goal.

Old Maids and Superciliousness

By RUTH CAMERON.

Several times in these columns I have taken the liberty to defend that class of the feminine population familiarly known as old maids.

I have pointed out that the circumstances that she has not met her mate is nothing for a woman to be ashamed of, and that the fact that a woman lavishes her affection on dumb animals does not prove that she wouldn't have preferred children if she might have had them.

Many of the brightest, finest and most intelligent women I know belong to the ranks of the unmarried. Unmarried women seem to have almost a corner on the feminine sense of humor. Unmarried women, as a rule, are far more companionable than their sisters. In short, I approve of the genius bachelor-girl with all my heart, except, and thereby hangs my tale, except when they take on that peculiarly snooty and superior air that some old maids acquire.

The expression appears first around the month. What was originally an expression of sweetness and purity, hardens into prudishness, and that in turn into an air of superciliousness.

I should advise every unmarried woman over 25 to carefully study her face in the mirror in order to make sure that no such unpleasant thing is happening to her mouth.

This type develops mostly in the intellectual class, because it is a life which exalts the intellectual and deprecates the physical, which fosters it. Its members seem to look down upon their married friends as upon people who have made an unfortunate mistake, or failed to give an unfortunate weakness.

If marriage happens to bring to her friends a temporary sacrifice of some of the luxuries which the bachelor-girl can still enjoy, she is blatantly selfish.

And when the promise of motherhood comes to her married friend, this unpleasant type of bachelor-girl usually acts as a tragedy has happened.

Now there is nothing to be ashamed of in being unmarried.

But neither is there anything to be supercilious about.

And when a bachelor-girl gets into the frame of mind in which she looks down upon all her married friends, she can know she's got astigmatism of the heart.

This splendid class of cheerful, alert, intelligent, unmarried women, who are good companions for themselves and everyone else, and who are making old maids a term of honor, don't have this snooty, superior viewpoint at all. They know that there are advantages in being unmarried and advantages in being married, and neither don't feel obliged to disagree with their peers with a supercilious expression to prove that the advantages on their side are the greater.

My advice to any girl who has decided to be a bachelor-girl is to take one of this latter class for a model, and one of the former for a terrible warning, and try to mold herself accordingly.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE MODERN WOMAN

V—SOCIETY WOMAN'S PROBLEMS

By FRANKLIN HASKIN.

There is no harder part for the modern woman to play in the great drama of life than that which frequently falls to the lot of the society woman. Despite all assertions to the contrary, the modern society woman in most instances is a sane, clever, person with generous impulses and many serious ideals. Instead of the vain, silly, useless creature critics would have us believe, she is usually fully alive to the responsibilities of her position and sincere in her desire to fulfill them properly. The term, "noblesse oblige" is ever before her, although in her very efforts to fulfill that obligation she is often misunderstood and harshly criticized. These criticisms must pass unnoticed because an explanation might injure the feelings of the very person she desired to help.

It is harder for me to know what is right to do than it would be if I were earning my own living," said a New York housewife recently. "Last month I met the sweetest girl artist who is working her own way through art school. She would have been hurt if I had offered her money, but she paints so cleverly I persuaded her to paint me special favors for my miniature last week. Each of them contained a little portrait of a musician. She is specializing in miniature work, and her work was so exquisite I felt that I was giving her nothing more than her just dues when I paid $5 apiece for them, or $120 for the two dozen I ordered. Aunt Olivia has found it out and has lectured me terribly, saying that I am setting a bad example to the whole city by my extravagance. The little girl would have had to give up her lessons if I had not ordered them and I did not think anyone knew about it. All of my guests seemed pleased with them, but I suppose it would have been better if I had ordered good printed souvenirs at about $5 a dozen and found some other way to help the artist." Her voice showed genuine concern.

Extravagance of Society Women.

The extravagance of society women always will furnish a text for clericalism when other topics run short, but how many ever stop to consider that every bit of extravagance caused by a changing style or an elaborate decoration gives to some poor worker employment which he otherwise might miss? A Philadelphia woman or Quaker ancestress with a taste for fine lace and also for plain speaking, ordered a lace dress made for herself during a stay in Ireland. It was to cost a thousand dollars and its purchase was well heralded in the newspapers. Upon her return home she attended a large reception wearing her lace gown.

While the entertainment was in progress an old friend, distantly related to her family, managed to set his foot down upon her train, tearing a large hole in the lace. The lady, who did not lack in temper, turned upon him sharply for his awkwardness. "I offer thee no apology, Deborah," said the old man severely. "On the contrary, I regret that I cannot tear from thy shoulders the white garment. There should be ashamed to present thyself to thy friends in public, wearing a gown the extravagance of which is a shame to all woman-kind. Thy father's memory should reproach thee."

"At least I will not permit thee to reproach me," retorted the lady indignantly. "I want thee to understand that I have no shame in having paid $1,000 for this dress. Does thee know that I took three months and six months to produce it and that during that six months they were able from the money I paid to them, to provide food for themselves and their families for a whole year? By purchasing the dress which thee has torn, and for the mending of which I shall send thee a bill, I did more real good for the relief of the suffering poor than thee has done in the whole of thy life by the distribution of free meal tickets to dissolute men who are too lazy to earn their sustenance. If no woman save herself the pleasure of carrying lace this poor household would starve and it is better to pay for work than to give them the kind of charity."

While, of course, money, dinners, circus balls and other frolicsome entertainments, which sometimes furnish material for the society editors, are disgusting to most people of taste and judgment, it will be found that such entertainments generally are given by persons who recently have acquired money and are not quite sure how it may be expended to the best advantage. The entertainments are sometimes condemned most severely for their cost, are not of this type but have many elements of real beauty. Frequently the whole scheme of decoration is designed by an artist who is well paid for his services. His ideas may be carried out by an army of skilled workmen, each of whom is properly paid. The guests derive pleasure from the beauty, originality and execution of the entertainment, but hundreds or perhaps thousands of working people are benefited by receiving pay for the work it required. It has been said that the wonderful Bradley Martin play, which for several years represented the climax of lavish expenditure in this country, indirectly furnished additional earnings to nearly 5,000 people at a season of the year when they needed work. The same has been true of similar entertainments given since then.

Society women are each year showing more consideration for the women who work. Many of them belong to the Consumers league and similar organizations. When the investigation made regarding the laundry workers in New York last year revealed the fact that, after an elaborate entertainment at one of the large hotels, laundresses often were obliged to work from 12 to 24 hours without any rest, one prominent woman went to the manager of a hotel she usually patronized. "I want to give a ball here for my coming Lady Blunk from England, who is coming over for the first time since her marriage," she explained. "I will give it here only on condition that the ladies and gentlemen who attend table linen be given the necessary city of women being compelled to work at unreasonable hours to put it in order for the next event." The man knew that the lady would keep her word, so through her influence the oppression of the laundresses in that establishment was practically ended.

Reform Society Leaders.

The influence of the society woman is an important factor in any reform. Years ago Susan B. Anthony said: "There never will be any real progress made in woman suffrage until women of social prominence took it up. After Mrs. Clarence Mackay and Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont joined the ranks, the suffrage movement in New York city began to flourish. A woman no longer is ashamed of believing in equal rights in New York. On the contrary, if she does not belong to a suffrage club she begins to make apologies for being so far behind the times.

The charities and philanthropies of the society woman are almost boundless, but she is constantly perplexed to know whether it is best to follow them secretly or to let her interest be known in order that others may profit by her example. Many women find the keenest pleasure in helping those in need only to have the edge of their own enjoyment lessened when news of their efforts is published in the public press. Yet many times this seems to be necessary for the good of the cause they wish to aid. While the type of social climber exists who is trying to purchase social recognition by her philanthropic work and contributions to charity, she represents a small minority of the women recognized as society leaders.

The term, "society women," covers a wide range and, therefore, includes many individual types. Each of them is supplied with problems peculiar to her particular circle. The wife of the one rich man in a small town of necessity is the social leader there and has many obligations resting upon her which her neighbors have not. It is her privilege to lead in every movement for the betterment of her town. If she is a timid shrinking person this may be hard to do, but the great influence of the women's organizations of the present time is teaching her the duty of fulfilling her responsibilities in this respect and she is responding grandly to the occasion.

Each individual member of a large millionaires' club has special calls made upon her for varying purposes.

JOE'S DECLINE

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"Joe Tinker," says the ought to get a few acres of land somewhere and go to farming."

"But it was only a little while ago that you were telling me you considered him one of the greatest ball players that has ever lived."

"Ah, but he's changed," said the Cincinnati club since then. He's saw his best days."

NO. 12 THE MENTAL EFFECT OF SAVING

"Savings deposits in a bank are like an anchor to a ship—useful in calm, vital in a storm."—J. Pierpont Morgan.

Without contentment and an easy mind, no man can be really happy or successful in his work and in this fact lies the psychology of saving. It means just this—besides the actual amount of money you accumulate by systematic saving, you get very valuable mental effects.

The mind has a great influence over the body. Saving makes you think success thoughts. It creates in you a desire to get ahead, and desire is the first step toward attainment.

Saving frees you from worry about the present, and from anxiety for the future.

Therefore, the psychological effect of saving is that you are enabled to give your whole attention and best efforts to your work.

In short, when you save regularly you can do better work and more of it, and thus you will be happier both now and in the future.

There is a sure and simple way to provide for a comfortable old age. It consists of making the most of the active years of your life, not only in earning money, but also in saving it. A savings bank account will make you save. Open one now and prepare for your comfort in that future time when falling strength and lessening income will make money saved and working for you a great blessing indeed.

If any young man starting out in life will make up his mind to save 20 per cent of his income, and stick to this determination through thick and thin, he will have enough to retire on in his old age, just from accumulated savings and interest, while judicious investments from time to time would put him in really comfortable circumstances.

If you want real pleasure, live for more than the present, and if you do that, one of the most important parts of your life plan will be to save from your present income, to provide for your needs at that future time when you will cease remunerative work, either from choice or necessity.

WHAT ENGLAND WILL DO IS QUESTION

Military Policy Important in View Heavy Armament on the Continent

MAJORITY IN FAVOR PEACE

Race for Naval Supremacy Is Over, and Army Is of Less Importance on Isle

By PHILLIP EVERETT

LONDON, March 29.—What will England do? That is the question which is uppermost in every mind, though it can hardly be said to be on everyone's lips.

What will England do in the present crisis which has forced continental powers to demand hundreds of millions for bigger armies, stronger fortresses and heavier or more modern guns at the very moment when the English had begun to hope that the end of this anxious race was in sight? Some there were who had hoped that the king's speech would contain some hint as to what the government intended to do, but when the speech was read, it was plain that the question came back again: Is this country to remain a passive spectator, or has it a certain task to perform, and if so, what, then, is this task? It is a painful doubt which keeps the country in breathless suspense. At the very first moment the Times, which, in spite of all, is still considered by some people the official voice of the country, warned France against thinking of a war of attrition, in which it could count on no assistance from England. The liberal government endorsed this warning, but, after all, this is the more negative side of the question. In regard to the positive outcome, it seems impossible to reach an agreement, and opinions differ very greatly.

Many Favor Conscription.

We have among us a certain class who would like to see England enter the great race for stronger armaments, with conscription and everything else. But anyone who keeps his eyes open may see that this class has scant prospects of success. England is ready to make financial sacrifices for the army, but it has no military traditions, and no love of militarism. Since the days of the reformation England has carried on no great wars on land, and even if we count the civil wars, England has, since the days of Henry VIII, been left out of the evolution of land fortresses and artillery. It is to say, it has no practical experience with modern arms. Even at the great naval bases, real military fortifications are lacking, and in Portsmouth, the only basis where such were formerly found, they have been given up. For her defense England relies solely on her navy. The whole English mind is permeated by the idea that this country would have to accept an enemy's peace conditions if she lost her supremacy on the sea.

It is this attitude, one of the reasons that it was with a pronounced feeling of relief the English people heard that the race for naval supremacy is over, which no one had dared to hope till then. And as the army does not play a very important part in the English mind when the question is of the defense of the country, the events on the continent are followed without any great excitement, because it is generally felt that they contain no danger to England.

We are slowly moving people, and at present we have got no farther than to discover the reason of this crisis and the sudden rage for larger armies, and slowly we are beginning to realize that it is a result of the Balkan crisis and the policy which used every means to weaken Turkey, drive the Turks out of Europe and create a new powerful political factor in the

Lady Newborough

LADY NEWBOROUGH.

LONDON, March 29.—Lady Newborough, who was a famous Kentucky belle, is taking quite seriously her place on the committee of the Versailles ball to be held at Albert hall in June. Lady Newborough is in charge of the Polish quadrille and is spending a lot of time examining the British museum for the authentic dress of Poland in the time of Peter the Great.

Always enthusiastic, Lady Newborough has started her arrangements early so that she may have the prettiest women and smartest men in her quadrille. There surely is no one in London who loves dancing so well as this tall American, who attends at least 100 balls annually.

Balkan allies to strengthen the triple entente.

Genuine Rejoicing at First.

At first there was a general rejoicing among the powers of the triple entente that German diplomacy had once more been outwitted, but there is considerable less rejoicing now that Germany is endeavoring to solve with retelling of swords the problem which her diplomats failed to solve at an earlier stage of the game. But even though this conviction is gaining ground here, that Russia and France made use of England for their own purposes to undermine Germany's prestige, nobody dares say what is to be done by England now to avert the present crisis. It is realized that France will have 500,000 soldiers less than Germany, and that Italy, in case of a war, will force France to keep an army of at least 200,000 soldiers near the Italian frontier, while Austria will keep Russia in check in spite of anything which the English squadron in the Mediterranean may do. There remains, then, the English army of 160,000 men to support France against Prussia, but the question is, would England dare send her army to France?

In English Liberal circles in London, as well as in the provinces, the opinion prevails that the balance of the continental powers is a question which does not interest or concern this country, and that in no case dare England enter upon a policy apt to encourage France to rely on active English assistance in a war with Germany. Influential and widely read conservative papers also seem inclined to oppose active participation by England.

Altogether the outlines of the old English policy of isolation are seen more and more plainly, which gave rise to the great influence on the continent, because she let the continental states settle their own quarrels without taking sides with anybody. On the liberal side, however, the efforts continue to bring about a reconciliation between Germany and France.

ARMY INCREASE IN GERMANY 168,000

This Number New Recruits to Be Taken in Annually, It Is Informally Reported

REORGANIZATION PLANNED

Only One Newspaper States That Plans Are Directed Against France

By FREDERICK WERNER.

BERLIN, March 29.—The details of the military plans of the German government will, of course, remain unknown until they are formally laid before the reichstag next week or possibly a few days later. But in order to prepare the people and their representatives in parliament the government has followed its usual custom and given out several hints through the semi-official press which may be relied upon to be quite correct.

According to the "Berliner Lokal Anzeiger," the annual increase in the number of recruits will be about 65,000 so that within two years the army will be strengthened by 4,000 officers, 15,000 noncommissioned officers, and 117,000 men. With these additions a third battalion will be given to 18 regiments which still have but two, the companies will be strengthened throughout, and the frontier corps will be brought up to the higher establishment. Six new cavalry regiments will be demanded, and will also be allotted to the frontier districts.

An addition of nearly 30,000 horses will make it possible for the field artillery batteries to exercise with all six guns and some of the ammunition wagons. The cavalry divisions are not to be established permanently, but are to be brought together more frequently for maneuvers.

A portion of the nonrecurring expenditure will go to strengthening and reorganizing the fortifications on the eastern frontier, and half a dozen fresh battalions of foot artillery are to be formed and provided with independent machine gun companies. The horseing of the heavy artillery will also be supplemented. Further, there will be considerable additions to the searching companies, and the train, telegraph and pioneer battalions.

Thunders Against France. The only paper which makes the assertion that the government's plans are directed against France, is, strangely enough, the "Kuehnle Zeitung," which has often been used as a special mouthpiece of the government, but which now thunders against France in expressions like these:

"We do not underestimate the factors that have arisen from the new order in the Balkans, but when sacrifices are demanded as at present the finger must be plainly pointed to the

GERMAN ATTACK ON FRANCE IS BUGBEAR

Radical Press Points Out the Reasons for Kaiser's Armaments

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, March 29.—Realizing it is powerless to oppose the people of France in their desire to make their country ready to resist a German attack, the radical press is now endeavoring to convince its readers that the Kaiser has no intention of attacking France, and that the German army is to be strengthened against a different enemy, making it absurd for France to rush into new military expenditures.

The radical "Lanterne" writes: "Read the inquiries published by the German press, or the declaration made by Herr von Bethmann-Hollweg in the reichstag. Read also the way in which these same journals justify the new armaments, and you will see that it is the Balkan war which has made our neighbors think it is the only way to the scene of a new and ambitious people whose united force is a menace to Austria and a considerable addition to Russia's forces which is the new disquieting fact for Germany. Austria is obliged to watch and hold in check the Slav peoples in the Balkans, and can no longer furnish to her ally anything beyond an assistance which amounts to practically nothing.

Then, again, Russia grows and grows, and at a few years her power will far surpass that of Germany. Germany no longer thinks of making war on England. She warily tries to take measures against an aggression which France does not contemplate. What she is growing uneasy at is the progress of Russia and the development of the Slav peoples in the Balkans. It is in order to parry this danger and supply the place of Austrian aid that she is pushing forward her armaments and increasing her effectiveness.

Miss Emily Grigsby

MISS EMILY GRIGSBY.

LONDON, March 29.—American hostesses who are thought to have paid Miss George Koppel and her young daughter suddenly as soon as she left following the death of King Edward, are now expected to return to London since Mrs. Koppel's restoration to almost supreme power.

No one would be surprised even if Miss Emily Grigsby returned. In her fight for recognition in London she was never able to get quite in Mrs. Koppel. But everyone will remember that Miss Grigsby was able to see the coronation of King George from within Westminster Abbey, and that she claimed to have relieved her lungs during the long wait for the coronation with a luncheon sent her by Princess Mary.

Miss Grigsby was the ward of John T. Yerkes, the late traction magnate of Chicago and London.

Quarter from which the nearest danger threatens us. That is France. Never has our relationship to our western neighbor been so strained as today. Never has the "revenge" idea showed itself there so undisguisedly, and never has it been so clear that France claims the Russian alliance and English friendship solely for the purpose of reconquering Alsace-Lorraine. Therefore, in whatever quarter the world may catch fire, it is quite certain that we shall have to choose blades with the French. When it will happen no one can know.

After Military Comes German Industrial Spy

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, March 29.—After the military comes the industrial German spy. The other day two sons of a jeweler in the Rue de la Paix observed a man standing in front of the shop window and copying models, the jeweler's sons questioned the artist, then struggled with him. He made his escape, but left his pocketbook behind.

The pocketbook contained numerous proofs of industrial espionage. It was deposited in the archives of the Jewellers & Goldsmiths' company, where there are other pocketbooks which were seized under similar circumstances. Altogether there were 60 designs of jewelry in the book and simple sketches, but drawings carefully executed and of astonishing finish. The designs were accompanied with notes in German indicating the nature of the stones used, in the jewelry, the number of pearls in a bracelet, etc. It is now considered that the time has come to protect shopkeepers against this kind of espionage, and the prefect of police will be asked to employ all the means in his power to prevent the copying and photographing of models in shop windows.

AGRICULTURISTS LEAVING ENGLAND BY HUNDREDS

LONDON, March 29.—The depopulation of the part of England known as the West country which includes some of the finest agricultural land in England is watched by the government with considerable concern at a time when it is hoped to revive agriculture here. At the same time the colonies are holding out greater inducements than ever to settlers and the spring exodus to Canada and Australia threatens to break all records. That the small remaining agricultural population of England is leaving the country is not to be wondered at for even in Russia are the peasants flying under such miserable conditions as here.

STARTS DEBATE ON WEDNESDAY

REICHSTAG WILL DISCUSS MILITARY LAW

Germany Wants to Avoid War With France, but Plans Are Misunderstood

By FREDERICK WERNER.

BERLIN, March 29.—On Wednesday next the reichstag meets again, and the debate on the new military law will begin in full earnest. In official circles it is hoped that during the time which has passed since the legislators separated before Easter, even those among them who are opposed to increased military expenditures on general principles will have realized that the government's plans are not prompted by any desire for war. That the money asked for, and the proposed increase of the army, are really measures which seem from a purely patriotic standpoint, are absolutely necessary for the safety of the empire under the new conditions which have resulted from the Balkan war.

"The government," he said, "sincerely wishes to avoid a war with France, but although we know, of course, that our plans were sure to be misunderstood in that country, we had no other choice as good patriots, than to increase our military armaments. The victories of Bulgaria and Serbia have completely upset the military balance of Europe. Until Turkey was crushed Germany's situation was not a dangerous one.

Could Count on Austria. We could count on the armies of Austria to hold Russia in check in case of war, until we had defeated the armies of France, and were able to throw the full strength of our army against Russia. But this is no longer so. We must bring even the greatest sacrifices, including the increase of our army up to the full complement of the country, for never has the German

INCOME TAX IS NOW TALKED OF IN FRANCE

Idea Growing That Rich Should Be Made to Bear Burdens of Taxation

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, March 29.—Some difference of opinion exists as to how the enormous amounts of money required should be raised for ever since the Kaiser made an appeal to the rich people of Germany to bear the greater part of the financial burden, the demand has been growing stronger here that also in this country the increased burden of taxation ought to be placed on the broadest shoulders and this idea has, of course, been adopted with much enthusiasm by the radicals and the Socialists. Here, too, there is an opportunity to introduce the bill and of the wages of a graduated income tax which they have advocated for several years without success.

A number of suggestions have been made, chief among these being the one that the state should sell the Western railroad of France, which, since it passed into the hands of the state, has cost the treasury many millions. Another suggestion is to put a special tax of $25,000 a year of all foreigners earning a living in France and it is calculated that this measure could produce an annual revenue of $15,000,000 but patriots are strongly opposed to this, as they do not want it to appear that the people of France are unwilling to bear the burden of their country's defense.

Voices are also raised principally among the moderate Republicans and the Nationalists against placing special taxes on the well-to-do. These people assert that while such a thing may be necessary in poverty stricken Germany it is not necessary in a rich and prosperous country like France.

Young Man Today Is More "Cheeky"

LONDON, March 29.—London hostesses are being unusually annoyed this season by the numerous cases of uninvited men and women who obtrude themselves into large social functions. "The young man of today is far more cheeky than the young men of a generation ago," declared a prominent hostess recently, "and the uninvited guest who edges his way in with the crowd at social functions is becoming a nuisance. The same remark applied to women, whose sole desire is to be seen in the same room as a duchess. I think that women are more common members than men of the great band of uninvited, who somehow seem to be present at the chief functions of the season. Once they gain admittance they have sufficient tact and breeding to secure invitations elsewhere, and their path therefore forward is easy. Their future conversation usually begins: My friend, the duchess, or I said to Lady

Mrs. Lewis Harcourt

MRS. LEWIS HARCOURT.

LONDON, March 29.—Mrs. Lewis Harcourt, who was Mrs. Mary Burns of New York and a niece of John P. Morgan, is recognized as one of the best dressed Americans in London. She has just ordered an evening toilette of the latest absolute green brocade, enriched with a faint tracery of silver. The jupe wraps over in front and is cut away to show the ankles, while elegant soft pleats are introduced on the hips to secure the proper effect so much admired at the moment.

At the back the brocade is draped up under a leaf pointed panel of net powdered with minute emerald green beads, while its edges are punctured with a series of small medallions worked in beads of the same vivid green. The train is cut in two points and slit up to the ankles. While a headed panel falls over it with charming effect.

The corsage is a pale absolute green chiffon, arranged in soft folds over the shoulders, and supplemented with a yoking of headed net which is suspended in a short gathered blouse below the waist. In front, this likewise being outlined with sparkling motifs of bead embroidery, while a cascade of creamy shadow lace softens the line of the corsage under the arms.

"The influence of Russia will always predominate in Bulgaria and Serbia, and in case of war these two countries are now strong enough to keep the greatest part of Austria's army busy, so that Germany must depend on her own soldiers to ward off a Russian attack. This means that we will have to make front towards east and west simultaneously and under such conditions it is our plain duty to build a chain of impenetrable fortresses along our eastern frontier to keep the Russian Bear in check. Such fortresses cost money, but Adrianople has shown their immense value to a country defending itself against a foreign invasion.

"Even in France the government is beginning to see that our plans are not to be taken as a challenge, but are necessary for our self-defense, and we hope that our adversaries in the reichstag will show themselves to possess as much common sense as a foreign government, who was naturally alarmed at first.

Russia is growing more powerful every day, and even if we are on most friendly terms with the czar's government, we must not expose it to temptation.

SHERIFF LOOKS LIKE JUDGE; IS ASSAULTED

LONDON, March 29.—While Sheriff Maslow was walking along the main street of Lifford, recently, he was overtaken by a laborer who dealt him a severe blow on the nose with a stick and fell him to the ground. The assault was witnessed by two constables who pinned the man down. The sheriff was unable to attend to the case and was taken home to Edinburg by motorcar, but though he lost a considerable quantity of blood, it is understood the wound is not serious. The assailant is alleged to have been a grudge against the sheriff, who looks like a county court judge in England, and recently tried a case under the workmen's compensation act in which the man was concerned.

AGED LIFELONG FRIENDS MARRY WIDOWED SISTERS

LONDON, March 29.—A romance of lifelong friendship has been disclosed in the death of William Becker of Norfolk, at the age of 83. When they were boys, Mr. Becker and a comrade named Charles Silver went to America. There, in time, they made fortunes, and married, but it was as widowers that they returned together to England 125 years ago. They then both married again, their wives being widowed sisters. The four had been children together. Mr. Silver died five weeks ago at 85, and grief at his loss hastened the death of his lifelong friend.

BIG WAVE OF ENTHUSIASM IN FRANCE

Patriotism Sweeps Country, Which Is Regarded As Undergoing Resurrection

MEN FLOCKING TO ENLIST

Reestablishment Three-Year Army Service Is Well Received Everywhere

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, March 29.—Higher and even more irresistible grows the tremendous wave of patriotism that is sweeping across the country, making our hearts beat with pride and joy in having lived to see the glorious resurrection of France, which pessimists in all countries had declared doomed to decay and fall.

No one can deny that the bill drafted by the government now before the reestablishment of the three years' service is an exceedingly drastic measure. It demands great sacrifices from the young men of France, but in the eyes of the men who will have to make these sacrifices it does not even seem far enough, because it does not bring our army up to the same size as that of Germany, and if a vote were taken among those who are about to enter military service, I am convinced that they would hail a military term of five years with even greater enthusiasm. Though the Socialist leaders are trying their utmost to convince the people that the government is trying to foment a war scare for political reasons, everyone feels that unless France gives Germany proof of her determination to sacrifice everything in the defense of her country war will come before long.

Student Example Being Followed.

The example set by the students of the Paris colleges is being followed all over the country. The government is receiving daily signed memorials from boys who declare that they will gladly serve three years in barracks and assist in the national defense.

During the last few days, a large number of young men have voluntarily offered to serve three years. Young men who belong to the societies of military preparation welcome the three years' service. M. Adolphe Chéron, the president of the Union of Societies of Military Preparation, points out that as the physical improvement of the race is the source of all efficacious defense and prosperity, the advantages attached to physical education and military preparation should be increased by future legislation. As to the effect of military service on medical instruction, Professor Laroche, dean of the faculty of medicine, declares that since the three years' service he deemed indispensable to the university, more reconcile the interests of the high culture of the nation with those of national defense. He is of the opinion that the solution of the problem is not a difficult one.

SWINDLED PRIEST IS DISCOURAGED BY RED TAPE TRIAL AT ROME

By GEORGE DUFRESNE.

PARIS, March 29.—The Abbe Rigaud of Limoges has been swindled in a barefaced fashion by a couple of Italian adventurers. The priest had been at loggerheads with his bishop. As the bishop had censured him, he desired by appeal to Rome against this sentence.

An Italian priest, who described himself as the librarian at the Vatican, appeared on the scene and offered to recover the abbe's victory before the Roman tribunals. The cost of the trial could be $2,000, plus the expense of the journey to Rome. The swindler of the priest that the trial was lost, a lawyer, who upon he received a copy of a supposed bill, in which the pope was made to fulfill against the bishop of Limoges and to praise the priest. Very pleased at receiving the bill, the priest published it in a newspaper which he edited. The bishop denied it by a letter from Cardinal Merry del Val.

The Italian again appeared on the scene with a letter bearing the papal autograph. But he required $2,500 from the Abbe Rigaud before he would part with it. A month afterwards he introduced to the abbe an individual, a Count Decca, an emissary from the pope, and nephew of Pope Leo XIII. The judgment of the Roman court was at last to be decided, and it would be in favor of the priest, who, however, would have to pay $1,000 for sundry expenses. The priest said confident, parted with $1,200, and as he had no more money, he signed a note for $500, which was to fall due on the first of March. The two swindlers have not yet presented it.

UP-TO-THE-MINUTE SPORTING NEWS

NEW YORK AMERICANS WILL SAIL FOR GOTHAM TUESDAY

Yankees Have Had a Promising Trip With Chance

By W. J. MACSETH.
HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 29.—Frank Chance and his New York Yankees have just returned from the most promising trip since the team's departure from New York. On Tuesday afternoon the Yankees will sail for New York to put on the finishing touches for the opening of the busy campaign. Games to Brooklyn, a week from today and the following Monday should furnish some real hits on the outfield for the Peerless Leader.

So far as training is concerned there is nothing to be feared. The boys are all in the very pink of condition. For more than a month they have been in the hands of the best trainers in the world. The weather was ideal. The training was perfect. The team was able to practice and practice hard every day.

Worried About Himself.
Chance has been worried with the latest aggregation since assuming command. He was his chief worry when he first reported. It was his anxiety to get the team in the best of condition for the move involved plenty of risk. The great Hal Chase had to be sacrificed from first to second to make room for the Peerless Leader. Chase had not played the key position for many years. First base had become second nature to him. But he went to his new task with a right good will and appears to have mastered it. There is just one fault with Chase. He is a dashing blade, reckless to a degree and is consequently inclined to take too great risks with his own person. He forgets, sometimes, that the hazards of his new position are far greater than they are at first base. Hal is so fast and shifty, however, that he can protect himself in situations that would be next to fatal to a less agile player. If he is fortunate enough to go through the season without serious harm he is bound to prove as great a revelation as the undying as he has always been on the initial cushion.

Of Chance there is no need of worry. He will play as great a game as he ever played in his life. That is saying a lot but it is not putting it too strongly. Chance's whole soul and ambition is to make 1913 his most fruitful year. If for no other reason than revenge on C. W. Murphy. The big fellow's legs are as good as a dollar for the first time in five years. He is no longer troubled with the aggravated headache which handicapped him during his last three years in Chicago. His eye is clear and he is hitting and running as never in half a decade.

The presence of the Peerless Leader in the field should do much to make that combination very effective. Being on the field in a pinch and advising his pitchers and consulting with his disciples whenever embarrassing situations arise, Chance has not yet announced his lineup for opening day. Either Young or Herrick will be at short with Mattatop of the field. A young shortstop is the only cause of worry and either of the candidates is likely to give the very best account of himself, flanked as he will be by two steady veterans. Any combination of outfielders will compare favorably with anything in the league. It is altogether probable that Chance will be sent to left field instead of center, when south-pawers are encountered. Port bats right-handed. Jack Lehoucq, Lehoucq, however, hits a southpaw almost as well as he does a right hand tosser. Weiler and Cree are both sound again. They need no introduction.

It may take some time for Chance to smooth out the rough edges of his aggregation. But he banks on the fine condition of his men to get away to a very advantageous start. He pins great faith to the pitching department. He believes his corps of fingers the very finest he ever commanded. He boasts not only of the quality of the highest order of "in school" he expects to southpaw phenomenon before the season is ended. Chester Hoff, too, has shown wonderful possibilities. Of right handers Chance has so many apparently good ones that one could almost imagine they would be in each pitcher's bag. Russell Ford is performing just as he did when setting his brilliant record of 1910. Ray Caldwell is in shape for the first time in the knowledge of men. Fisher, McConnell and Warhop all declare that they are better now than they ever were two months later any other season. Paddy Green and Ray Keating are inexperienced. It is true, but they are the experienced kind that is dear to the heart of the P. L. They are young, big, strong and willing. Possessed of worlds of stuff, Chance is not likely to turn this pair loose at once unless some epidemic puts all his veterans on the blink at once. He will nurse them along, giving them lots of work to do in the matter of pitching, in batting practice and in the morning exercises. He thinks that before the end of the year if occasion demands that they will be able to turn things upside down.

Wants Good Start.
Chance is pulling hard for a favorable start. He realizes that on this greatly depends his show of bettering American league conditions in New York. His sliding will be extremely tough for a few weeks, because the company will all be strange to him. Other clubs have a good line on what the Peerless Leader packs in the way of material. He knows nothing about his rivals. If he is able to stick up around the top until after he takes the first swing through the west then all well and good. He has the team playing Chance baseball—the kind that characterized the play of the celebrated Cubs of world's championship days. It is not playing as good baseball as

THREE STAR NATIONAL INFELDERS

Left to right: Al Bridwell, the former Boston shortstop, who will take Tinker's place in the Cub infield this year; Haas Wagner, the old Pirate star, whose playing shows no signs of slowing up; and Joe Tinker, late of the Cubs and now manager, and short stop for the Cincinnati Reds. It remains to be seen whether Tinker will be the same brilliant performer with the management of a club resting up on him as when he handled the short field job for the old Chicago lineup.

The Cubs by any means, for he has not had time to weld the boys together properly and to drill them thoroughly in his methods. That will take time, much time. But he has the satisfaction of knowing that the further the

PROHIBITION OF BEAN BALL URGED BY PIRATE PLAYERS

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 29.—Many well informed baseball critics will be inclined to take issue with Manager John J. McGraw on the question of the relative importance of different departments of baseball. McGraw was lately quoted as dividing the sport on the basis of 100 per cent into the following classes: Batting, 30 per cent; pitching, 30 per cent; fielding, 25 per cent; and base running, 15 per cent. It will be found by many students of the game that the Giants' leader has rated the relative importance of pitching entirely too low, and that at least 50 per cent of a team's strength or weakness is in the hurling department.

Some would put it even higher than this, one veteran major league slapper giving the opinion that the box work requires 80 per cent of the club's strength. It probably would be hard to convince the majority of fans that pitching is not fully as important as everything else combined. This does not mean that they believe a club can win a pennant with pitching alone. They do think, however, that one whose slab corps is weak has little chance.

Since Jennings took hold of the Detroit club it has been a hitting aggregation and one that has made a lot of runs. With such sluggers as Cobb and Crawford constantly on duty, not to mention others who have been with the club for greater or less periods during the Jennings regime, there has been no lack of force in the attack. In fact, for the six year period mentioned the Jungs have been up with the best of them in the scoring way.

The first three years that Haggie was the Tiger leader he had good pitching in addition to his hard hitting, and the result was a trio of pennants. The hurling of 1907, 1908, and 1909 may not have been the most brilliant in the world, but Jennings' performance in 1907, but it was remarkably consistent, and the staff was a well balanced aggregation. In 1911 the pitchers went home and the Tigers had to be content with third place. In the early days of 1911 the club's great work in the spring made it look like a sure pennant winner, but when the heavy brigade fell to pieces, and in spite of the early lead secured, the jungle troupe was passed by the Athletics, who won the pennant with something to spare.

More than the Navin athletes, scored but 68 tallies, and was sixth in the league in club batting.

Boston had both good pitching and good batting. Washington received great service from its slappers, particularly Groom and Johnson, while the Tigers, who hit fairly well, couldn't make enough runs to offset those scored against their own weak twirlers.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—Eddie Campi of San Francisco, was given the decision over Frankie Burns of Jersey City, at the end of their 20-round bantamweight boxing contest at Vernon today. Campi outpointed Burns throughout the fight.

Campi's tantalizing left jab and his clever footwork were bewildering to the eastern boy, who could score only in the close range milling. In the clinches Burns used a left to the body, the only blow he was able to employ effectively. He was hopelessly outclassed in the long range fighting.

There was not a knockdown and

ENGLAND AND FRANCE HAVE NO HEAVYWEIGHTS TO OFFER

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—There was more to Gunboat Smith's victory over Lombardier Wells than appeared at first glance. It settled the pretensions of the one foreigner who was supposed to have a voice in the attention of the world's championship controversy. The issue is confined to Americans entirely now. It is easy enough to make this argument stick. Take the case of the bombardier to begin with. On his own side of the pond he was acknowledged to be far and away the best of the heavies. His defeat by Palmer was excused on the plea that he suffered from heat or had not divested himself of his sea legs and he was accorded another lease of life. He came back to this country, dubbed as the "representative of the British heavyweights," and he was panned because Luther McCarty did not consent to a shrinkage of the championship distance to ten rounds and give him battle in New York. He threatened to follow Luther around the theatrical belt and denounce him nightly.

England and France Eliminated.
To divert his mind from his troubles, he accepted a date with Gunboat Smith, and now he has gone back home.

That eliminates England.
France has her George Carpentier. Not so many months ago he was touted as a fit opponent for Jack Johnson. Since then he has been thrashed by a pair of American middleweights—Billy Papke and Frank Klaus.

This means that France has hauled down her flag.

Our Australian allies are not claiming anything much in the line of heavyweight supremacy. They know they haven't a leg to stand on. What is interesting the Australian critics just now is the question who is Australia's heavyweight champion.

They know, of course, that their best man, Billy Lang, was defeated by American Jack Lester, and that Lester was served up roasted, broiled and fricasseed by two colored chefs, Sam Langford and Sam McVea.

But the Australian sporting writers have hit upon the ingenious argument that an American scrapper cannot be regarded as an Australian champion because he is a "bird of passage."

Therefore, the question really becomes—who is the resident champion of Australia—and if a voting contest were inaugurated the chances are that poor old Bill Lang would win out.

Australia Promises Power.
Now sir, may a whimper of protest be likely to be forthcoming from Australia, no matter what disposition is made of the world's championship and for that reason and other reasons mentioned it becomes an American institution.

The question now is, when will the American survivors of the white hope movement arrange a series of tests to decide who is entitled to mount the pedestal.

Rig Men With Class All Confined to America Now

Before the bars went up against him Jack Johnson refused to box for Tom O'Rourke in New York because O'Rourke, in the years gone by, refused him an "employee's" ticket to a boxing contest, or had him thrown out after he had crept in under the canvas.

McCarney Hates Buckley.
Billy McCarney, manager of white champion Luther McCarty, is said to be bitter against Jim Buckley, who directs the fistic fortunes of Gunboat Smith, and all because Buckley once played some sly on McCarty when Billy was doing the best he could in pig Gotham.

As a consequence it is said that no man handled by Buckley is likely to receive recognition from champion Luther.

Gunboat Smith claims that Jess Willard once ran out after promising to box him in New York. Now Jess can go and whistle for a match.

It muddles the prospect but there is a grain of comfort in the reflection that money has a mollifying effect. It goes without saying that a McCarty-Smith, Willard or a McCarty-Willard match would pull a big gate, and as this is as evident to the warring pugilistic factions as to any one else the chances are that hard feelings will not prevail very long.

Now Up to Luther and Jess.
At present Smith, McCarty and Willard are the main factors in the championship dispute but Al Palmer will surely be heard from before the thing is finally settled. It would improve Al's chances of being allowed to cut in if he won a couple of fights before McCarty, Smith and Willard get very far along with their three-cornered tourney. But no matter how the thing works out, America has a cinch on the heavyweight championship of the world.

Jim Jeffries by the way, keeps repeating that he is seriously contemplating a return to the ring. He says further that it is a conviction that he can smother all the present hopes that has put the thought in his head.

It can scarcely be said, however, that Jeffries' utterances are causing any thing like a ripple of interest. If some clipping agency were to send Jim a collection of the remarks and opinions that his announcement has provoked, he would probably emulate the parrot that chided itself for talking too much.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10% Oversize

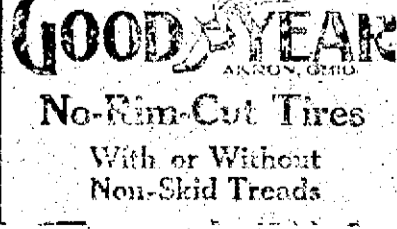

What Will It Cost to Know?

What will it cost to know and forever what Goodyear tires mean to you? Surely nothing at all. A No-Rim-Cut tire the leading tire of the world will surely serve at least as well as others. And a test may save you half your tire upkeep.

Judge by Meter. These are savings big enough to see. Let actual mileage tell you which tire to adopt. There is no need for guesswork. And remember that legions and legions of men have made this test on Goodyears. Men have used them for 14 years—used two millions of them.

As a result, these tires now outlast every other tire in existence. As another result, last year alone our sales increased by 125 per cent.

No Petty Saving. Don't look for petty savings. Look for something decisive. Statistics show that rim-cut tires ruin 23 per cent of all old-tire tires. And our 10 per cent over-size with the average car, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

ZOO CANDIDATES WILL HAVE WORKOUT TODAY

Weather and providence permitting, as the saying goes across the river in Newport, those Zooz will have a spring workout in Mr. Conklin's yard this afternoon, and all the unattached athletes in the region are invited to be on hand at 2 o'clock for an official lamping. This year it has been decided to cut out the customary training rip to Chagrin Falls, because the weather men guesses that gentle spring will not linger long in the lap of demon winter this trip, and it is pointed out that the work of conditioning can be done here as well as anywhere on the map. Like every one of the sixteen clubs in the big leagues, those Zooz look like sure pennant winners this season, for many of the old members will be back to tell for Mr. Conklin. Nothing has been heard from the Chicago magnate for some time, but he is expected to bob up here pretty early in the season with a couple of expert pastimers in tow.

FRANKLIN

The light-weight Franklin with its direct air-cooled motor will cut down your gasoline bills. 46.1 miles per gallon is the world's record made by the Franklin.

The Franklin is the car that made economy contests unpopular.

In the big economy run conducted by the Quaker City Motor Club of Philadelphia the Franklin was barred out.

The Entz electric starter, like other Franklin features, is simple and positive in action. It does not add a single control and it keeps the motor from stalling.

BOYS CLUB KEEP UP THEIR LEADERSHIP IN LEAGUE

The Boys Club Reds defeated the Colorado City High school second team in a well-played game of basketball last night at the Boys club gymnasium by a score of 15 to 12. In the Pikes Peak Girls School league the Colorado City High school girls defeated the Deaf and Blind school girls by a score of 20 to 12.

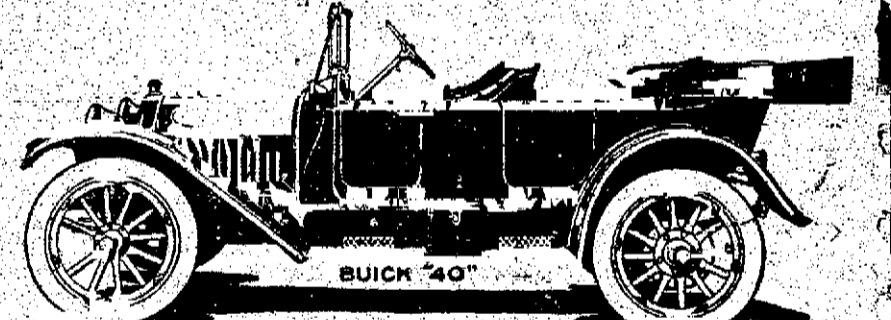

The Hamilton Jewelry company offers a silver cup for the winner in the Secondary School league, and the Powell-Donner company a pennant for the winner in the girls league.

100 Horses Are Being Pointed for Big Tracks

THINK M'GRAW RATES HIS PLAYERS TOO LOW

Critics Believe Good Pitchers Are Half of Team's Strength, Not Third; Batting Records Cited

NEW YORK, March 29.—Quietly and unobtrusively preparations have been made toward rehabilitating the sport of horse racing in the state of New York.

In the quiet little village of Saratoga, once known throughout the world as the mecca of western racing men, who first warm days of spring found a small army of laborers ready, assembled to repair the weed-grown race course.

700 Horses Ready.

At Bennings, Gravesend, Sheepshead and Belmont Park, which once harbored the kings and queens of the equine world and the elite of society, 700 thoroughbreds are in active preparation for the opening of the metropolitan season about June 1. Here also repair and restoration has been in progress for some time.

At the Aqueduct and Empire City tracks, black hostlers, farriers, West Virginians and Kentuckians, are likewise engaged in putting their blanketed charges through their daily paces, while handlers loiter about the stables and swap yards, awaiting past successes and failures.

Not back of all these prima facie evidences of the resumption of the sport is silence, silence and a vacant stare when definite news is sought from the various agencies regarding the program for the coming summer.

On the other hand, from among the ranks of the antirace track men rises a clamorous denial that the sport will again "ruin the young and breed bankruptcy among the old."

Both Factions Nervous.

It is the old story of the hawk and the squawking parrot. You pay your penny and takes your choice—between the noisy denials of the clerical and the quiet effectiveness of the owners, whose "good money" is not to be jeopardized by an untimely word, but whose millions are responsible for the unmistakable evidences of racing activities to be seen today.

August Belmont, who is regarded as the head of horse racing in this country; Phil Dwyer, owner of Gravesend and Aqueduct; James Butler, who controls the Empire City course; and William A. Engeman, who holds a heavy interest in the Brighton Beach circuit, are the men said to be the leaders active in the movement to rehabilitate the sport in New York. Their proposition lies in the decision of the appellate division of the state supreme court that oral betting is legal.

Before this momentous decision was made in the case of the state v. Paul Shane, the old Paul Shane antirace track laws, which passed the state legislature and was signed by the governor in 1908, made it possible to direct prosecution against the owners of the racetracks for any infringement of the antirace track law. It was this phase of the legislation which operated against the continuance of the sport. Under the Paul Shane ruling a form of betting will be possible without attendant prosecution.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 29.—Bobby Byrne's injury in the second game of the spring series with the Boston Red Sox is still being discussed in the Pirate camp, and from every known angle. What the effect will be upon the club, whether Bobby will be out of the game, or when he will be substituted for him—these are all matters of speculation among the players. There is also a lot of talk on the general subject of the "bean ball," the justification for its use by a pitcher, if any, and the desirability of amending baseball law in order to provide heavier penalties for hitting players with pitched balls.

So far as the injury to Byrne is concerned all the Pirates take the charitable view that Wood did not intentionally hit him. They give him the

FRENCH DRIVERS TO RACE IN AMERICA

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 29.—Definite word has been received from the Peugeot company of Paris, that two of the fastest cars, with Jules Goux and Zucarelli as drivers, will be entered in the third annual 500-mile international sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. This rumor has been current for some time, and its official confirmation by the Peugeot company adds unusual interest to the coming contest. It now being an assured fact that the 500-mile race will be truly international in character and should prove to be the greatest automobile race ever staged on an American track, if not in the world.

The cars have now left the factory and are being tested under the supervision of the engineers who designed them. It has been necessary to change the cylinder bore in order to lower the piston displacement to the 450 cubic inch ruling made by the Speedway this year.

According to present arrangements Goux and Zucarelli will arrive in America about May 12, and will proceed immediately to Indianapolis, where they will have a chance to become thoroughly acquainted with the Speedway before the day of the race. Albert Goux, who is to pilot the English Sunbeam car, will arrive in America about the same time and will also train at the Speedway.

Owing to the fact that all of these drivers are scheduled to arrive in the United States on July 12, it will be necessary for them to return to France immediately after the Indianapolis race.

Overland Model 69R
ROADSTER OR TOURING CAR.

Every Owner of an Overland is Sure an Overland Booster

Of times No Doubt You Wish You Had Bought One of Those

the car today not matched by any other make for less than $1500. There are so many advantages in this new Overland that printer's ink will not explain. We prefer to show them to you.

There is over $3,000,000 worth of the most modern automatic machinery in the Overland factories. Such equipment as this makes it possible for us to make the average $1500 car for $1060. They have one department which does nothing but take out and sell machines replaced by more improved ones. Let this simple arithmetic sink in: The installation of new machinery costing $100,000 means $20 per car to a maker of 5000 cars; to us it means but $2.50.

Think that over and you will realize why the car, described below, is possible.

The Overland factories possess the largest drop forge plant in connection with the industry. This means that they depend on no outside source for their drop forgings.

When a certain construction needs a drop forging we can go ahead and make it at minimum cost. Parts which cost others $9 each, we make for $3.

Thus you can see why we can do what others cannot do.

Once own an Overland, always own an Overland. No other car will ever be as satisfactory. This is not hot air, but COLD FACTS. Try sometimes to interest a party in some other make of car who has owned an Overland, see how soon they will let you know you are giving them that tired feeling.

Every owner of an Overland is sure an Overland booster.

Why? Because he is proud of his car and is never too busy to lose an opportunity to boost for it. Ask any Overland owner.

Imagine yourself in the predicament of an acquaintance of ours after learning that in his new car, costing more than the Overland—

He had a loose steering gear and no adjustment.
That his rear cylinder had too much oil, yet no adjustment for oiling.
That it required a special wrench to remove the spark plug.
That he had the old style cuts and cones in front wheels instead of Timkin bearings.
That he had a semi-floating rear axle instead of a floating.
That he had 1 1/2 inch instead of 1 3/4 inch springs.
That his rear wheels had six hub bolts instead of twelve in an Overland.
That his brakes were smaller and less efficient than the Overland.
That he had a $20.00 speedometer instead of a $55.00 one.
That he had a $22.00 windshield instead of a $50.00 one.
That his motor top was cotton instead of silk mixed.
That his tonneau was shorter than an Overland.
That his engine was deficient in power, Overland being full 20 horsepower.
That his tires were smaller than the Overland.
That in riding qualities the Overland was far ahead.
That in general his car was rated in his own mind and admitted to be $300 below the Overland price.

But after knowing these facts would you car then "drill" you with pride?

Take the state registrations at Sacramento; they tell the truth as to who sells the automobiles. Look over the "For Sale" ads in the Sunday papers. Are Overlands predominant in the ones for sale? No. Never!

Therefore, if these above statements are true (and we sure are sincere in them), then why any argument? The Overland is the car for you.

We do say once more: There's more value in a $1,060 Overland than any other car at $1,500 or less. Let us prove it. We refuse to knock, but we request will compare.

New Imported Models Spring Millinery

An enthusiastic expression of approval will greet the introduction of a collection of the new imported models which we just received yesterday.

In designing these smart hats so that they are generally wearable, French milliners have given a truly remarkable expression of their ingenuity. Lines have been studied with an artistic, refined sense that is seen in every shape of brim or crown, and in many odd ways of placing the trimmings. To be seen in this collection are many of the Georgette, Reboux and Guy models, in Alice blue and all the twine colors.

Be sure and see this display Monday on second floor.

If materials and shapes are selected in our Millinery Department, hat will be trimmed free of charge.

Milo-Fed "Llano" Hogs
Equal Corn Feds

Panhandle Stockman Makes Kaffir and Milo Net Him
$1.25 by Feeding It to Hogs 80-Pound Porkers Average 245 Pounds in 100 Days

By Victor H. Shoffelmayer, in "The Southwest Trail"

The lean meat from the Llano hogs had the rich pink tint of the best-bred and best-fed hogs hogs that he could secure were Llano from the Llano country of eastern Texas. He bought these hogs and fattened them on kaffir and milo. He fed them just 100 days. They weighed from 80 to 90 pounds each when put on kaffir and milo and averaged 245 pounds at the end of the feeding. The kaffir and milo fed to these hogs brought $1.25 per bushel, five times as much as was offered for it by the grain buyers. The hogs sold from $7.85 to $7.95 per hundred at Fort Worth and averaged about 2 per cent higher than the average of an entire day's kill at the packing plant of Armour & Co., February 5, last. The test is considered by stockmen a complete demonstration of the high-feeding value of milo and kaffir, which in this instance proved itself the equal of corn. According to the statement of H. E. Finney, general manager of Armour & Co.'s plant at Fort Worth, the hogs dressed about as high as the very best cornfed animals, and department heads, from foreman to superintendent, followed the tests with the greatest interest. The fat was a perfect white and as firm as marble, says the general manager, and the lean meat had the rich pink tint of the best-bred and best-fed hogs. The carcasses in every way were up to the highest corn-fed standard and created the liveliest comment throughout the packing plant.

Another important test with milo-fed hogs was made January 15, at Armour & Co.'s plant, Fort Worth, with a bunch of 53 hogs averaging 209 pounds and fed by E. D. Chambers of Alton, Texas, which dressed 3 1/2 per cent higher than any other hogs killed in the plant that day. The test was made under the personal supervision of L. J. Hoseney, department manager. Mr. Chambers fed his hogs as follows:

Eight and three-quarter pounds of milo and kaffir heads, soaked, divided into two periods, at 7 a.

m. and at 6 p. m. The hogs had had the run of alfalfa pasture for several months. They were from nine to eleven months old when marketed and never had been fed an ear of corn.

Mr. Chambers' hogs topped the market at Fort Worth at 8 cents a pound. It was his second car of hogs this season, and a third car will be shipped about May 1—all kaffir and milo-fed hogs. Mr. Chambers raised 250 acres of milo and kaffir last year. The kaffir was bundled with a row binder and the milo was headed. He intends to erect a large silo this year and experiment with cattle feeding on a large scale.

HOW KAFFIR-FED CATTLE

DRESS

Accurate tests made by Charles Campbell, for 12 years head cattle buyer for Schwartzchild-Sulzberger company, Oklahoma City, as to the relative dressing of kaffir and cornfed steers, on a 60 to 90-day feeding basis, were given to the writer by Mr. Campbell as follows:

Kaffir-fed steers, dressed, 53 to 54 per cent.

Two-thirds kaffir, one-third corn steers, dressed, 54 to 55 1/2 per cent.

One-half kaffir, one-half corn steers, dressed 55 1/2 to 56 1/2 per cent.

Cotton meal-fed steers dressed 54 to 55 1/2 per cent.

Mr. Campbell said he thought steers fed half corn and half kaffir dressed the most satisfactory from every standpoint. The more corn was fed the more marbled the fat was. Cattle fattened on cottonseed meal, he said, ran almost entirely to layers of fat on the inside instead of having it distributed through the carcass. He also said, in his experience, kaffir-fed steers, topped off with corn, saved at least 20 per cent of time in fattening.

Llano hogs fattened on Kaffir and Milo by J. C. Simmons

The fat from the Llano hogs was a perfect white and firm as marble.

PRISON LABOR ON PUBLIC ROADS

By Thos. J. Tynan, Warden the Colorado State Penitentiary, Canon City, Colo.

Prepared for the National Committee on Prison Labor

Colorado owes many of the wonderful thoroughfares and scenic beauties to the men who are housed in the gray prison at Canon City. The highway to the top of the Royal Gorge, the Skyline drive, the new Santa Fe Trail, and others always a source of wonder and delight to thousands of visitors are but the triumphant vindication of the "Honor System" of working convicts on state highways, exemplified in Colorado. This system has revolutionized penology and has demonstrated that through it the greatest good from financial, commercial and industrial vantage points can be gained for the community, as well as the reformation and reclamation of the criminal element. Splendid highways have been spot through mountain fastnesses, splendid manhood has been made from degraded, sullen and vicious men, and this has only been possible through a system founded on appeal to the best in man.

Convict labor on highways, as practiced in Colorado, Oregon, New Mexico, Wyoming, Arizona and Utah, is more or less a new feature. It is not to be confounded to the southern "contract" camps, where men are sold at auction to the highest bidder. From an economical standpoint, it has been a tremendous saving to the taxpayers of the state, and has given them roads, equal to any in the world. From a reformatory standpoint, it has been a still greater saving to society in lessened criminality, to the men themselves in increased self-respect, stamina of character and an added sense of reliability.

The first convict road camp was started in 1908. The work progressed slowly, and entirely too much attention was paid to the safe-keeping of the men at work. A short time after my induction into office as warden of the Colorado state penitentiary, we enlarged upon the honor system, increasing the number of camps, eliminating every vestige of armed guards and placed these men solely upon their honor, with the result that more than triple the quantity of work was performed. The men worked with an energy and a zeal that have never before been equaled; they worked so because they felt they were working for themselves, to retain the precious privilege of sunshine, outdoor work and the additional 10 days a month that the road work permits to be deducted from their sentence, in addition to the good time allowed by the law for good behavior. The camps are modern, sanitary and with no sign of physical restraint usually associated with prison life. The men pledged their word of honor and splendidly maintained it, establishing a standard of morale in the criminal world that has disproved the denunciations that the system was anarchistic, dangerous and foolhardy. The road camps are the hope of every man in the prison. The men are decently clothed in blue or khaki, they are better fed, work eight hours per day, and on Sunday their time is their own to fish, swim, play ball, listen to the phonographs, or otherwise amuse themselves.

By working convicts on public highways, we have saved the state many thousand dollars, and the taxpayers have received the benefit of this tremendous saving. To give an idea of the great saving to the state, I wish to quote a few figures, based on actual facts. During the years 1909-10 we built 57 miles of finished roadway, much of which had to be blasted out of solid rock, at a saving to the taxpayers of the state of over $160,000.

During the year of 1911-12 we built 157 miles of finished roadway at a total cost of $46,805.44, or at a cost of $298.12 per mile, saving the taxpayers of Colorado, $223,479.56 in actual cash. The above figures are based on contractors' estimates. The cost to maintain these men was just 32 cents per day per man. Not only are they building good, substantial roads, but also under competent overseers, they are obtaining a knowledge of physical condition that will enable them to earn honest livelihoods when they are released from this institution.

During the past four years we have had over 1,800 individual men working in our honor camps. These men without guards, some fifty and one hundred, and even three hundred miles away from the prison, have created a national reputation for loyalty. Only a little over one in every one hundred men have violated their pledges not to run away, which is far less than the desertions from the United States army and navy, and communities have come to feel as safe near our prison road camps as they would anywhere.

To my mind, there is no reason why convict labor should not be disposed of in every state in the Union, just as it is in the states mentioned above, and by eliminating the factory system from our penal institutions, and putting the ban on the convict-lease system, we will have done something worth while in the betterment of conditions existing in workhouses and penitentiaries throughout the United States. Students of criminology and political and social science should investigate our system of employing prison labor.

THE COLLEGE MAN OF 1413

From Harper's Weekly.
Oxford university is composed of 24 colleges. Among the largest of these is the one that, although it has stood for 500 years, is still called "new." It was built 100 years before the discovery of America by William de Wykeham, and was an expression of the most advanced ideas of education of the time. So far as the architecture and plan of the buildings are concerned, the five centuries that have since elapsed have suggested but little that is better. English and American college builders still follow De Wykeham's model.

The undergraduate in De Wykeham's time, in order to obtain his B. A. degree, studied the logic of Porphyry and Boethius, something of Aristotle, and enough of arithmetic to enable him to find Easter. Three years more were usually spent in studying geometry, astronomy and astrology. He lived in college. His allowance of money was one shilling a week. His breakfast was a piece of bread and a pot of beer at dawn. His dinner was eaten at 10 in the morning. He was given one suit of clothes yearly. Three times a year each student was required secretly to tell the masters of the misbehavior of his fellows, who then received "competent castigation." The rules laid down by De Wykeham prohibited visits to taverns on "spectacles," the keeping of dogs, the playing of chess and other "noxious and illicit sports, shooting with arrows or other missiles, dancing, running, wrestling or other incautious and inordinate amusements."

The only recreation permitted was the assembling around the fire on winter nights to indulge in "singing, or reading of poems and chronicles of the realm and of the wonders of the world." The college was summoned to dinner by two scholars, who ran around the quadrangles shouting in bad Latin and French. "Tempus est vocandi a mangel, O seigneur!" The "seigneurs" were obliged to eat in "absolute silence." Every girl tries to make her wedding just a little different from the general type, so that the day may be distinctively "her" wedding day, so remembered by her friends. Of course very little can be done to change the traditional order of it all. The difference must come from some touch of individuality that is added. One wedding recently occurred in an old homestead in the suburbs. In keeping with the olden rooms all the modern lighting was replaced with candlelight. The wedding was at sunset, and the curtains were all raised so that the glowing light of the outer world mingled softly with the candle light. Of course the candles were used in great quantities, so that there was no depressing dullness in the scene. Evergreen boughs formed an old-fashioned background for the other floral decorations. At another wedding the small page carried a large, very perfect calla lily, within which was the wedding ring. A bride in copying this pretty notion should be careful to have all the pollen taken from the lily, otherwise it will be apt to stain. At a third wedding the bride came down the aisle on her father's arm, but at the proper moment, the mother stepped from the pew and gave the bride away, so that she had a share in the actual wedding. It was a sweet thought that gave her more than the insignificant part the mother usually has in a marriage ceremony. A bride who wished to have some part of her wedding bouquet for herself as well as to toss it to bridesmaids to catch decided on a plan which met the case in both ways. This was to have the bouquet made in two pieces. Just before she paused and turned on the stairs to let it fall into the outstretched hands she loosened the ribbons, and then threw but one-half the bouquet. The other half she kept for a pot pourri. A WOOD THAT OUTLASTS IRON From the Boston Transcript.

A wood which, according to the department of agriculture, outlasts iron and steel when placed in water is British Guiana greenheart. It is used in ship and dock building, trestles, bridges, shipping platforms, flooring and for all purposes involving great wear and tear. When the greenheart dock gates in the Mersey harbor at Liverpool were removed in order that the channel might be deepened and widened, the same wood was again employed in building the enlarged gates, and wood placed in the gates of the Canada dock in 1856 was used again in its reconstruction in 1894. The use of greenheart has been specified for sills and tenders in the lock gates of the Panama canal. Nansen's ship, the Fram, and the Antarctic ship "Discovery" were built of greenheart. In addition to its use as timber, great quantities of the wood are made into charcoal. Though it grows in parts of British, French and Dutch Guiana, Venezuela, Brazil, Colombia, Peru, Trinidad, Jamaica and Santo Domingo, it is being cut only in British Guiana, where it is found along the sea coast and water courses. Greenheart used to bring $1 a cubic foot at the point of shipment, but the present price is considerably less. New York has 31,000 persons in its madhouses.

1812 Descendants Meet

As the years 1812-13 are anniversary of the last struggle our country had with England, it is interesting to some of the people in Colorado Springs that there is a possibility that a chapter of the society of the Daughters of 1812 may be formed here. There are already at least eight members in the order here, and only 10 are necessary for the formation of a chapter, and there were several in excess of that number at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss W. C. Gaudin, Mrs. Anna B. Winton of Denver, who is a member of that society, is of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames, and other patriotic organizations, was present at the meeting, and she hoped the women who were called to the meeting would have their own chapter, and she hoped the women who were called to the meeting would have their own chapter, and she hoped the women who were called to the meeting would have their own chapter.

To Say Farewell

A farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne, who will leave soon for California, where they expect to make their home, was given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Bradley, 14 North Nevada avenue. Cards were played and the first prize for the ladies went to Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Bert A. Farland, the second winners being Mrs. H. T. Cline and G. J. Bradley. Mrs. Joseph Glatfelter and Carl Cline won the consolation prize. After the cards had been laid aside, a luncheon was served, and Mrs. Bert A. Farland in a few well-chosen remarks, presented Mrs. Osborne with an enlarged photograph of the Needlecraft club. The picture was neatly framed, and was given as a memento by the members of the club. The guests were: Mrs. Robert Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Cline, Mr. and Mrs. Bert A. Farland, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glatfelter, Mrs. Glatfelter, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. C. H. Wood, Mrs. A. Snyder, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. Weber, Mrs. E. E. Weber, Mrs. Laura Stoddie, Mrs. John Eech, Mrs. J. L. Hunter, Mrs. Clarence Brown, Mrs. W. Kimes, Mrs. S. Walcott, Brown, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. E. H. Ashworth, Miss Kate Kinney, Miss Laura Weaver.

Celebrated Birthday

Wednesday afternoon, March 28, friends of Mrs. John Macquley Gates were invited to her home, 1095 North Main street, in celebration of her birthday. A program of songs and piano music was given by Mrs. S. Walcott, Brown, Mrs. Cyril Graves, Mrs. Moore and Miss Lulu Gates. A dainty piece of jewelry was presented to Mrs. Gates as a memento of the day by the guests, and refreshments were served. The following friends of Mrs. Gates were present: Mrs. A. C. Harwood, Mrs. Cyril Graves, Mrs. Margie Combs, Mrs. George Gatterer, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Swanson, Mrs. C. H. Wood, Mrs. A. Snyder, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. E. Weber, Mrs. E. E. Miss McCullough Will Leave Miss Rhoda McCullough, who has been general secretary of the Young Women's Christian association for the last two years, will leave for her home somewhere this week. Her resignation is in effect after April 1, and tomorrow will be her last day at the association. Her friends will regret her departure, since her work as secretary has been of great benefit to the organization. Miss McCullough's home is in Fremont, Ohio.

Local Composers Day Monday

Local composers day is an annual institution with the Colorado Springs Musical club, and the program planned for the meeting tomorrow at the Aeolian Hall at 4 o'clock will be a highly interesting one. Some of the compositions of Frederick Ayres, which will be heard again Thursday evening at the meeting of the American Music Society will be given tomorrow, and in addition there will be compositions of Mrs. Maude McFerran Piler, Nellie Callin and Albert C. Pearson. The program will be:

- (a) Songs of the Seagulls, Words by Kipling
- (b) Night Song in the Jungle
- (c) Hunting Song in the Jungle
- (d) Morning Song in the Jungle
- (e) Song before the Battle
- (f) Death Song

MRS. DAVID HOUSTON AND FAMILY

Mrs. David Houston, wife of the new secretary of agriculture, is not a newcomer in Washington, having spent several seasons in the national capital. She is a social favorite there. Mrs. Houston has already shown that she is a diplomat. Not until the list of cabinet selections were published did Mrs. Houston's name appear. Her only son, David, is now in the army, and she has three children, Franklin, 12, Helen, 9, and Lawrence, 2 months old.

ESPERANTO

The New Testament. By PROF. F. H. LOUD.

Since the writing of last week's Esperanto article, the writer has had his first sight of a work which seems beyond question the most important addition in years to the literature of the language—the translation of the New Testament. Its appearance has been long delayed. As much as three years ago its preparation was described as already well advanced, but the committee which had the work in charge, under the chairmanship of the Rev. Cyprian Rust of Cambridge, England, was determined that no pains should be spared in securing the nearest possible approach to perfection. As a number of writers was employed, it was necessary to spend much time in agreeing upon the methods of rendering similar expressions appearing in different books; thus two different translators, in treating the epistle of Saint Paul, would produce two works which in themselves would be fine translations, each admirably reproducing the meaning of the original, and yet one would employ a different expression from the other, in passages where the apostle had employed the same Greek word. These careful comparisons and adjustments consumed much time, but as a consequence there is no doubt that the version deserves a place of honor among all those which have appeared since the New Testament was originally composed, for it has been made by most competent scholars, having the advantage of consulting the work of numerous predecessors, and as has been said, performing their task with the most conscientious diligence.

The delays due to such causes are readily forgiven, but it is not so easy to put up with those which have been due to complications between book sellers and Bible societies. For in this way some who would gladly have been able to buy it of the publishers, the British and Foreign Bible society, as long ago as the 28th of last December. The first edition of 5,000 copies has already been nearly exhausted, but the great society which has undertaken this task will doubtless see that in the future the market will be kept supplied.

Among those who have come home after trips to the Pacific coast are Mr. and Mrs. Franklin R. Brown, who made an extended visit in the west. Carl Babcock of Colorado Springs is visiting in Santa Clara.

WORK and PLAY for the IDLE HOUR

Miss Norris' Answers to Correspondents

THE USEFUL, EMBROIDERED SQUARE

Slipper Case.

MISS E.—One of the newest and nicest cases for evening slippers is one that has two pockets and two openings, one at each end of the bag.

While these bags are very often made of silk, hand embroidered or painted, they can be evolved from less expensive material with very effective results.

The case is rectangular in shape with a flap at each end. These flaps fold over and are tied with ribbon when the bag is closed. The seam which divides the case is diagonal, thus making two triangular pockets with an opening at each end.

A slipper is put into each pocket, the flaps are folded over and tied with ribbon.

Cases of this kind can be made of cretonne lined with soft silk. The case can be bound with narrow ribbon, which would add to its attractiveness.

This case would make a very lovely gift for the girl who is socially inclined and likes to keep her dainty belongings in good condition.

Punch Embroidery.

L. L.—If you follow the directions for punch work as given below, you will not have any difficulty.

Punch work can be done on lawn and high-starch linen. In fact on any material where the threads are not too closely woven.

Punch work is done in the following manner: Fasten the thread in the underside of the material and bring it to the right side through the first dot of the second row. Put the needle in the dot immediately above which is the first dot of the first row and bring it out at the first dot of the second row; now put the needle in the first dot of the first row again and carry the needle across in a diagonal manner to the second dot of the second row.

Insert the needle in the dot just above which would be the second dot of the first row, and bring out at the second dot of the second row; put the needle in the dot just above again and bring it out at the third dot of the second row.

Proceed in this way down the two rows of dots. The second row of work is done over the third row of dots and the second row, where the dots have already been punched.

Two stitches are used in the work, one straight and one slant stitch; the straight stitch lies the details of the fabric and the diagonal stitch brings the needle into position.

The work should be entirely completed in one direction and then the work should be turned and the stitches taken at right angles to those already worked, and in exactly the same way as described above.

A punch work needle must be used for the work.

If you send a stamped self-addressed envelope, can give you the information you wish, but cannot give addresses through the columns of the paper.

Am indeed glad that you find the embroidery patterns so serviceable that you keep them on file.

Embroidered Dots.

Miss P. T.—Embroidered dots are still used in the designs for lingerie. The only decoration on one of the new French lingerie sets was scallops (consisting of several small scallops) in Van Dyke shape with dots graduating in size, radiating from the points.

To successfully embroider dots is really difficult and can only be accomplished when the underlay is neatly done. Lay the padding from side to side just inside the marked line, and then work the dot, laying the stitches in the opposite direction from the underlay, covering the marked circle.

Hedabo and Reticello.

G. V.—The distinction between Hedabo, which is the native Danish work and Reticello or Italian dot work, lies in the difference of the designs for each in characteristic of its own country and that the Danes employ the buttonhole stitch, while the Italians use the blind-stitch.

Both are elaborate and difficult, embroideries are very similar for the beautiful Venetian point stitch is used in both embroideries to fill the open spaces, and that is why they are so often confused.

Collar and Cuff Set.

Mrs. P.—A collar and cuff set was published January 26, 1913. This pattern has a border of butterflies, to be done in solid satin stitch, buttonhole and punch embroidery.

As this was the only punch-work set published recently, think it is what you wish.

You can secure this edition from the Circulation Department of the paper.

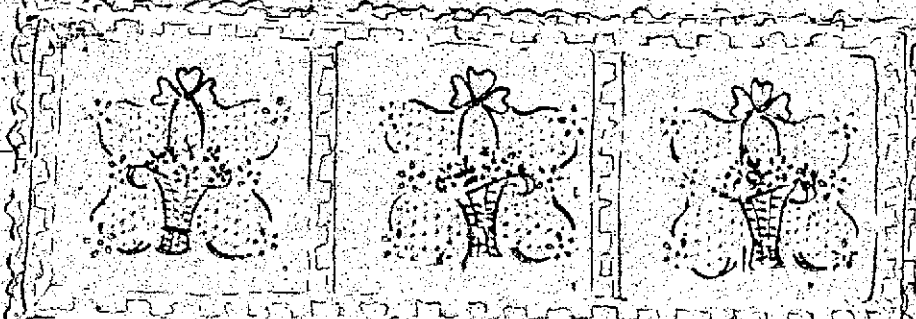

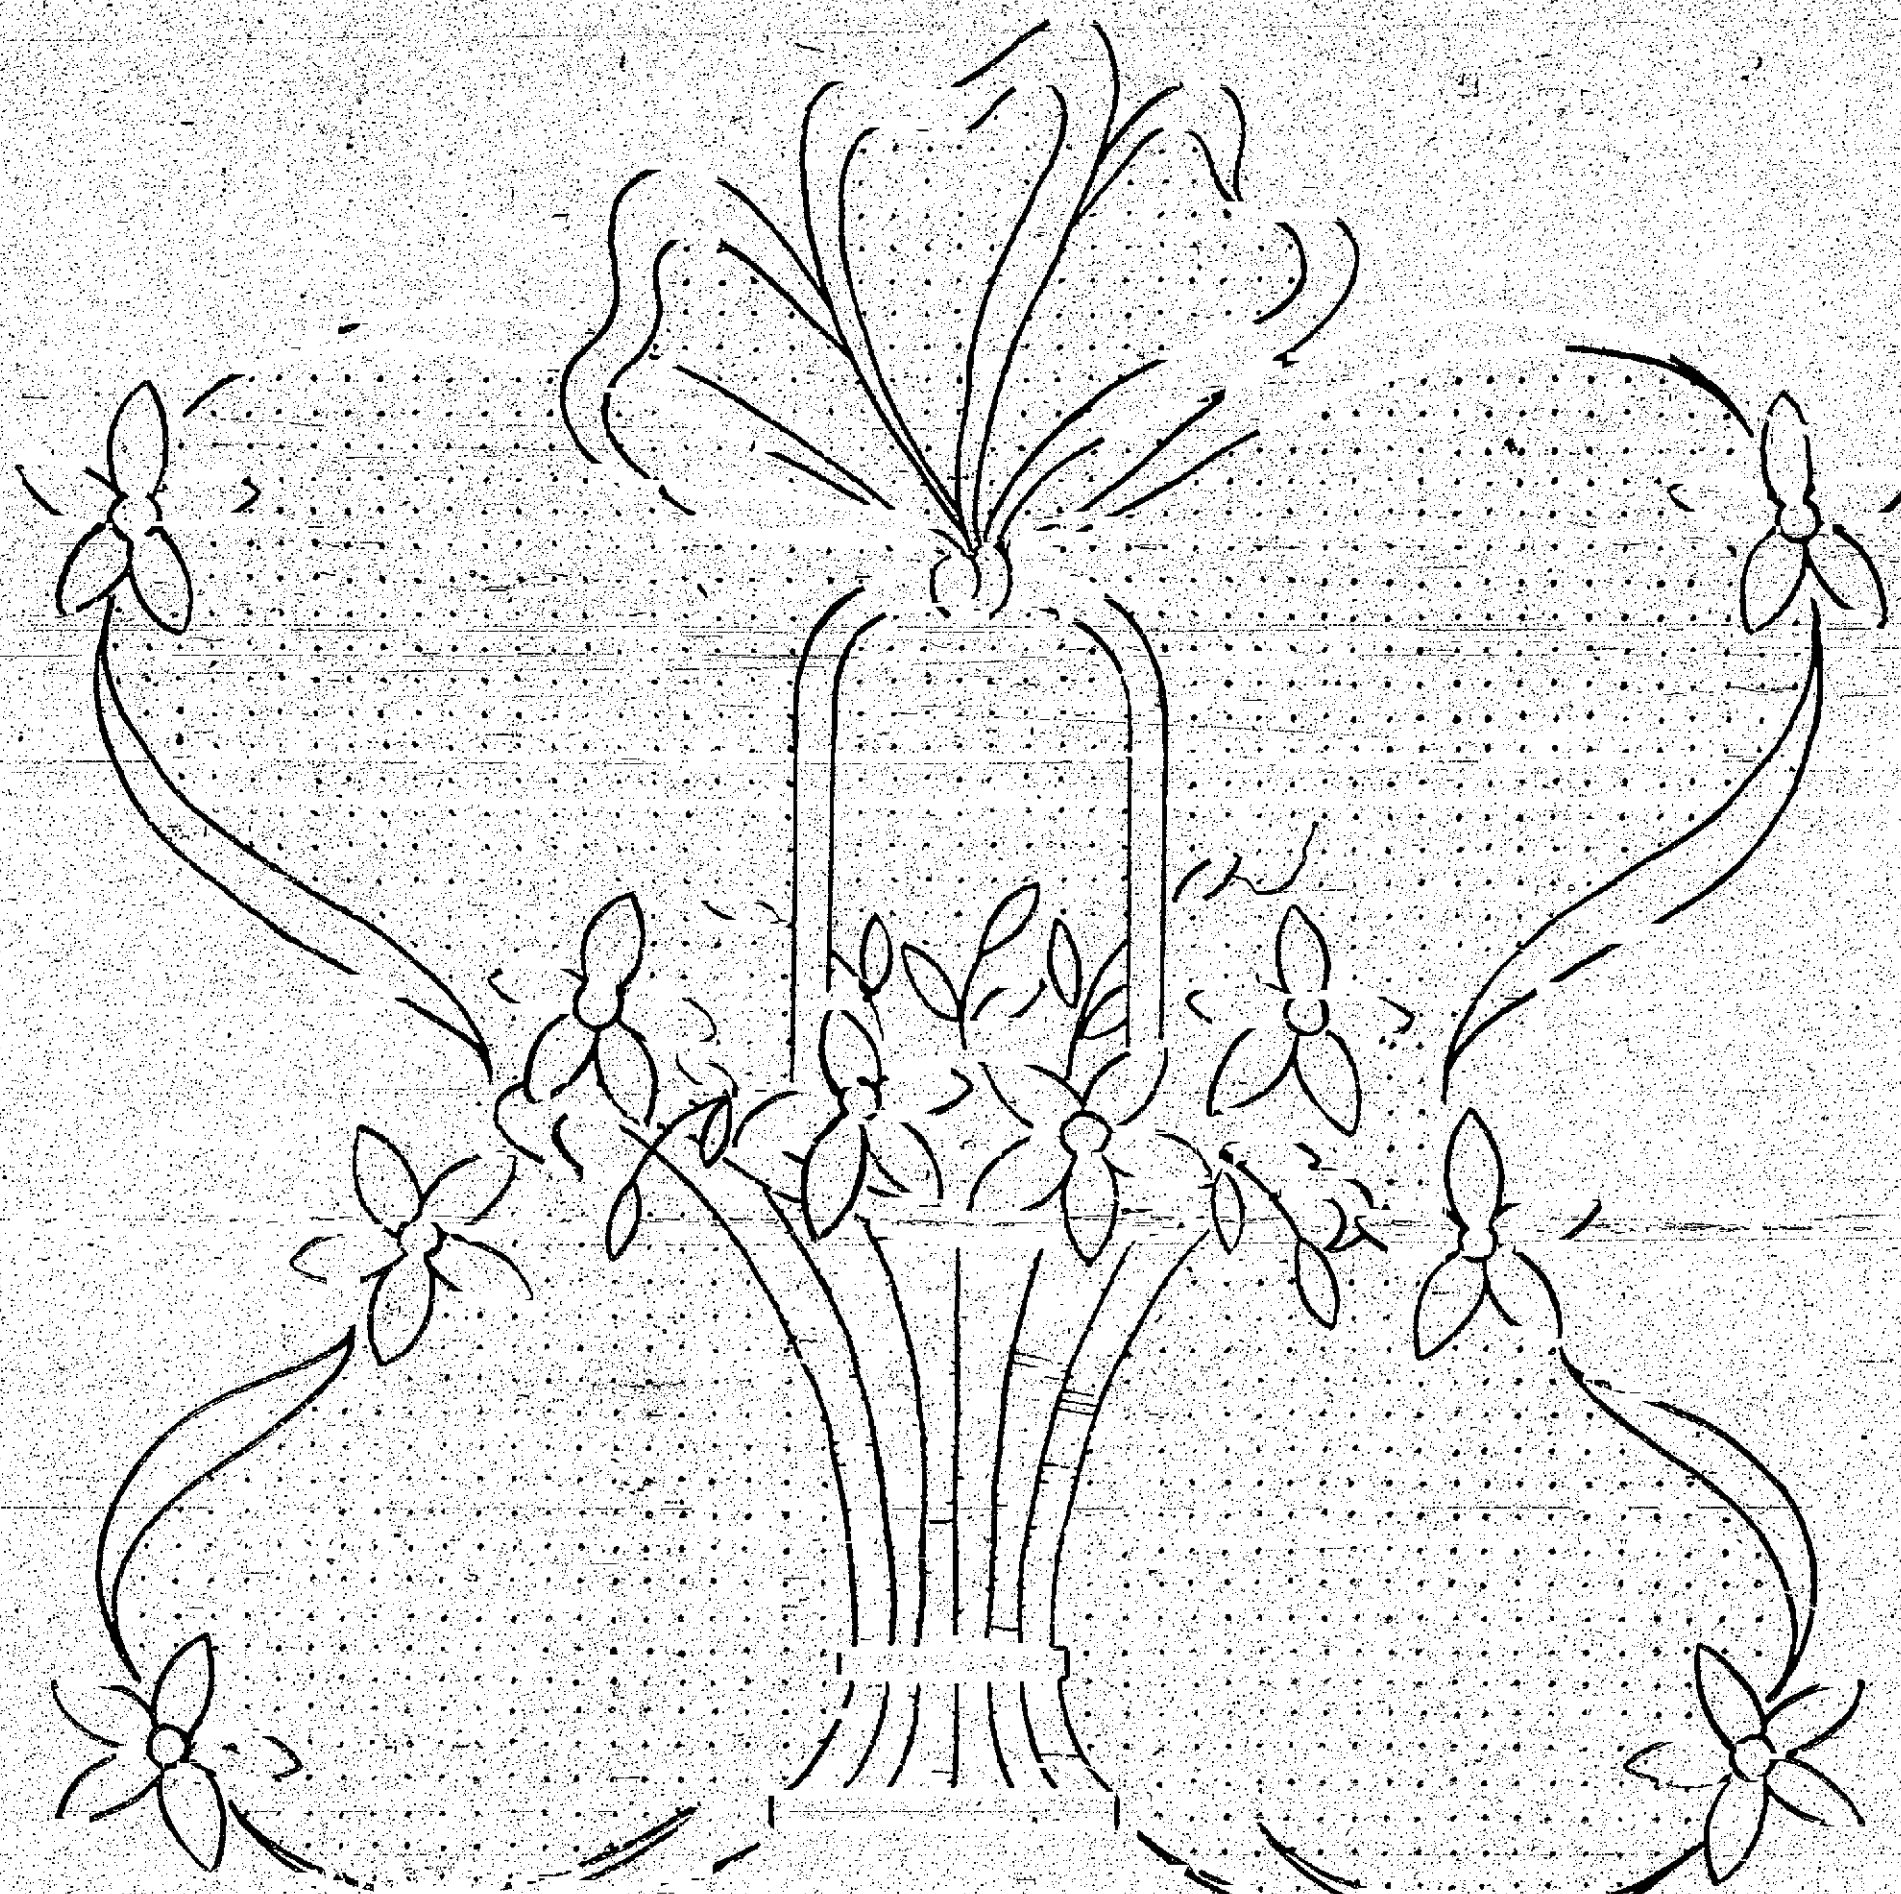

Designs for Infant Wear.

A. R.—A baby jacket design of rosebuds was published February 23, 1913. A very pretty bodice of crochet, with full directions for making was also given in this number.

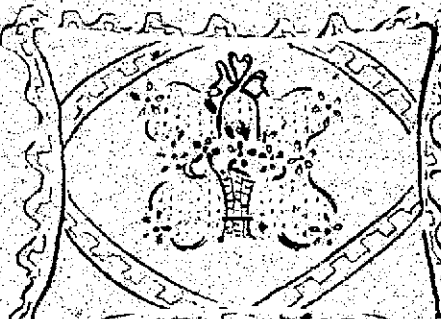

Other patterns for infant wear have been drawn and will be published sometime in the future.

Tattling.

E. W. T.—Tattling is sometimes done with a linen thread, a twilled lace thread being best. Silk too, is used for

A Charming Scarf for the Dressing Table

A Lingerie Pillow

The squares of embroidery can be put to so many practical uses and are just the right size to work with conveniently that they are deservedly popular. The pattern given consists of stitches that can be very effectively combined. The ribbon should be done in solid satin stitch, well padded. The leaves also should be carried ried out in raised satin stitch. Two stitches are used in making the basket, solid satin and basket stitch, while the flowers are done in Venetian embroidery. The punch work background throws the rest of the design into relief, making the squares a very effective piece of embroidery. Three squares joined with lace insertion and finished with lace edging make very attractive dresser-scarfs and a lingerie pillow to match can be readily constructed. Nine squares joined with cluny insertion and finished with a cluny edging would make a very handsome luncheon cloth. Buffet scarfs and table runners can also be made with these squares.

LEATHER-ENCASED

TRAVELING CONVENIENCES

Encased in leather so that germs cannot corrupt them are three conveniences which every traveler—man or woman—should have. One of them is a small purse holding a crystal bottle for smudging salts, aromatic spirits of ammonia or brandy. Another is a flat case containing a number of paper drinking cups, and a third is an envelope holding paper napkins.

SHADED COLORINGS

The shaded colorings that appeared in the leather trimmings that were used during the past season have appeared in a very novel form—that of a shaded straw. One gorgeous creation shown in the "Bagdad of America," as O. Henry calls New York, is of this shaded straw. It shaded from the darkest and richest shade of purple, through the new tone known as "dregs of wine," up to the palest tints of pinkish lavender. The heavier tones appeared on the softly rolled brim and the lighter tints on the crown. The ribbon and feathers that trimmed this hat were shaded in like fashion.

The new ribbons lend themselves very

NEW MATERIALS FOR

PILLOW TOPS

Moquette velours, new among pillow top fabrics is a lovely weave of softest coloring in Persian rug designs and, while a bit expensive, is reputed to wear indefinitely. Of equally attractive design and coloring are the squares of silk tapestry or silk damask that come in the various pillow sizes and somewhat more practical looking, are the tops of hand-tooled leather in Indian red, Chinese blue and Japanese tea green. A new material of the lam, desirable sort that is ideal for pillow tops and far from costly is an unfadable madras of lacy openwork weave. It comes in lovely shades of green, brown, blue, rose and gold; in two-toned effects and in combinations of brown with green or rose and of pale blue with gold or violet.

BULGARIAN COLORINGS

The war in the East has done more than cause a stir in politics, it has stirred up the world of fashions—something vastly important to the temple part of the community. It has caused an influx of color combinations peculiar to the East and has fairly revolutionized our ideas of what is decorative in dress. Vivid colorings and decided contrasts will be the rule this Spring. Many of the new trottoir hats show nifty little feather cockades of bright red, blue and yellow—all three colors appearing on the same ornament. One imported model of pale pink straw covered with chignon of the same color has velvet roses of all the vivid Bulgarian colors laid upon the brim. It sounds fantastic—but really it is very pretty. In line with these colorings are many of the effects shown in the material for the Spring and Summer gowns. Soft, fine white velvets and crepes are covered with brilliant looking all-over patterns of the Bulgarian embroideries. The Oriental shops, by the way, are the places to which to go for choice bits of this work for this import it in its original mat form which is so easily cut into strips to be used as trimming.

Alphabet.

Miss E. W.—Perforated patterns are no longer sold, but you can secure a copy of the paper containing the letters you wish and transfer them by means of impression paper.

The old English alphabet was published September 11, 1910. All copies of papers must be ordered by date of issue from the Circulation Department.

Corset Bag of Linen.

Miss E. G.—A very handsome corset bag may be made of linen, but the linen should be of a fine quality.

Make an oblong bag, French felling the seams, as it must be very neatly finished. Turn a hem of two and one-half inches and use this hem as the casing. The hem is done by hand, using the French hem; on the right side of the bag, two rows of fine leather stitching are embroidered at the base of the hem, in the center of one side of the Butterfly Centerpiece.

Mrs. B. L. G.—A centerpiece such as you suggest will be given in the future, and it will be made in as large a size as can be possible in the space allotted to patterns in the paper.

Am indeed glad to know that you use the patterns and that they all turn out so well for you.

Thanks for your words of appreciation and encouragement.

Leather Stenciling.

A. D.—Japanese transparent water colors can be used with good effect for stenciling on any kid finished leather. If the once leather is used, oil stains are then employed for the stenciling.

The color should always have the effect of being part of the material and not being painted upon it, and for this reason oil stain instead of oil paint is used. The oil stain is transparent and does not hide the texture of the leather.

The stencil should always be carefully wiped on both sides before using it for another motif, so that there will be no chance of any color clinging to it.

Patterns Not Sold.

Mrs. P. L. G.—Am very sorry not to comply with your request but perforated patterns are not sold. You can secure the designs by purchasing a paper and then transferring the pattern from the paper.

It would not be possible to publish an entire dresser scarf, as the space in the paper would not permit. When large patterns are given, only a section can be published. These designs are drawn so that the portion given can be repeated, and thus a complete pattern can be transferred from the section published.

Yoke Pattern.

Mrs. L. F.—Designs are not stamped on goods, neither are perforated patterns sold. You can only secure the pattern you wish by purchasing the paper in which it was published and there transfer directly from the paper by means of impression paper.

Low-Waisted Styles Prevail.

Little of the short-waisted Empire frock will be seen this year for children's waistlines have dropped lower than ever, and sashes and belts have to be held up by slashes in the frock or by tabs buttoned to it, to keep them from slipping completely over the hips. The low-waisted effect is suggested, also, by the Russian style of costume, excessively fashionable this season. A blouse falls loosely over a snugly fitting belt, located several inches below the normal waistline. This effect is especially fashionable in serge and gingham frocks for young girls in the early teens; and sometimes with these go flowing sailor ties of black silk. One suit is of blue and white tub silk and is accompanied by a dark blue tie; another suit of white and cream silk has a tie of warm amber silk. A gala suit is of red and white tub silk, with a red necktie and white collar embroidered with red anchors. The suit de luxe, however, is one of white fall silk, embroidered on collar and sleeve with white cherubs and having a tie of pale blue surah.

THE PLAY HOUSES

JOHN DREW

Who Comes to the Grand Opera House Tomorrow Night, in "The Perplexed Husband."

John Drew Tomorrow

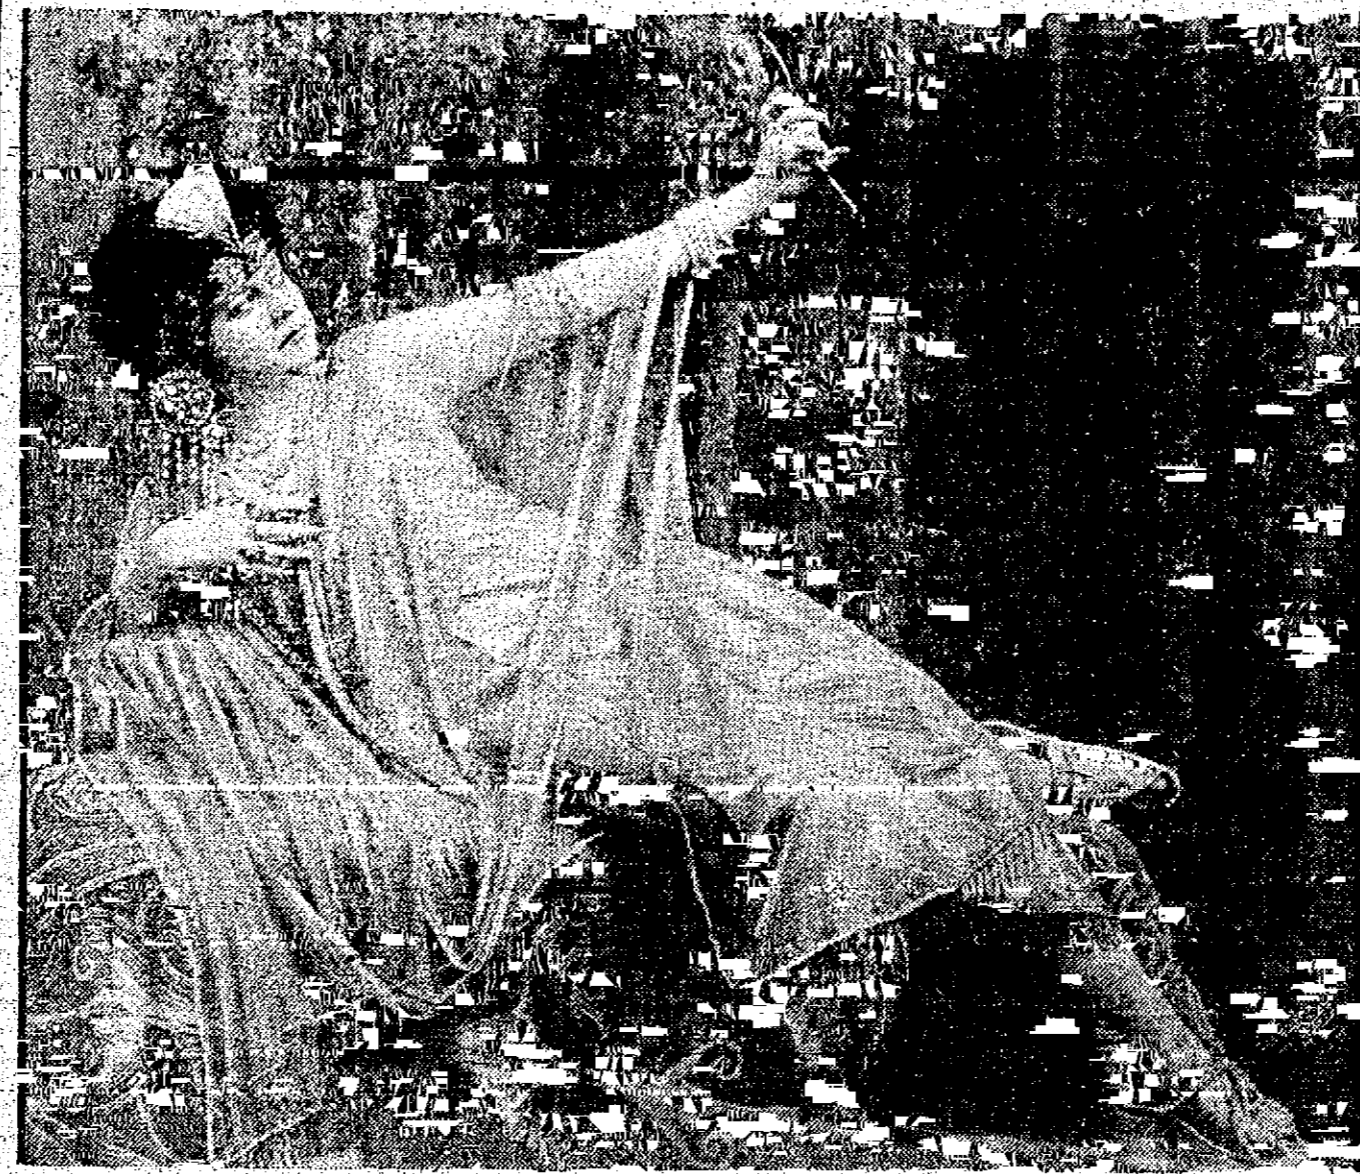

John Drew will be seen at the Grand Opera House tomorrow night, in "The Perplexed Husband," a comedy in four acts by Alfred Sutor, which recently played successful engagements at the Empire theater, New York, and met with approbation from the press and Mr. Drew's public. Mr. Sutor came over from England, where this comedy enjoyed enormous success, and staged it himself with a decided care for finish and detail.

"The Perplexed Husband" is a frank satire of the women's suffrage movement, at both sides are given a fair hearing, and the types of moderns played by distinguished artists, are easily recognizable. Mr. Drew is seen in his best comedy manner, and also has a chance in several scenes to portray intense emotion.

A London tea merchant, commonplace and happy, returns from a month's trip to find his home invaded by a fat "master" and a fanatical disciple of the feminist cause, which his wife has embraced since his absence. She has decided to cease being a doll, a parasite, and a plaything, and is determined to "live her own life." Her husband

James J. Corbett Heads Empress Bill

James J. Corbett, former heavy-weight champion boxer of the world, gentleman, actor and all-round favorite, will be the headline attraction at the Empress theater during the coming week. Mr. Corbett is unquestionably one of the most scientific boxers the world has ever known. And he is a product of the Pacific coast, too. His reputation ought to be one of the most flattering of his entire career. He will offer a monologue of part sayings and stories of his remarkable meteoric career. Always a gentleman, Mr. Corbett has earned the sobriquet of "Gentleman Jim," a name that has stuck to him since his fight with John L. Sullivan. Very naturally, he is a finely built man, with a wonderfully magnetic personality.

"Be the son your mother thinks you are," is the advice given young men by James J. Corbett. Mr. Corbett's address to the junior members of the Young Men's Christian association at New York was a subject of a recent editorial in the New York Journal. His splendid advice to the youngsters was the source of much comment in the metropolis.

George Palmer Moore and Florence Elliott, two well-known legitimate players, will present "A Marital Substitution" at the Empress during the coming week. The act is a big comedy sketch said to fairly reek with laughter and subtle comedy lines. The Newark Evening News had this to say of the sketch when it played there: "A Marital Substitution" was played by George Palmer Moore and Florence Elliott, is one of the best acts that has ever appeared here. Both are accomplished artists.

Frank Pierce and Alice Mace are delightful entertainers who supply the wholesome style of entertainment vaudeville patrons seem to crave. Both are young and good looking. Their specialties are of the modern sort, full of life and spirit. Alice Mace is a bright, winsome little comedienne, with some fine songs and dances. Mr. Pierce is a clever light comedian with a pleasing personality.

A welcome addition to the forthcoming week's bill at the Empress will be Grant Gardner, known as "The Merry Music Box." Mr. Gardner is a black face comedian and a clever instrumentalist. One of those natural born comedians whose every word is funny, including of course, his facial expressions. It is said that the man afflicted with groncheritis will fall for Gardner's stuff.

Campbell will present a singing novelty said to be both new and dandy. They run the gamut of most all nations in their songs and characterizations. The act is a perfect costume and has been a very popular one along the circuit.

There is a really funny actress in the tugging act called "Fort Nowhere." Her name is Laura Roth and she is programmed as the girl with a touch of madness. Laura acts as an assistant to one Al Espe, whose forte is teasing couples of men up in the air and allowing said ladies to drop on his mainly good. Espe does his juggling stunt well and is a nice looking lad, who wears the garb of Uncle Sam, a la khaki, while his partner is fussing around kicking up dices.

Empress Shows Celebrated Pictures

"Cleopatra" is one of the most superb dramatic expressions ever achieved by the motion picture art. The work of the artist throughout the production is everywhere evident. An entire city of film is used to project the picture, consisting of five parts. The picture is the result of an outlay of more than $25,000. Three months were necessary for its rehearsal. The scenery and its settings are rare. Even to the costumes an artistic taste seldom achieved in motion pictures is accomplished. Miss Helen Gardner as Cleopatra at times wears gorgeous gowns, draperies and rare jewels. Many of the weavers of her costumes are helms from the sixteenth century in Egypt, thus appropriately giving a touching hint in accordance with the supposed surroundings of the drama's scene.

It cannot be said that the production of "Cleopatra" is realistic. The producers did not intend that it should be considered as such. But it does convey great expression, admiration, beauty. It is a romantic idealization of "Cleopatra." It attracts and interests through its beauty, thought, pictorial arrangement and dramatic nature. The picture in itself is an inspiration for those inspiring qualities in womanhood, seldom understood by men. Pictured is the remarkable romance of a wonderful woman.

The picture begins with the time that "Cleopatra" had begun on her Egyptian throne ten years after she had been placed there by Caesar. As history teaches, this queen has been tormented throughout her early life. She had, however, gained a firm foundation and her great moral strength brought her through many trials. But she made her fatal mistake, that of ordering her ships to turn away at Actium even though the tide of battle was against her. Her lover, Marc Antony, "It was her fear—a beautiful woman's fear—that she might lose the man she loved and become a lesser thing to the man than power, his great idolatry."

Miss Gardiner portrays "Cleopatra" in a wonderfully real manner. It would probably tax the artistic powers of Sarah Bernhardt to take the place. Miss Gardiner's wonderful powers of execution are shown to best advantage in the final film, when as a prisoner of Octavius, and Antony dead by his own hand, she bows to the god of love, thrusts a serpent in her bosom, which stings her to death.

Producers did not intend that it should be considered as such. But it does convey great expression, admiration, beauty. It is a romantic idealization of "Cleopatra." It attracts and interests through its beauty, thought, pictorial arrangement and dramatic nature. The picture in itself is an inspiration for those inspiring qualities in womanhood, seldom understood by men. Pictured is the remarkable romance of a wonderful woman.

"Buntz Pulls the String"

A realistic picture of Scottish village life, is offered in "Buntz Pulls the String." Graham Moffat's famous play, which will be at the Grand Opera house on Tuesday, April 8. The effect that "Buntz" produces on one is very much similar to that produced by James Matthew Barrie's "Auld Licht Tales" and by the tender, humorous and distinctive annals of Ian McLaren. "Buntz" is the masterful result of a penetrating observation of the lives, emotions, thoughts and impulses of the people of a little Highland village which the author chooses to call Lintiehaugh. They have a rigorous regard for the law of the kirk, have those Lintiehaugh folk. With them it is all but supreme.

Pervading the whole picture is a quiet, gentle humor, the humor of the provincial soil, not always, not generally, on the surface—what treasure is presented with such a compelling forcefulness that it is an unmitigated delight. That peculiar combination of austerity and playfulness, of "closeness" and openheartedness, that marks the Scottish character are depicted in "Buntz Pulls the String" with an artistry that is classic.

But, after all, "Buntz" is a world

Gossip of Plays and Players

Told in Paragraphs

Mr. Hodge rehearses "Regardless." In Plainfield, where Mr. William Hodge began his first season under Shubert management in "The Road to Happiness" last week, the citizens have voted that this star is the original "I should worry" man. Mr. Hodge and his company arrived in Plainfield on the night previous to the opening only to find that the last dress rehearsal would have to be given without the second act scenery. This did not turn up till the following morning and was put in place for the matinee performance.

Mr. Hodge and his company were greeted by an overflow Washington birthday audience and there was no end of enthusiasm as the curtain fell on the first act. Five, 10, 15, 20 minutes passed with no evidence of the curtain ascending, after which the orchestra members fell back limp from overexertion. For the next 10 minutes the audience filled in by resorting to the rural expedient of stamping the feet in unison. Still the asbestos stuck. Finally the lights were lowered and the audience got action. The delay was caused because Mr. Hodge, who staged the play, wanted to rehearse the second act with scenery, and he did so at the expense of the audience and a holiday audience at that. Mr. Hodge should worry.

Here is another, John E. Henshaw story. When the mule cars in Jacksonville, Florida, were replaced with modern electric, an oldtime darkey watched the first car go by with a great deal of interest. "Tim-m-sh, dem Tankers sho' is cypus folks," he mused, "fus-dey cum down yar ep manipulate de nigger an den dey cum down and manipulate de mule."

Frances Starr played "The Case of Becky" for the first time on any stage in Washington more than a year ago, and followed this by a week in Baltimore. In both cities she scored an enormous hit. Just starting on a long tour, she is once more playing in the same cities, and the best testimony, both to her art and wide popularity, is the fact that the large records for her original appearances have been eclipsed. Miss Starr is acclaimed everywhere as showing far greater versatility than any of the younger actresses on the American stage.

Doggie Carries Life Insurance

Snoozelums, the little roly-poly white dog that plays an important part in "Excuse Me," has just had his life insured for $1,000. It came about in this way: Snoozelums wandered away from the protecting arms of Geraldine O'Brien recently, and for something like three hours the company was in a panic. It was Miss O'Brien who finally saved the day—or rather, the evening's performance.

Knowing Snoozelums' habits, she got a taxi and made a tour of the butcher shops. At last the dog was located, perched in a butcher's leather-seated chair, nibbling dainty tid-bits dropped to him by the delighted butcher boy.

The manager of the company concluded he would rest easier in the future if Snoozelums' life were insured, so a policy was taken out for $1,000. A rare heart-shaped emerald pendant and other jewelry, valued intrinsically at $5,000, sentimentally beyond valuation, were stolen from Miss Ethel Barrymore (Mrs. Russell Griswold Colt) last Monday night at the new Shoreham hotel. The thief entered the room during the absence of Miss Barrymore, at Chase's theater, where she is appearing this week in "The Twelve-Pound Look."

College Men throughout the country will be interested to know that Thomas Archibald II, who became widely known for his skill as an amateur actor during his years at Yale university, is making his professional debut in the Shubert production of "Romance" at Maxine Elliott's theater.

One of the practical demonstrations which Lillian Russell is scheduled to give in her beauty lectures, and which will be given for the purpose of illustrating the ancient theory that beauty unadorned is the greatest beauty after all, will consist in throwing aside her play just as much as it is a Scotch play. The Scotch part of it is pretty much a matter of background. There are duplicates of the simple folk of Lintiehaugh the world over. That is why "Buntz Pulls the String" is so general in its appeal.

"Buntz Pulls the String" was such a tremendous success in London and New York that it has whetted the public desire everywhere to see it. And it is promised that there is keen enjoyment in store for Colorado Springs theatergoers when the famous play with all its all-Scotch cast of 18 people, hand-picked by Mr. Moffat, the author himself, reaches this city. Already the mail orders are pouring in on the management of the Grand Opera house, where the play will be presented.

million dollars' worth of jewels, showing the contrast in a simple gown. But Miss Russell should not lose sight of the fact that all women are not natural beauties, and in some cases $1,000,000 worth of gems—or even a paste dog collar—helps a lot.

Mrs. Maggie Braver, who is now playing in her nineteenth season the character of Aunt Tilly in "The Old Homestead," has been on the stage 46 years.

"And I'm still young enough to play Juliet or Viola," she declares, "though the youth is just in my heart." Mrs. Braver made her debut as the "chimey fairy" with Charles Coudock in "The Cricket on the Hearth." While still in her teens she married the well-known English actor, John F. Breyer, grandson of that Breyer who played Lord Hastings to Garrick's Shore in Rowe's "Jane Shore."

Mr. and Mrs. Braver played for many years in their own production of Shakespearean plays, and their son, Avon Breyer, recently in the New York cast of "The Fortune Hunter," was one of the child actors in their company.

Werba and Luescher will present their new $25,000 star, Eddie Foy, in the latest comedy novelty, "Over the River," at the Grand Opera House on April 14. Foy is one of this country's greatest favorites, and comes here with an organization of over 75 players and his new $50,000 production that has the talk of New York, during its six months' run on Broadway. It is said that Eddie Foy in this production is surrounded with enough scenery, girls and stylish costumes to furnish two musical shows.

In addition to the popular Foy, the piece has several sensational novelties. It has a realistic "barber" scene in the first act, a duplicate of one of the wildest fashionable midnight restaurants in New York. The plot of the story starts in an all-night party being given here by a wealthy man about town, and develops into a wonderful humorous story when the man finds himself sentenced to 30 days "over the river," with the necessity of keeping it a secret from his family for that time.

Mr. Foy has the role of the unlucky clubman, and his appearance in prison stripes during the second act is said to make the funniest of all the funny figures Eddie has ever presented to his admiring audiences.

It has been said that Eddie Foy could sing a church hymn and set an audience roaring with laughter. In his latest New York success, he has a supply of "catchy" comedy songs to keep his admirers applauding through all the three acts. Mr. Foy will bring with him a company of singers and dancers, including the famous "Berlin Madcaps," an octet of expert dancers who were starred at the famous Winter Garden in Berlin before being imported for this production.
